Some Western News.
Mr. Boeing's New Plane.
Mexico's Rest for the Weary.
Cheap Money—Bad Sign.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, March 21.

TWO pieces of news here. Bribing jurors spreads from East to the West. Men accused of public robbery through a swindling oil company simply bought their way out of trouble by bribing jurymen. The Los Angeles Examiner supplied the facts.

It would be interesting to know how big a part that system plays in our "justice," and to what extent it accounts for the fact that the rich man is usually not convicted.

A GASOLINE war cuts prices as low as thirteen and a half cents. Big companies say they know nothing about it.

THE real gasoline war is one of service. Standard Oil amazed you by training gasoline station men not to accept a tip, after giving you air and water free, scrubbing your windshield and inquiring for your health, even though you bought no gasoline.

DETERDING, of the Shell Company, improves on that. When you drive up to one of his stations, two men spring out, one on each side of you, and if you only want to know where McCadden avenue is, they beam with delight as they give the information, and, if you choose, will go with you. That's modern gas service.

INTERESTING sight on the United Aircraft Flying Field at Burbank, at the edge of Los Angeles, yesterday.

W. E. Boeing, upon whose air genius C. E. Mitchell, of the National City Bank, built his biggest aircraft company, was on hand trying a new machine not yet named.

All metal monoplane with fuselage above the short wings, it flew 170 miles an hour and climbed almost as straight as an elevator shaft.

IT has a Pratt-Whitney Wasp engine, a Hamilton propeller. Eddy Bellandi, the pilot, said he could start it in a 100-foot lot. Mr. Boeing, who knows more about airplanes than most men, thinks there is something new for fliers in that machine.

CHARLES E. MITCHELL, and everybody interested in flying should see the new United Aircraft flying field and terminal here, most modern, probably the finest in the world. The landing and starting runways point in every direction for all possible winds, with 3,000,000 square feet of soft elastic pavement, equivalent to more than 60 miles of ordinary paved road.

On the sides of the paved runways alfalfa fields kept cut down to 10 inches will offer a soft carpet on which small planes may land.

It is fortunate that some big pocketbooks are interesting themselves in flying. It needs money.

JACK NORTHROP, head of the Northrop Aircraft Company, a unit of United Aircraft, designed the new plane shown today.

Watch that auburn-haired young American, he may surprise the world's airplane builders.

WHILE wets and the drys discuss prohibition, many high spirited Americans, sitting comfortably in automobiles, are on their way south to the Mexican border.

Just across the line they find Tia Juana, hospitable Mexican village, with a bar two hundred feet long, excellent beer at a low price, ready to entertain the hoi-polloi. A little farther on smooth roads take the thirsty traveler to the new and magnificently appointed resort, Agua Caliente, arranged to appeal to the Brahmin tourist class.

THE stream of cars pouring southward reminds you of traffic at Michigan and Madison in Chicago, or Fifty-seventh and Park avenue in New York.

All those southbound cars take American money to a very ably managed Mexican resort, with good music, good food, excellent French and other wines at reasonable prices.

In the Casino you may lose as much as you choose. Part of it is accessible only to those wearing "evening dress."

Fine golf links, and one of the finest race courses in the world, offering this week the world's biggest purse for one horse race, $150,000, are part of Agua Caliente's attractions.

It is said the Mexican government will abolish all gambling within the republic. Probably, however, an exception will be made in favor of thirsty Americans with a taste for roulette, baccarat, and similar mental relaxation. They are bound to get rid of their money somewhere, why not hand it to our Mexican friends? Some of it is spent for roads, some for good schools.

THIS Western country reads with interest that the "call money" interest rate in New York is 2 per cent today and what explains the sudden drop from 15 and 20 per cent to 2 per cent. There is no such cheap

Gang Leader, Accompanied By Attorney and Guard, Talks With Police Chief

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.) — "Scarface" Al Capone surrendered to Chicago police today and was in conconference with Chief of Detectives Stege shortly before 2 o'clock.

The gang leader gave himself up, accompanied by Attorney Thomas D. Nash. Nash had informed Stege Capone was willing to talk to him, provided he was not put in jail.

Nash and Capone were accompanied by Phil Deandre, described as a Capone henchman.

STOPS IN M'KEES ROCKS

McKees Rocks unofficially claims the distinction of having entertained "Scarface Al" Capone. The Chicago racketeer chief spent an afternoon and evening at an Island avenue hotel, those who know all about the borough's social activities say.

He arrived Wednesday afternoon and departed in the evening. Friends and curious who met him did not ask embarrassing question, but it was presumed he was headed Chicago-ward and was traveling in an armored limousine. The hotel proprietor who was pointed out as his host is "verifying nothing."

MIAMI, Fla., March 21.—(AP.)—Petition for writs of habeas corpus, filed by six men arrested last night following a raid on the winter home of Al Capone near Miami Beach, were denied here today by Judge H. F. Atkinson.

$450,000 Left By Taft; Widow Files Petition

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(INS.) — William Howard Taft, former president and chief justice of the United States, who died March 8, left an estate valued at $475,000, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed by the widow, Mrs. Helen H. Taft, in Probate Court today.

The petition informed the court Mr. Taft held personal property, including stocks and bonds and other effects of the approximate value of $350,000, and real estate in Canada and the local residence of the approximate value of $125,000.

The court was told the $10,000 legacy to Yale University was paid before Mr. Taft died and $2,500 of the $5,000 bequest to the foundation of the Taft School at Watertown, Conn., also had been paid.

Col. Samuel M. Evans, 87, Civil War veteran and for more than 15 years superintendent of Memorial Hall, died today at his home in Cathedral Mansions, Bellefield.

Col. Evans had been ill for two months, although he was at his office as recently as Monday. He saw service of more than three years in the Civil War. He was a member of the Union Veterans Legion.

G.O.P. UPSET BY PHILLIPS' CANDIDACY

Butlerite Out for Governor On Anti-Dry Platform; Leaders to Meet Mellon

Pennsylvania Republican primary campaign was further tangled today. Outstanding developments were:

1—Thomas M. Phillips, of Butler enters the race for governor on an anti-dry platform. The Pennsylvania Association Against the Prohibition Amendment promised him its full support.

2—Samuel S. Lewis issued a qualified denial that he was withdrawing as a candidate for governor.

3—The Davis-Brown slate, tentatively adopted last night, was to be completed today at a conference of James J. Davis, Francis Shunk Brown and William S. Vare, in Philadelphia.

4—Davis activity grows in Western Pennsylvania, while Grundy-Lewis action awaits a conference here between the candidates, the Mellons and others.

Chaos in Republican state politics has been increased by Thomas M. Phillips, Jr., of Butler, who announced in Philadelphia he would seek the nomination for governor on an anti-prohibition platform.

Phillips ran four years ago on an anti-dry platform.

His statement insists on the removal of the prohibition question from politics.

His entry, announced last night, makes the governor's race a five-cornered free-for-all, the other candidates being former Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown, former State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis, former Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Judge J. Ambler Williams, of Montgomery County.

The return of W. S. Vare from Florida to his Philadelphia home yesterday was regarded as a decided move in launching Davis' campaign.

CONFERENCES MONDAY

Local leaders expect little openfield activity in the state political situation until the completion of conferences of state and national figures that are scheduled to begin here next Monday.

The conferees, it was predicted, would be Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon; his nephew, W. L. Mellon, former Republican state chairman; Senator Joseph R. Grundy, running to succeed

CORP. PAUL'S KILLING LAID TO MOORE

'Forget Age and Sex,' Says Prosecution; 'Leave Out Vengeance,' Counsel Begs

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 21. — Impassioned pleas for mercy alternated with demands for the death penalty today as counsel made closing arguments in the trial of Irene Schroeder for the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul. Acquittal was not asked.

"Who but Private Ernest Moore fired the fatal shot?" shouted Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, for the defense, in launching a bitter attack on the officer who was wounded at the time Paul was mortally wounded in the Butler-New Castle road, December 27.

SCRIPTURES QUOTED

"The wages of sin is death," quoted District Attorney John S. Powers, from the Scriptures, in asking the extreme penalty of the law against the blonde waitress. "'He that taketh the sword shall perish by the sword.' It makes no difference what this defendant's age and sex may be. Do your clear duty."

"She is one of God's unfortunate's," cried Attorney Benjamin Jarrett, pleading for Irene's life. "She has never had the chance most of you have had. Her mind has not acted normally since she suffered a fall on her head in early childhood."

Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti was to present the final argument for the commonwealth. He was to be followed by the charge to the jury by Judge R. L. Hildebrand, with likelihood that the blonde's fate would be placed in the hands of the two women and 10 men comprising the jury tonight or tomorrow morning.

FEAR CHARGE

Dickey followed District Attorney Powers' cool, analytical summary of the case with a virulent attack on Private Moore, who, he charged, had failed to do his duty when his superior, Paul, had ordered him to draw his gun.

"This officer (Moore) cowered," declared Dickey. "He ran when told to draw his gun and crouched, shivering, in front of the car, finally shooting wildly. He doesn't know what happened to those shots

THUGS BIND 2, KIDNAP GIRL

A girl was kidnaped and thrown from an automobile on a lonely road, an elderly woman and her employe were threatened with torture, and a merchant was robbed by two bandits in the northern section of the county last night. An intensive manhunt by state police and county officers failed to apprehend the daring pair.

Mrs. Olive Van Velsor, of Bakerstown, white-haired owner of many thoroughbred dogs, and Durwood Rarick, 19, her kennelman, were locked in a closet for more than an hour after the bandits failed in a search for $30,000 in diamonds. The gems are in a safe deposit vault in Pittsburgh.

"Durwood showed the two some dogs they said they were interested in, during the afternoon, and they promised to re-

Spring Makes Chilly Debut in Pittsburgh

Although the sun crossed the equator at 3:30 a. m. today, officially ushering in Spring, Pittsburghers experienced chills of a winter nature when they left their homes. And the weather man, disregarding the day of the year and the bright sunshine, predicted there would be snow some time during the day. But it will be warmer tomorrow, he said.

Crossing of the equator by the sun is known in scientific circles as the vernal equinox, and causes the length of the day and night to be equal throughout the world.

FIVE INDICTED IN JAIL FAKE

ERIE, Pa., March 21.—The federal grand jury here today indicted Attorney Samuel Y. Rossiter and four others on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the substitution of a prisoner in the Erie jail.

The others indicted were Joe Jarvis, alias Petrone, the substitute prisoner; Joseph Donovan, auto dealer, bondsman; Lester Beals, alias Fred Black, a friend Beals, alias Fred Black, a friend of Jarvis, and Stanley Wells, reputed rum runner for whom Jarvis went to jail.

The hoax was discovered after Wells was reported seen on the streets when he was supposed to be in jail.

Following the arrest of the man said to be Wells, Jarvis appeared in court at Pittsburgh posing as Wells, pleaded guilty and was sentenced under Wells' name to 60 days in the Erie jail.

Attorney Rossiter represented Wells at a preliminary hearing in Erie, but did not appear in Pittsburgh Federal Court when Jarvis pleaded guilty.

Paul Malie, 8, is home today at 2301 Brownsville road, rear, and payment remained due on the South Side Hospital bill alleged to have been held over his parents before the boy would be released.

Mrs. Elizabeth Malie, the mother, charged hospital authorities demanded arrangement be made for settlement of an $85 bill last night. An uncle, Albert Tusch, said Miss Sally E. Hasting, a clerk, yesterday afternoon informed him financial arrangements would have to be made before Paul could be released.

The hospital denied these charges today. The boy had been admitted on March 4 as a result of being struck by an automobile alleged driven by Frank Lostetter, of 1919 Fairland avenue, Carrick.

Mellie Saves Wife, Self, Loses 'Fiddles' in Fire

NORWAY, ME., March 21.—(AP.)—Maine's champion fiddler, "Grandpa Mellie" Dunham, who became famous in 1925 when he was invited to Dearborn, Mich., to play for Henry Ford and through the latter's efforts won a vaudeville contract, lost all of his prized "fiddles" and many other cherished possessions early today when fire destroyed his century-old farmhouse on Crockett's Ridge.

"Grandpa Mellie" and his helpmate, "Gram," escaped from the flaming farmhouse with their three grandchildren. Mrs. Dunham discovered the fire about 2 a. m. and awoke her husband and the children.

Assisted by "Gram," Mellie dressed and took a number of letters sent him by Henry Ford, a gold key given him by the city of Boston and a gold pin presented to him by former Governor Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, as he made his way from the blazing structure.

Mellie estimated the value of the "fiddles," relics and antiques, at $5,000.

Mellie is 77 and Gram 72. The fire was said to have started from a defective chimney.

U. S., BRITAIN AND JAPAN PREPARING 3-POWER PACT

Americans See Slim Hope For Five-Nation Treaty; Briand Goes Back to Paris

By HARRY B. FLORY
International News Service.

LONDON, March 21.—With hope of reconciling the naval differences of France and Italy rapidly diminishing, delegates to the London naval conference today launched their first serious discussion of a three-power disarmament treaty.

Chief delegates of the United States, Great Britain and Japan held lengthy conferences this morning. It was openly admitted the American delegation is anxious to push formulation of a tri-partite agreement which would be convertible into a five-power treaty whenever the Italians and French settle their difference.

This settlement may, in the words of an American spokesman, come during the tenure of the present conference. Or it may be elsewhere at some future time.

AWAIT JAPANESE

It now appears virtually certain, however, that this five-power conference will disband with only a tri-partite agreement as its achievement. Two niches will be left in the treaty for France and Italy to slide into their places when they are ready.

Definite formulation of a three-power agreement awaits the Japanese government's approval of the American-Japanese compromise agreement, when this is received, probably not before Monday, the British, Japanese and American delegates will round up the most satisfactory tri-partite treaty that is possible.

The Americans have a faint hope that this three-power activity may spur the French and Italians into action, and they cling to a prayer that a five-power agreement may yet materialize here.

BRIAND IN PARIS

Foreign Minister Briand has gone to Paris and now Francois Pietri and Jacques Dumesnil, of the French delegation, are to join him tonight, leaving only Ambassador De Fleuriau in London. This does not mean withdrawal of the delegation from the conference, however, officials insisted.

Tardieu to Stay in Paris Until Parley Takes Action

PARIS, March 21.—(INS.)—Premier Andre Tardieu of France is "quite ready" to return to the London naval conference, but he will not brave another channel crossing "until there is something to go for," he is reported to have told Foreign Minister Aristide Briand today.

M. Briand furnished his Premier with a lengthy report of the London negotiations at a meeting at the ministry of the interior. The shaggy foreign minister, it was reported, was pessimistic.

Official circles here are most disappointed over the results of M. Tardieu's last London visit. His conversation with Premier MacDonald and Secretary Stimson last Sunday, it is understood, were aimed at bringing about a new Anglo-American proposal to Italy.

The French are surprised that no new proposal has been submitted by Britain and America to the Italian delegates.

Bill Asks $75,000,000 Loan to Needy China

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—The Federal Farm Board revolving fund would be drawn on to purchase $75,000,000 worth of flour for shipment to destitute regions of China for distribution to the starving population under a bill introduced by Representative Summers (Rep.), of Washington.

The bill provides that the Chinese government would repay the amount within 10 years.

Legislation to appropriate $25,000,000 for the purchase of wheat for distribution in China is pending in the Senate.

Light Ray Alarm For Prison Shown

BOSTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Electric eyes for prisons are the latest suggestion. In a model demonstrated by Westinghouse engineers a prisoner crept up a wall and when he crossed a ray of light a pistol, automatically fired on him and an alarm went off.

turn to see me, in the evening," Mrs. Van Velsor said in relating her experience.

SEARCH HOUSE

"Shortly after dusk they came back. I invited them into the house. Durwood was just about to leave for the village. One of the men was tall, the other short, and nervously humorous. The tall man was steadier, more polite.

"'This,' they said, 'is a hold-up. Hand over them rocks.'

"I didn't know what they meant. 'Aw,' the short one said, 'give us them diamonds you've been wearing.'

"The diamonds, worth about $30,000, I guess, are always kept in a safe deposit vault in Pittsburgh. When I told them this, they didn't believe me. They threatened to burn my feet until I told where they were hidden.

"When I didn't tell, though, they decided to search the house instead of torturing me. They overlooked silverware, trophies, furs, anything that might identify them later. I had little money in the house."

Mrs. Van Velsor told how she and Rarick were bound and gagged with adhesive tape and clothes line. They were locked in an upstairs clothes-closet for more than an hour.

"I could just move my fingers enough to untie Durwood. Then he released me, and we broke down the door," she said.

CUT PHONE WIRES

She described the bandits.

"I've seen both of them. I told them I'd seen them before, I thought at a dog show.

"'Well,' the short one said, 'maybe we have been around.'

"Before leaving, they cut telephone wires."

State police are attempting to trace the men by means of a receipt from a mining company's store which they dropped.

Only a few miles away, in the mining community of Bairdsford what police say may have been the same pair held up George F. Miller, Russelton druggist, and his Bairdsford branch manager, Miss Alda Sabatini, 21, of Russelton, taking the girl on a terrifying ride over the countryside before they forced her from the car and fled, on foot, themselves.

"Every evening, about 7:30, Mr. Miller calls for me," the girl said. "We had just entered his car, when a man asked for a lift. He forced himself in and placed a gun against Mr. Miller's back. Then the other one came up and pointed a stick at me.

TAKE CASH, LEAVE CAR

"They made us drive down the Little Deer Creek Valley road for about a half mile, and turn into a cinder road leading west. Then Mr. Miller was forced out and robbed and the gun was turned on me.

"They didn't hurt me. When they told me to get out and walk, near Bardoni on the Butler road, I grabbed the keys to the car. They emptied the money from the cash box of the Bairdsford store and walked down the road.

"Before they left, I heard one say to the other: "I hope he's there, as though they were to meet someone. Then the state police came.

"They got about $50 from Mr. Miller, and about $100 from the cash box."

Miss Sabatini was held up about four months ago, she says, but not by the same men.

Farmer Killed by Pig on Way to Slaughter

MONROE, N. C., March 21.—(AP.)—S. B. Thompson, 50, farmer, died from injuries received yesterday when a pig resisted his efforts to take it to a slaughter pen.

Thompson had loaded the pig in a truck and was tying it when it broke loose, knocked him from the truck and fell on him. The farmer was injured internally.

O'MALLEY TAKES 8 PETITIONS

Eight more petitions were taken out at the county commissioner's office today by forces of P. J. O'Malley, "Strip" leader, reported as an opponent of Congressman P. J. Sullivan for the nomination from the Thirty-fourth District at the coming primaries.

Previously O'Malley, now holding a job in the state auditor general's office, had taken out two petitions. The eight taken out today cover the entire 10 wards comprising the congressional district.

There was a report in political circles today that O'Malley would not be the eventual candidate of forces opposed to the renomination of Sullivan. They were understood to be ready to support a prominent business leader in the race for congress.

The Thirty-fourth District takes in the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh and Fifteenth Wards.

Leave Wrecked Auto, Then Steal Another

Police today were holding an automobile found abandoned after it crashed into a milk wagon at Forbes and Magee streets shortly before daybreak. The car was driven by two men, police said, one of whom was believed to have been injured. After the crash the driver backed away from the wagon and sped west on Forbes street. The occupants abandoned it several blocks away, and stole another machine, in which they escaped.

IRENE DEFENSE PLEA BLAMES MOORE

from his gun and yet they had been used."

SHOOTING REVIEWED

Powers, in a calm, dispassionate manner, reviewed events leading up to the killing of Paul, terming it a "wicked and vicious murder" and stressing the "greatness of the crime."

"This defendant's defense of insanity as revealed in an 'irresistible impulse to rob' is refuted by the careful manner in which she and her accomplice, Dague, planned their numerous hold-ups and robberies," declared the district attorney.

"Surely, no one felt the loss of life more than Brady Paul. Young, handsome, vigorous, the life blood welling in his veins like a mighty river, he went to the scene of the killing, that morning. How different his return!

"Paul met his death while guarding the state highways. The state lost one of its defenders and a mother lost her son."

MERCY PLEA MADE

Attorney Jarrett contended that the state recognizes a form of insanity known as "irresistible impulse" which is sufficient reason for extreme mercy.

"I realize the grief caused to that boy's mother by his death and my heart goes out to his mother," said Jarrett, "but what good is vengeance? The harm can not be repaired and the heartache and tears stopped."

"The defendant and Dague wanted money so they would not have to labor at honest toil," declared Jarrett, taking a fling at his own client. "But is she a responsible person. You are the people trying her and you must try her as God would try her.

HELD IRRESPONSIBLE

"She has testified as to her irresponsibility. This girl in her broken mental condition deserves your utmost consideration. Her life has been thrown open to you. She is not as black as she is painted.

"The inference has been made that she shot an officer she admits she aided in abducting. The state has not proved it. Another inference has been made that she shot another officer in Arizona, but nothing has been proved. Was she responsible in those episodes? That is what you must decide."

DAGUE TRIAL TO FOLLOW

Special Prosecutor Margiotti plans to argue the state's contention that an irresistible impulse to rob, steal and flee is not an excuse for murder. He will define "willful, deliberate murder" and point out the alleged inconsistency of the defense argument that the blonde might be suffering from some mental derangement.

Dague will get under way immediately after Irene's case is given to the jury. The task of selecting a jury will be started probably Saturday morning, it was believed, Judge Hildebrand wishing to expedite the proceedings as much as possible.

ASK DEATH FOR BOTH

Dague's trial probably will not take so much time as the trial just completed, the evidence being practically the same in both cases.

The commonwealth is asking the death penalty in both cases.

Taking of testimony ended abruptly with the testimony of two alienists, Dr. C. C. Wholey, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. H. W. Mitchell, of the State Hospital at Warren, Pa. They said they had examined Irene and that after hearing her testify, are satisfied she is not insane.

Margiotti asked Dr. Wholey to explain Mrs. Schroeder's actions during the past year, and to describe the mental conditions in back of her activities.

PITTSBURGH WITNESS

At the conclusion of the testimony of the experts, the prosecution rested, and Irene was called to the stand in sur-rebuttal to refute statements made against her by numerous store managers she is accused of having robbed.

She answered two questions as to whether she cursed two of her alleged victims, and after she had calmly denied swearing at anybody, the defense rested.

Margiotti began his rebuttal yesterday afternoon and used 21 witnesses in all. Most of them were store managers from various parts of Pennsylvania and Ohio, among them Bernard A. Patterson, of Pittsburgh, Kroger Company store manager, who presented in evidence five bullets said to have been dropped by Dague.

All of the managers testified that during the holdups Irene had a gun that was too big to fit into her pocketbook. The defense had contended that she always carried a .32 caliber revolver in her purse.

SHERIFF TESIFIES

Other witnesses included Sheriff Charles Wright, of Phoenix, Ariz., who testified Dague told him he had used a .32 on the Butler road; and Mrs. Frank N. Johnston, wife of the sheriff here, who has charge of women prisoners. She testified there has been no change in Irene's physical appearance since she was brought to the jail.

Lillie Jones, Negro, who had been in jail with Irene, and who, according to Irene, took her life story out of the prison and mailed it, was called to refute this statement.

COAL STRIKE PLANS LAID BY LEWIS

Miners Adjourn Convention After Voting Program for Bituminous Walkout in '32

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 21.—The United Mine Workers of America ended its 10-day international convention here yesterday, its last act being adoption of provisions which will permit the calling of a nation-wide strike in all bituminous fields simultaneously in 1932.

The scale committee recommended that all districts negotiate contracts that to expire about April 1, 1932, and the recommendation was adopted unanimously.

The delegates censured Gov. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania for his use of the state constabulary and the coal and iron police against the miners of that state.

RESTORE CENTRAL FIELD

The scale arrangement also leaves open a way of reinstating the Central Competitive Field contract which made it possible for the international union to negotiate wage contracts for miners in four states, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and West Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania districts affected by the bituminous report of the committee are Districts Nos. 2 and 5 with headquarters at Clearfield and Pittsburgh, respectively.

UNION SHOWS POWER

Despite bolting of the Illinois rebel element, the United Mine Workers of America, evidently intact as ever in Pennsylvania, has shown coal operators that it still wields great power, it was asserted yesterday by John L. Lewis, international president.

In one of the most dramatic sessions of the convention delegates voted down resolutions to reduce Lewis's $12,000 annual salary, as well as that of other officers. John Boylan, of Scranton, Pa., president of District No. 1, lead the fight against the resolution and received strong support from delegates from his home state.

Members who have been in the union for 40 years will receive medals of honor. Three Pennsylvania men are among the 42 on the list. They are Pat McCrystal, of Puritan; David Cowan, of Portage, and William J. Patton, of Library, Pa.

NEW 'PADLOCK' LAW APPROVED

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(INS.)—New prohibition bills providing for the padlocking of buildings after service on unknown owners by publication and giving state officers the right to use federal courts in liquor cases were approved today by the Christopherson House judiciary sub-committee.

The measures were recommended by the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission to close up loopholes in the federal dry laws.

The padlock amendment is designed to prevent owners from check-mating the government by evading service or transferring part ownership to an unknown person. The second measure would permit state officers in New York and other states without dry laws to fully co-operate with federal officers.

With approval of these measures the sub-committee in charge of the Wickersham commission program completed action on all of the commission's proposals to tighten court procedure.

Representative Christopherson, (Rep.), of South Dakota, chairman, said that the full committee would consider the program next Thursday.

in Brownsville road. Miss J. L. Jones, hospital superintendent, in explaining the situation, said:

"We investigated the case and within a week listed it as a free case and our records reveal I placed my initials on the card in approval. It is a general rule that all ward cases are discharged before 5 p. m. and when Mrs. Malie called last night at 8 o'clock, we informed her to return today. I find on checking the patient chart in the ward that Paul was not to be discharged until today. This date had been set by a hospital physician."

Mrs. Malie, describing the situation, said:

"No question was raised about payment today. I simply went to the ward and asked for my boy. Last night, however, Miss Sue Watso, night supervisor, said I could have the boy today, but that some arrangement would have to be made about the bill."

Information has been made by the boy's father against Lostetter before Justice of the Peace T. R. Gracie, of Brentwood. It is charged Lostetter had promised to pay the expenses but now refuses to do so.

'Model Town' Gets Jolt, 2 Rum Arrests, No Law

FREEPORT, O., March 21.—(AP.)—Freeport, the Ohio village which had often been cited as a model law observing community, has had its first arrests since the World War.

Two men, accused of running 60 gallons of liquor through the village, were apprehended and today were held in the jail which village council had been attempting to dispose of in recent months.

Mayor Jesse H. Jenkins first brought Freeport's reputation into national prominence when he sent members of council home to get their "Sunday clothes." The mayor insisted the village "dads" appear in their best when transacting public business.

Owing to the fact that the village has been without crime for more than 12 years the village council overlooked the fact that no ordinance covering liquor violations had been passed. Now they are confronted with the problem of how to prosecute the alleged liquor funners.

Under the Ohio law only municipalities that have ordinances are permitted to participate in fines assessed for liquor violations.

Child, Roaming With $176, Robbed, Locates Thief

Before he left home, however, he picked up a wallet containing $176, police reported, which his mother, Mrs. Mary Harvey, left on a dresser while she was tidying her home.

The wallet in his hand, Bobby, police said, walked to 6315 Broad street, in search of a playmate. As he walked into the hallway a Negro took the wallet from him, he said, pocketed the bills and then handed him back the purse. When Mrs. Harvey discovered both her son and money missing, she went to the Broad street address and found him. Then Bobby told her his story.

Soon Lieut. Jones, of Frankstown Avenue Police Station, was summoned. Bobby pointed out Elizah Henry, 30, of 6315 Broad street, as the man who robbed him.

Despite denials by Henry that he took the money, Lieut. Jones searched the house and discovered $150 of it concealed in a newspaper outside a second floor window sill.

Henry and two other Negroes, Frank Harris, 46, and Fred Henson, 36, of the Broad street address, were taken into custody and arraigned at East End Police Station on suspicious person charges in connection with the case. All will be given hearings tomorrow.

BERGDOLL BELIEVED HEAD OF FAMILY IN GERMAN VILLAGE

WAR DODGER FATHER OF 2, RUMOR

Romance of Ex-Philadelphian And Gardener's Daughter Hinted in Town Gossip

WEINSBERG, Germany, March 21.—(AP.)—If the villagers of this little place are right in their surmises, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Philadelphia's draft dodger, is married and the father of two children.

Fugitive from America and once hounded by kidnapers from his own country, Bergdoll came to Weinsberg about four years ago in search of a cure for shattered nerves.

There is no record here to indicate it, but the tight-lipped villagers believe that shortly after arrival Bergdoll married Bertha, youngest daughter of Emanuel Frank, head gardner at the sanatorium. The natives understand the ceremony was performed in Switzerland.

CHILDREN GUARDED

At any rate, two children considered as bearing the name of Bergdoll now live in virtual seclusion with Bertha's parents.

The children are guarded with such secrecy that villagers do not know whether they are boys or girls. Bergdoll and his supposed wife travel constantly. Occasionally they visit the Frank home.

The old gardener never mentions the children when he goes to the village to shop. He responds in no way to the attentions of strangers. His tall, erect bearing unmistakably marks him as a pre-war German officer of the reserve. His attire consists of an old hunting jacket, high leather boots, riding breeches, old soft hat and heavy walking stick.

His wife never leaves the house and exercises constant vigilance over the children. The only outsider the old couple receives, it is said, is Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, Grover Bergdoll's mother, who has been here several times. It is she, the villagers hear, who supports her son and his family.

SHUNNED BY KIN

Bergdoll apparently has convinced village authorities that there is danger of kidnapers seizing him or his children, for the constable, the village burgomaster and his assistants decline to divulge information concerning his whereabouts. Six years or so ago an attempt was reported to have been made to kidnap Bergdoll and return him to America.

The former Philadelphian, whose property, valued at $1,500,000, was confiscated by the American government in 1927, is shunned by most of his German relatives, who disapproved of the notoriety growing out of charges against Bergdoll in 1926 that he abducted a Heidelberg girl. After his acquittal several months later Bergdoll blamed American persecution for his conflict with the law.

SHANLEY, N. Y. CAFE MAN DIES

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—Michael J. Shanley, one of six brothers whose name for a generation was synonymous in New York with good food, died today of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home in West Seventy-first street. He was 63.

The six Shanley brothers came to New York from Ireland as youths. In 1893, Michael, and his elder brother, Thomas J., started their first restaurant at Sixth avenue and Thirty-third street. It became so instantaneous a success that with the assistance of their brothers they opened a chain of restaurants which became famous for good, plain food of the old fashioned variety. Their most elaborate place, located in Times Square where the Paramount Building now stands, went into bankruptcy in 1923 after which Michael Shanley retired.

HUSTON STOCK ORDER BARED

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Going further into the $36,100 which Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, collected from the Union Carbide Company, the Senate Lobby Committee today heard W. E. Moore, Huston's personal representative, testify that he bought and sold stocks with money at Huston's direction.

Huston previously had testified he did not know that part of the $36,100 had been used as margin for stock purchases until he heard Charles A. Krickl, member of the brokerage firm of Blyth and Bonner, give the information to the committee.

The money collected from the Carbide company was given to Huston for the Tennessee River Improvement Association, which has interested itself in Muscle Shoals legislation.

The Senate committee investigating affairs of the improvement association in connection with Muscle Shoals activities, summoned Huston, a former president of the association, after his name had been frequently mentioned in testimony by other witnesses.

Reports that Huston would resign his post as Republican chairman have persisted since his questioning by the lobby committee began. He, however, has denied these. His withdrawal at some later date, however, would cause no surprise in political circles.

DOHENY PLEA STRESSES LOAN

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—The trial of Edward L. Doheny on a charge of bribery drew near its end today with Frank Hogan for the defense making a ringing plea for the acquittal of the 73-year-old multimillionaire.

The courtroom was packed. Doheny listened attentively while Hogan asserted that all the evidence showed that the $100,000 that Doheny gave to Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was simply a loan from a wealthy man to an old friend in need.

Fall has been convicted on a charge of receiving a bribe from Doheny, but the latter seemed placid and assured as Hogan reviewed the details surrounding the contract to build oil storage tanks for the Navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

This contract resulted in the lease of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve to a Doheny company. The government charges that Doheny and Fall carried on the Pearl Harbor negotiations with a view to giving the Elk Hills lease to Doheny interests.

During his plea, Hogan picked up a note that Fall gave Doheny for the money and asked:

"Have you ever in your life known of a note being given for a bribe?"

TAXI STRIKERS FIGHT CAB BAN

Union officials of striking cab drivers today were busy on plans to have the injunction against their "relief fund cab service" dissolved "not later than Monday," according to Attorney Henry Ellenbogen. A hearing on the preliminary injunction granted by Judge Josiah Cohen, in Common Pleas Court, has been set for that day. In the meantime relief cabs are operating pending court action on the injunction.

The preliminary injunction will be attacked "on its merits, and also on the ground that the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County lacks jurisdiction in a public service matter of this nature."

The Parmelee Transportation Company today prepared to put out 30 cabs to operate between downtown railroad stations and hotels. They will not be run at night.

Deputy sheriffs, stationed at the strikers' cab service headquarters, 1711 Liberty avenue, served copies of the injunction on drivers of the union cabs.

Boy, 15, Arrested For Passing 'Red' Literature

A 15-year-old schoolboy was taken in tow by police today for passing Communist literature to workers outside the Oliver Iron and Steel plant on the South Side.

The boy, John Perry, of Muriel street, was held at the South Side Police Station for officials of Juvenile Court.

The literature urged the workers to attend mass meetings of the unemployed.

G. E. MOORE NOT HELD IN CASE

Through confusion of names the Sun-Telegraph incorrectly stated Monday, in connection with the report of an automobile mishap on Baum boulevard near Keown station, that G. E. Moore, druggist, of 4920 Scioto street, had been arrested on a charge of reckless driving and held in West View Police Station.

It was David King, of 1107 Coal street, Wilkinsburg, who was arrested—not Moore. State highway police who investigated the collision said Moore was in no way to blame. King, it was said, was drunk, was so pronounced by a physician called to examine him, and his license to drive has been revoked. In addition, he was fined $25 and costs for reckless driving by Justice of the Peace Eugene Merling, of Millvale.

YOUNG OPPOSES LOANS CURB

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Gov. Roy A. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, testified before the House Banking Committee investigating the banking situation today, that an arbitrary maximum limit of 6 or 8 per cent on the call money rate would not prevent over-speculation.

Replying to a suggestion by Representative Seiberling (Rep.), Ohio, that "Congress should place a limit on the call money rate," Young said "those things adjust and control themselves."

"But they didn't adjust themselves last fall when the rate went to 25 per cent, until you and the Federal Reserve Board had put on the brakes," observed Seiberling.

Young answered that the board had taken no "drastic" steps toward holding down the call rate. He argued against a limit on the ground that a high rate curbed speculation.

Hearings Postponed Over Erlanger Will

NEW YORK, March 21.—(INS)—Hearings of two motions in connection with the court battle over the $75,000,000 will of the late Abraham L. Erlanger, theatrical producer, was adjourned today in Surrogate's Court to March 25.

One motion was to dismiss the objections filed by Charlotte Leslie, who claims she is Erlanger's widow. She is contesting the will which left most of the estate to a brother and two sisters. The second was for the appointment of a temporary administrator.

Ex-Bootlegger's Wife Asks Divorce

Mrs. Fannie Berger, wife of Charles Berger, one-time confessed bootlegger, left her husband yesterday.

Today she sued him for divorce, charging cruelty and indignities. They were married in 1925.

WOMAN SLAYS AGED MOTHER

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 21.—(INS.)—Mrs. Martha Colvin, 32, today shot and killed her mother, Mrs. Louise Detner, 69, while the older woman lay asleep in bed and injured herself probably fatally a moment later in a suicide attempt.

Mrs. Detner was shot in the heart. The crazed daughter then threw her rifle away and leaped from the second floor window of her mother's bedroom.

She landed on the porch roof, rolled from the roof to the ground below and fractured her back when she struck a fence as she fell.

Joseph Colvin, her husband, slept through the tragedy, but was awakened by a boarder in the home.

FLEEING FELON SHOT TO DEATH

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 21.—(AP.)—Four hours after Thomas Barnes and Lee Hudgens, Montgomery County convicts, shot and wounded two guards and escaped from Speigner prison early today, Barnes' body was left by Hudgens at the home of H. C. Swaringen here.

A bullet had pierced Barnes' heart but the manner in which he was shot was a mystery to officers. Swaringen said that after dumping the body on the floor in the kitchen, Hudgens drove off in an automobile without any explanation. Fearing that Hudgens was armed, Swaringen said he made no effort to molest him. Hudgens' family resides a block from Swaringen.

The pistol with which Barnes shot B. F. Baltzer and J. D. Richards, guards at the prison, was believed to be in possession of Hudgens, together with a quantity of ammunition.

30 Millions Needed To Mark War Scenes

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Expenditure of $30,000,000 would be necessary to create national monuments commemorating major battles and erect suitable markers for minor engagements, in the opinion of Lieut. Col. H. L. Landers, who reported to the House Military Committee today on a survey of battlefields through the nation.

The committee decided to ask all members of Congress to file reports on battlefield memorials in which they are interested. The committee plans to draft an omibus bill.

PRINCESS SEEKS RENO DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., March 21.—(AP.)—Royalty again is in the Reno divorce court, it was discovered when the identity of Mrs. Helen Campbell Lambert, who filed suit for divorce against Andrew A. Lambert on February 19, became known.

Mrs. Lambert is Princess Kapiolani of the Hawaiian royal family, daughter of Prince David and Princess Abigail. Both parents are descendants of the two old families of Hawaii from which have come the island's rulers for many generations.

The Princess married Andrew A. Lambert, commander of a German submarine during the World War, at San Francisco, November 21, 1923. They have three children, a boy and two girls and Mrs. Lambert's attorney said he anticipates a contest over the custody of the children. The divorce complaint charges failure to provide.

Monaca Bars Prince, He Shares Children

PARIS, March 21.—(AP.)—Prince Pierre of Monaca cannot enter that principality without the authorization of the ruler, under the terms of the separation decree between him and the Princess Charlotte, announced yesterday. The prince must return to the princess the "dot" he received upon his marriage, but is allowed an annual pension of $16,000.

Although the two children of the couple will spend six months of the year with each parent, the direction of their education has been entrusted to Prince Pierre.

Arrest of Prince Shock to Warsaw

WARSAW, Poland, March 21.—(AP.)—Warsaw society has been shocked by the arrest of Prince Thomas Lubomirski, 37, nephew of Prince Stanislas, chairman of the Bank of Commerce, and a relative of Casimir Lubomirski, first Polish minister to the United States. He has been charged with dishonesty in several financial transactions.

Mae West's Police Critic Once 'On the Stage'

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—James J. Coy, veteran police captain who was once on the stage himself, but whose footlight experience, he emphatically stated, did not include that of chorus man, continued on the stand today as the first witness against Mae West and those associated with her in the production of "Pleasure Man," which the police closed.

Under cross-examination of Nathan Burkan, representing Miss West, the police captain said he had once been a supernumerary, about 30 yeas ago.

"That's a sort of chorus man, isn't it?" Mr. Burkan asked innocently.

"It is not," Capt. Coy replied, indignantly. "It's just one of a crowd on the stage."

"Have you had any other experience in the show business?" Mr. Burkhan asked him.

"Yes, I was with Barnum & Bailey once." Coy replied. "But I wasn't an actor or a performer. I did hard, tough work."

Testifying against Miss West, Carl Reed, the producer, and more than 50 actors who played in "Pleasure Man" during its three-day run on Broadway a year and a half ago, Capt. Coy said that when he attended the opening performance he found the presence of several characters supposed to be female impersonators highly offensive.

He said that when he went back to the second and third performances the lines and the acting had been modified somewhat, but that nevertheless, partly on his recommendation, author, producer, and actors were arrested, and the play was closed.

Soviet Atheists Tone Down To Peaceful Campaign

MOSCOW, March 21.—(AP.)—Official warning to be moderate in carrying out the anti-religious campaign of the Soviet government and the Communist party was the interpretation gained today from speeches before the opening of the All-Union Congress of Atheists.

A succession of speakers told the congress that their propagandists must abandon the idea that religion can be exterminated in Russia overnight. They declared that excesses committed by Atheistic workers and village officials in the war on religion must forthwith cease.

The conclave was warned that no attempt must be made to close churches by force, to remove church bells, to coerce peasants into joining the League of the Godless, or to proclaim entire districts as "Atheistic Regions."

Alternates of peaceful argument, persuasion, propaganda and scientific explanation were listed by Emelyan Yaroslavsky, chairman of the Society of Militant Atheists, who declared that propaganda particularly must be intensified, particularly among women who, he said, were more ignorant and superstitious than men.

Dr. Cook, Paroled, Directs Training of Boys

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, former Arctic explorer who was recently paroled from the federal prison in Leavenworth, Kan., today became physical director of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic.

Nine hundred boys cheered Dr. Cook last night as they made him a life member of the organization—an honor awarded only to two others, President Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Marshall Field.

The 65-year-old Polar explorer, whose claim that he discovered the North Pole in 1909 was disputed by his former associate, Admiral Robert E. Peary, will establish a health center at the Republic headquarters and at their summer camp at Burlington, Wis.

PHILLIPS' ENTRY SNARLS STATE CAMPAIGN

Butler Man's Candidacy Adds to G. O. P. Chaos; Five Enter Free-for-All

himself on a ticket including Lewis, for governor; Gov. John S. Fisher, and Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman.

The meeting was expected to determine whether Grundy or Lewis or both remain in the contest, and whether they would be the candidates of the state organization with the Mellon support.

Fisher was said to be unalterably opposed to Lewis, and might not support Grundy if the latter forced Lewis' candidacy.

DAVIS BACKED HERE

Careful inquiry has failed to uncover any local politicians of prominence working for the Grundy-Lewis ticket. There has been general acceptance of the rumor that W. L. Mellon had at least encouraged Grundy and Lewis to run, but a public commitment has been withheld.

Davis-Brown Forces Win Support Here

In sharp contrast to the apathy of the Grundy-Lewis movement was the activity in behalf of the opposing slate headed by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, of Pittsburgh, running for senator, and former Attorney General Brown, of Philadelphia, for governor.

Davis came here last Saturday to announce his candidacy and during a two-day visit received, he said, flattering tenders of support from local and Western Pennsylvania leaders.

SEE ARMSTRONG AT HELM

Before leaving, Brown said he had neither received nor asked for a pledge of support from Armstrong and Kline, but that he felt justified in expecting substantial help in this end of the state.

Out of the Davis and Brown visits came rumors that Armstrong would manage their campaign in Allegheny County, and that Mackrell would have charge of the campaign in other western counties. Neither of the local leaders has made public commitments as to candidates.

Armstrong was busy yesterday interviewing city and county political workers, while clerks in the commissioners' office were believed to be mailing nominating petitions for Davis, Brown and Judge James B. Drew, who has been reported as on the slate for one of the two seats on the Superior Court bench.

Mackrell's callers included John Walker, commissioner of Cambria County; Herbert Gates, of Kittanning, president of the Armstrong County Trust Company, and Bernard Meyers, president of the Pennsylvania Bar Association and former secretary of the commonwealth.

Copeland Backing Davis in Westmoreland

Congress, David Lawrence, Democrat, Thirty-fifth district; state senator, M. T. Gorham, Fortieth district; Legislature, Louis Wicks and Martin A. Herwood, Third district; Theron B. Hamilton, First; Ira T. Williams, Eighth, and Robert Taylor, Eleventh.

John Patton, Jr., of Bunola, today announced his candidacy for the State Legislature from the Tenth District.

Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland County, and his former campaign manager, Vincent R. Smith, have opened Davis-Brown headquarters in Greensburg, according to word received here.

They announced that headquarters would be opened also in New Kensington, Monessen, Latrobe, Vandergrift, Scottdale and Jeannette.

The Greensburg Davis-Brown movement is coupled with the candidacies of Charles C. Crowell for Congress, and P. K. Shaner for State Senate.

Crowell, who is running on an anti-dry platform, is opposing the incumbent, Adam M. Wyant, whose policy has not been announced. Attorney Adam B. Shaffer, of Greensburg, has entered the congressional fight as a dry candidate, according to report.

VARE LEADERS PICKING SLATE

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Most of the political activity here yesterday was confined to the leaders of the Vare organization and up-state leaders who are supporting Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for the senatorial nomination and Francis Shunk Brown for governor.

After a series of conferences these leaders were understood to have agreed on a tentative ticket for other offices. In addition to Davis and Brown, it included:

Lieutenant governor—Carl Schug, Williamsport, or Brig. Gen. Edward C. Shannon, Columbia.

Secretary of Internal Affairs—Philip H. Dewey, Tioga County.

Justice of the Supreme Court—Judge George W. Maxey, of Scranton.

Judge of the Superior Court (two to be nominated)—Judge William B. Linn, Philadelphia, incumbent, and either Judge J. Frank Graff, Armstrong County, incumbent, or Judge James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh.

Final determination on the candidates for lieutenant governor and the Supreme Court may be made today at a conference in the office of Mr. Brown. This meeting will be attended by William S. Vare, Secretary Davis, members of the Philadelphia Republican organization "war board" and a number of up-state leaders. Mr. Vare arrived from Florida yesterday.

Weather Conditions.

The Northwest high pressure area that caused the cold wave over that section yesterday morning, advanced to the upper Mississippi valley and now covers most of the Central valley section. It caused a moderate drop in temperature over the lake region, the Ohio Valley states and the upper and Central Mississippi Valley states, but there are no zero temperatures in the states except in the vicinity of Duluth. A low pressure area over the far Northwest is causing rising temperatures over the Northwest country as far east as Western Minnesota and southward over the plains to Nebraska. The temperature will rise over this section Saturday.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Frankstown is 5.7. Lock No. 7, 17.5. Pittsburgh, 16.8. Dam No. 4, 13.1. Dam No. 6, 14.2. Dam No. 8, 14.4, and Dam No. 12, 13.3. The dams are down.

PHILLIPS HITS DRY LAWS

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—(AP.)—Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., of Butler, former congressman from the Twenty-sixth Pennsylvania District, announcing his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor, issued this statement:

"I have been in consultation and communication with a number of prominent citizens of Pennsylvania, and we have decided definitely that in view of the overwhelming sentiment against prohibition in Pennsylvania, its citizens must be given the right to vote in the open on the one great American issue, regardless of the attempt of straddling politics to have it discussed only behind closed doors.

"In my opinion it is absolutely essential that the prohibition issue be removed as quickly as possible from American politics in general and Pennsylvania in particular. It can only be removed by the expression of the unmistakable convictions of the citizens that prohibition is wrong in theory and a failure in practice and should therefore be replaced with legislation more tolerable to American ideals."

Robert Kelso Cassatt, chairman of the Pennsylvania division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, announced today that the full support of the association would be given to the candidacy of Phillips for the gubernatorial nomination.

"We ask the support of all registered Republicans who recognize that the prohibition issue is immediate, important and of the first interest to the individual citizen," the announcement said.

Withdrawal Rumor Denied by Lewis

HARRISBURG, March 21.—(INS.)—Reports from Philadelphia that he intended to quit as a Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination today were denied, in effect, by Samuel S. Lewis, special deputy auditor general.

"I made no statement to the press relative to my position, nor did I authorize any person to talk for me," Lewis said in regard to his Washington visit yesterday where he conferred with Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

"The result of my candidacy has not changed since my announcement," Lewis added. "As a result of what took place in political circles yesterday I feel very optimistic."

JOBLESS NEEDS LAID BEFORE CONGRESS

Immediate Legislation to Alleviate Unemployment Urged; Charity Pleas Grow

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP.) — Pleas that Congress "take action" immediately to alleviate unemployment conditions throughout the country were made today by two witnesses before the Senate committee investigating unemployment. Both recommended "long-range planning" for industry as one solution.

Dd. John Andrews, general secretary of the American Association of Labor Legislation, the second witness, urged that Congress "go beyond talking about unemployment." He said nearly a score of proposals had been laid before it since 1914, but Congress had not established "an adequate, permanent" government agency to deal with unemployment.

CHARITY PLEAS MOUNT

Miss Frances Perkins, industrial commissioner for New York State, who preceeded him on the stand, testified that unemployment conditions in New York at with those of 1914." She asserted appeals for charity had increased 200 per cent in the past six months.

Andrews told the committee that "this country had to face the unemployment crisis of 1921 without adequate machinery to meet it, and that condition has continued to the present."

He asserted that long-range planning for industry was widely accepted, although it "still waits recognition by Congress."

SAME REMEDIES

Chairman Johnson, of the committee, asked if it were not true that "whenever a crisis rises, the same suggestion is made that public works be speeded up."

Andrews said that was so.

"And just as repeatedly," Johnson suggested, "there has been no real enactment."

Again Andrews agreed, adding that he believed bills now under consideration, embodying these principles, should be passed.

CALLS MEETING OF DEMOCRATS

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 21.—(AP.)—A search for a new standard bearer was thrust upon state Democrats today following the withdrawal of Lawrence H. Rupp, Allentown attorney, as the party's candidate for governor.

Rupp announced his withdrawal yesterday in Allentown. He said he decided not to run for governor because his candidacy for grand exalted ruler of the Elks had reached a point "that I cannot break faith" with the lodge.

John R. Collins, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, expressed "disappointment" when informed that Rupp had given up the gubernatorial race. He took immediate steps to have the party select a new candidate by issuing a call for the committee to meet in Harrisburg March 24.

Rupp, in a statement, said that since the meeting in Harrisburg he had learned that as ruler of the Elks he would be expected to carry on a program that would take him out of the state this fall. The program, he said, "will apparently keep me so completely occupied that I could not give the time needed for an earnest and aggressive political campaign."

money out here and the West wonders how Wall street does it.

MONEY is getting cheaper all over the world. The Bank of England dropped its rate from 4 to 3½ per cent yesterday, reduced last March from 4½ to 4 per cent.

It means little borrowing, therefore little building, industrial and otherwise.

UNCLE SAM is very prosperous, which is easy, since his Congress simply reaches out and takes all it needs from people that have it.

On Monday the citizens delivered as income tax, $214,534,548, a gain of $53,000,000 over the same third day collection last year. For the fiscal year up to last Tuesday the income tax collections had increased $210,000,000.

Pre-Divorce Pact to Wed Cited in $350,000 Suit

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—(AP.)—A marriage contract signed two years before Ethelyn Gibson, former Follies dancer, was divorced from her first husband, is included in a suit by the dancer against Leon Glaser, wealthy broker, asking $350,000 damages for alleged breach of promise.

The contract was signed by Glaser and Miss Gibson before a notary public, November 5, 1926, it is said. Miss Gibson was divorced from Billy West, screen comedian, in 1928. Suit was filed yesterday.

In the contract, worded in legal phrases, Glaser is alleged to have promised to "love, worship, honor, respect, idolize forever Ethelyn Gibson, to the end of eternity."

It is stated that Miss Gibson "is so situated as to make the marriage of both parties impossible," but after the obtaining of a divorce to be sought by Miss Gibson, Glaser "does hereby agree to love, honor and marry" her immediately "as it has been his wish since meeting said Ethelyn Gibson, as Leon Glaser loves and worships Ethlyn Gibson as his wife."

Find Man Murdered In Chicago Street

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—Cicero Bascelli, a coal dealer, was found shot to death last night in a West Side street. Police believed he was either killed by extortionists or as the result of labor trouble. Bascelli, they said, employed union teamsters in his coal business, but also drove one of his own wagons.

DETAILS ASKED IN BALM SUIT

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—(AP.)—Superior Judge Myron Westover yesterday sustained a demurrer filed by Albert Fuchs, retired Chicago business man, against a suit for $500,000 damages for alleged breach of promise by Martha Marie Gulickson, his former secretary.

Judge Westover directed Miss Gulickson to have her complaint re-drafted, eliminating certain errors before refiling it.

Miss Gulickson, who is 35 years old, charged that the millionaire proposed to her in a letter, and after she came to California he refused to marry her, although they obtained a marriage license.

She charged the 60-year-old man told her he wanted her to be his common law wife. The court directed that she list specifically in what manner she gained her evidence supporting that charge, and state the basis for her contention that she is an "accomplished business woman."

SAY EX-PASTOR OWNED STILL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 21.—(AP.)—C. L. Thoroughman, who left the Methodist ministry in 1923 to become a Federal Prohibition agent, today was held under $5,000 bond on a government charge of operating a still.

The former minister, who resigned from the government service last July, was arrested last night in a raid four miles south of Lawton. Bee Domonbrum, a deputy prohibition administrator, said Thoroughman was found in charge of a moonshine plant. A large still, 70 gallons of liquor, an automobile and several fire arms were seized.

Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney, announced the prisoner admitted ownership of the still.

BRANDS LEAGUE COURT MENACE TO FREEDOM

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Freedom is the foundation of America, a foundation this country has refused to weaken by joining the League of Nations or its World Court,

That was the assertion of Ruth Hanna McCormick in a talk as the third of a series of patriotic broadcasts sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Her talk, on the subject "America for Americans," was broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company on its coast-to-coast network. Mrs. McCormick said:

"Faithfully we have followed the counsel of Washington that 'the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake.' Washington said 'that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government.' Nobody knew better than our first President how dearly our liberty and independence had been bought. Nobody had clearer vision of future perils to our independence.

REPUDIATE LEAGUE

"Ten years ago our respect for Washington's advice was put to a crucial test. We were asked to sign a treaty of peace with Germany which Washington would have spurned. We were besought to join the League of Nations and enter upon a dangerous participation in foreign affairs, to 'entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, interest, humor or caprice.' We repudiated both the treaty and the covenant of the league. Our foreign policy, built upon the wisdom of Washington, was not thus to be marred by an act of emotional folly.

"But our love of independence has not obscured our sense of justice toward other nations. We hear it said that we carry our independence too far; that we are out of step with the world, that we are selfish, provincial, isolated. On the contrary our whole record of spiritual and material contributions to less fortunate people in all parts of the world is a sharp challenge to these critics.

"Americans opposed our joining the League because the League was organized to enforce the treaty of Versailles. That treaty sought to enable the victors in the great war to maintain territorial lines and economic advantages obtained through the war.

MADE OWN TREATY

"The United States not only declined to subscribe to the Covenant of the League of Nations, which plainly contemplated war as an instrument of enforcing its requirements, but also refused to sign the treaty of Versailles and later made its own treaty of peace with Germany and the other Central Powers.

"In three national elections, the American people have overwhelmingly shown their opposition to joining the League of Nations.

"Not being able to induce this country to join the league, an effort was begun seven years ago to get us to adhere to the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League. It is not a World Court to which we are asked to adhere, because its members are limited to those nations which are members of the league. If we adhere to the court we shall be the only country represented in the court which is not a member of the League of Nations.

"I oppose the court now for the same reason that I was against it seven years ago. None of these objections have been removed by recent steps taken by international jurists. Nothing has been done to change the fact that the League Court is a back door entrance into the League itself.

LEAGUE'S OWN COURT

"The League created the court in Article XIV of the covenant of the League. It not only created the court, but it can terminate it. Statutes of the court are not changed without the official approval of the council and assembly of the League of Nations, as witnessed repeatedly in negotiations concerning our Senate reservations.

"The League determines and pays the salaries of the judges of the court. The League elects the judges of the court. The League determines and pays the pensions of the judges of the court. The League can increase the number of judges of the court. The League must be informed before the resignations of any of the judges of the court shall become effective.

"Article XIII of the Covenant of the League of Nations specifies how the judgments and opinions of the court are to be enforced and while there have been many plans proposed for changing the statutes of the court, so that the objection of our United States Senate might be compromised or met, nothing has been done since the League was organized to change Articles XIII and XIV of the Covenant of the League which created the court and directed how it should operate.

"If we were to adhere to the court we would have to sit with the Council and with the Assembly of the League of Nations for the purpose of electing judges of the court and we would only have one vote whereas the British Empire would have six votes."

Irene Relates Terrors of Desert Traps As Arizona's Blind Trails Balk Escape

A single high-road through arid Arizona! A police ambuscade at every hamlet! Phoenix, with its police force alert. Dead ahead! What can "Iron" Irene and Glenn Dague, wanted for the murder of Corp. Brady Paul, do but take a side-turn and risk death in the bad lands?

By IRENE SCHROEDER.

CHAPTER X.

WHEN we got to Phoenix we saw that the road went right through the center of the town. With all those wounded sheriffs behind us, we couldn't risk that, so we decided to find a side road.

Back where we came from, in the "Panhandle" country around Wheeling, W. Va., you could always find some kind of a road going the same direction as the main road, but no so good, and not watched so much by the police.

But we soon found out that Arizona is different. There, if you get off the main road, you're lost. Anyway, I guess it was in our destinies to get caught just where we were, because heaven arranged a miracle to happen to us on that mountain top and so I figure it was meant that we should go there to see it.

In Big Trap

WHAT we got into was a kind of big trap, about three hundred miles wide. We took a trail running out of the main road at a crossing before the main part of Phoenix. We could turn either right or left, and I turned to the right.

First that trail was a road with houses on it, then it was a sort of wheel-track with nothing on it, then it got to be just a sort of dry river bed of hard sand and gravel, and then it just turned into nothing at all but desert full of boulders and dead bushes where you couldn't drive a car. We went up it nearly 75 miles before we quit and turned back.

We were scared to go back to the crossing where we turned out of the main road, but we had to do it, and we were relieved to see that there were no sheriffs waiting to grab us. We went right across the main road full speed and into the trail on the other side. Glenn figured it might lead down into Mexico and that we could get to California by going west in Mexico until we got near the coast and then coming up toward Los Angeles.

Talk Of Surrender

THERE was a stop to talk about going into Phoenix and giving ourselves up. We told Joe Wells he could beat it now and pretend he never was with us, but he refused and said that if we got into bad country we would need him to show us how to find water and stuff to eat.

He felt toward us as if we were a couple of babies that would never get along without him watching us all the time.

We went up the left trail about 60 miles and it did the same thing the other one did—quit on us. We went back and forth along that trail twice, hunting for a way out of the trap, but never found any. We did about 300 miles before we gave up.

When we were at a river—the Gila River, named after a poisonous animal, and it was poison to us. We abandoned the car then. Joe Wells took on about the car and patted it on the hood and called it pet names and said goodbye. We felt the same about the old bus.

The river was shallow, so we could wade it. We waded down the water quite a distance, in case they had bloodhounds after us. The water was about up to my knees. The stones hurt my feet.

Head For Hills

FAR away across the plains we could see hills and mountains and we headed for them. It looked far away, but it was even farther than it looked. Night came on, and it looked as though we had made no progress toward getting to the hills, though we walked all the time as fast as I could keep up.

It was agreed that nothing more would be said about giving up for the time. But I could see that Glenn was sorry for my sore feet and the way I looked and that he was figuring he would give himself up and say that he did everything and to let me go.

That night, after Joe Wells fell asleep I asked Glenn if he was awake, and when he said yes, I said:

"We won't give up yet, honey, but if we have to, later, I want you to promise one thing."

He asked what it was.

Fifty-fifty Plan

"That you'll swear not to take the blame alone. We've done everything together. All I live for is to do everything with you. I want to live in peace with you forever if we're lucky. But if we aren't, I want to live with you in trouble and die with you, if we have to."

So he swore to make it fifty-fifty on everything and we went to sleep.

But we were only asleep about 10 minutes when Joe Wells reached over and poked me and said: "Look!"

What we saw was an Indian grass fire back behind us, on the route we had to come. Joe told us that they did that in order to catch sight of us against the flames. The way the Indians work it, they separate in two parties and move along to the right and left of the people they are hunting. Then the party on the right lights a grass fire and the party on the left looks to see if the people they are chasing pass between them and the light, showing up in outline if they do. Then the party on the left answers with a grass fire, so it's pretty hard to move and not be seen.

Joe Wells said: "They've found the car all right, and they'll figure we're headed for the hills. Now we have to make the hills before they do or it's all up."

Party Tired

SO we got going again, though we were miserable with tiredness. We had to zigzag around, trying not to come between watchers and the fires. So we made even slower time toward the mountains.

We came to the canal about when the sky began to get lighter and Joe said we might as well walk erect and straight now, because soon they would see us by daylight, anyway. But the canal seemed to be the end. It was deep, and neither Glenn nor I could swim. I sat down on the edge and would have cried, but I was so numb with aches and want of sleep that I couldn't even cry.

Towed Over Canal

THAT made me wake up. I dangled my legs in the cold water to get good and wakened and then I could think again. I said that if Joe could swim we could make it. Joe could swim. So I told my plan, and we took Glenn's overalls and coat and tore them in strips and made a sixty-foot rope out of them. And Joe swam over the canal with one end of the rope in his teeth. When he was on the other side, I grabbed my end of the rope in my hands. Joe gave a signal and I jumped in. I thought I would drown sure, but it would be just as well, maybe. Once, when I was a little girl, and my mother died and they wouldn't let me go to the funeral, I wanted to drown myself. I said to myself: "It's funny I didn't do it then, and had all these experiences, and then wind up by drowning anyway." But I said it was worth it, and I was glad I hadn't missed being loved by Glenn.

I went under, but kept a hold on the rope, and Joe pulled it in fast, and while I was thinking I was drowning Joe pulled me out and I was on the other side.

Joe swam back to Glenn and gave him the rope and got him over the same way.

We started to walk on toward the hills again.

(To be continued tomorrow.)

Baby's Skin Was Dry and Coarse—Doctor Advised Oil

So many little babies have dry, coarse skins. It seems as though the skin needs a food—an external application to massage into the pores. In the case of Mrs. C——, her baby's skin was so dry the clothes on its little body continually irritated it; and the skin itself, rubbing fold on fold, caused a chafing that tormented the child.

Upon consulting her doctor he advised that she rub her baby's body daily with Mennen Baby Oil—massaging it gently and making sure that it was rubbed into the folds of the skin. In a short while after following the doctor's instructions she noticed a decided improvement in baby's skin condition. Mennen Baby Oil is a blend of those oils indicated or in use by leading baby specialists and in the principal maternity hospitals.

The doctor next suggested that she oil baby's buttocks after every diaper change—the oil thereby acting as a water-proof coating and preventing the skin from being red-raw and irritated. He suggested rubbing off the excess oil with a piece of cotton and then dusting baby's body liberally with Mennen Borated Baby Talcum.

Since both Mennen Baby Oil and Talcum are scientifically medicated they will prevent and cure diaper rashes.

Special Offer! This week your druggist is offering a can of Mennen Borated Baby Talcum FREE with a purchase of a bottle of Mennen Baby Oil for 50c. Mennen Baby Oil is a sterilized blend of oils, properly medicated, pleasantly scented, and will not become rancid.

PORTER SHOWS NEED OF DRUG BUREAU

Congressman Given Hearing Before House Committee On Pending Legislation

By KENNETH CLARK,
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—An executive session of the House Ways and Means Committee will be held today to hear Representative Porter (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, author of the bill to establish a separate narcotics bureau.

If the testimony is concluded in time, the committee may report the bill favorably and urge speedy passage in the House. The Treasury Department has indorsed the legislation as a step forward in the drive against the dope evil.

Meanwhile, the Treasury Department has been called upon by Representative Fish (Rep.), of New York, to state whether it favors a congressional investigation of the narcotic traffic.

SPEED REQUESTED

In a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Fish asked for an early reply so that action can be started in the House.

Two resolutions for an inquiry are pending, one by Fish, introduced February 20, and the second by Representative Black (Dem.), of New York, presented yesterday. Both seek not only a comprehensive survey of the administration of the narcotic laws but recommendations for legislation to combat the dope evil.

Inasmuch as J. M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, has indicated he welcomed a probe of charges of graft, corruption and inefficiency in the narcotics service, it is expected the Treasury's reply will be favorable to the inquiry. If it is, Fish will go immediately before the House Rules Committee and ask for the authorization.

COMMANDS SUPPORT

"If there is any law which commands more wholehearted support of the American people and which deserves the most stringent enforcement, it is the law against the illicit use of narcotics," declared Fish. "Charges of the most serious character have been made against the narcotics enforcement system.

"It has been charged that officers of the government have been and are being corrupted and that special favors are being granted to certain individuals to violate the law.

"Congress should have authoritative information as to whether the alleged breakdown of the narcotic enforcement is due to inefficiency or corruption.

"The charges should be proved or disproved. Common justice demands this, in fairness to the American people and in fairness to the officials who have been accused."

'Twenty Year Rye' Few Days Old, Rum 'Magic'

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(INS.)—"Twenty-year-old" rye whisky can be produced in a few days under a new process employed by the bootlegging fraternity, according to information received at prohibition headquarters.

Maryland rye, fresh from the still, is barreled in charred kegs and placed in rooms with a temperature of 130 degrees. Officials said it soon took on a rich color, with a taste comparable to old whisky.

Bottled, it becomes all of the old American brands of rye, and those now put up in Canada, even down to the counterfeit revenue stamps, through the 'leggers magic.

INCOME TAX PAYMENTS UP

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—The Treasury announced today that income tax receipts as of March 19 were $70,652,867.41, bringing the total received so far this month to $384,853,426.20.

This total for the month compared with $379,981,531.78 for the corresponding period a year ago. The increase over 1929 collections to date still was attributable to the enormous sum reported on March 18 as a result of overtime work by collectors all over the country immediately after the March 15 collections.

Today's figure showed a falling off in comparison with the total receipts for March 19, 1929, which exceeded $100,000,000. This decrease was expected in view of the speeding up of the bulk of collections.

There was nothing in the latest figures to alter the belief of Treasury officials that the budget estimate of $550,000,000 for income tax collections for the first quarter nearly would be realized.

BLOEDEL GIVEN $98,381 REFUND

Herman R. Bloedel has been awarded refunds totaling $98,381 for over-assessment of income taxes during the years 1923 to 1927, by the Internal Revenue Bureau, according to a report from Washington.

Bloedel on June 15, 1929 pleaded no defense in the Federal District Court to an indictment charging him with attempted evasion of income taxes by not filing returns for the years 1924 to 1927, inclusive. The tax liabilities in the indictment aggregated $72,236.91.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker fined him $1,000 and paroled him for three years, and told Bloedel that except for his poor health, he would have sent him to jail. Bloedel was allowed three months in which to pay the fine and on November 6 the court extended the time when Bloedel's counsel informed the court that Bloedel had been unable to raise the the amount of fine because of his property being involved in a civil litigation by the government for the collection of the taxes.

Bloedel was a defendant in the North Side rum conspiracy indictment, but was acquitted when the court held at the trial that the government had failed to establish the existence of a conspiracy as alleged to the indictment.

IGNORE VETOES IN KENTUCKY

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 21.—(AP.)—A stormy 60-day session of the Democratic-controled Kentucky General Assembly came to a noisy close early today, a few hours after both branches had passed a resolution of censure of the Republican governor, Flem D. Sampson, and the latter had charged that the terms of two appointments he had sent to the Senate had been fraudulently altered.

The Legislature overrode every one of the governor's vetoes, and enacted bills that put out of office the highway commission and the textbook commission.

Over a veto, it voted to accept the $230,000 offer of former Senator T. Coleman du Pont to buy Cumberland Falls and present it to the state for a park, and enacted a graduated tax on the gross sales of retail stores, declared to be directed at chain stores. This measure the governor signed.

The censure resolution condemned remarks laid to the governor the night before, when he was quoted as having referred, at a Republican rally, to members of the Court of Appeals as "six of the gloomiest little men you ever saw" after a Republican election victory in 1927.

Experts to Inspect Crane Motor Plant

Nearly a score of members of the Electric Overhead Crane Institute, all of them officials of crane and engineering corporations, today were to visit the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company at East Pittsburgh. They were to visit portions of the plant devoted to construction of motors and controllers for electric cranes manufactured by their companies.

The visitors were to arrive here today from several cities and were to meet at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association for luncheon.

P.R.R. 1929 Traffic Near Highest On Record

The Pennsylvania Railroad in 1929 handled, on its directly operated lines, 233,106,956 tons of freight, representing one of the heaviest yearly movements of freight traffic in the company's history, according to announcement by Vice President E. W. Smith. The volume of traffic handled last year was exceeded only by that of 1923 and 1926, and then, in each instance, by comparatively small margins. Last year's freight business marked an increase of 18,219,817 tons over that of 1928.

Carload traffic for 1929 accounted for 227,479,853 tons and less-than-carload for 5,627,103 tons.

Products of the mines, amounting to 141,526,669 tons, furnished nearly 61 per cent of the total tonnage and included 88,157,225 tons of bituminous coal, 11,752,392 tons of anthracite coal, 13,673,509 tons of iron ore and 10,047,333 tons of gravel, sand and stone.

Negro Fined for Annoying Employer

William Pickney, 50, Negro, of 331 South Negley avenue, was sentenced by Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court today to pay a fine of $10 or go to jail for 30 days for annoying his employer, Mrs. Mary Barden. She keeps a rooming house where he does odd jobs.

There was testimony that Pickney had been drinking and had made ugly threats, and that he seized Mrs. Barden by the throat last Tuesday.

HUCKINS GUILTY IN SWINDLE

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 21.—(INS.)—Found guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses, George E. Huckins, of 26 per cent investment fame, today faced the possibility of a seven-year prison term and a fine of $5,000 or both.

After taking several ballots yesterday afternoon the jury in District Court here wound up 25 hours of deliberation by finding Huckins guilty. For a long while the jury was understood to be deadlocked at 10 to 2 for conviction.

The state charged that Huckins had obtained about $72,000 from Cedar Rapids investors on promises of rich returns.

Huckins and his father, Elmer S. Huckins, of Wisconsin, also under indictment on similar charges, are alleged to have collected over $3,000,000 dollars from Middle West investors in a reputed cigar business, the nature of which never has been explained.

Chicago Houseboats Win 20-Year Fight

CHICAGO, March 21,—(AP.)—Life aboard the houseboats tied up in the north branch of the Chicago River was more cheerful today because of a permanent injunction granted by Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel enjoining the city from forcing the houseboats off the river.

WESTERN ROADS IN SPEED WAR

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—(AP.)—A cut of an hour and a half in the running time of "The Chief," crack Santa Fe passenger train between Los Angeles and Chicago, has been announced by W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager of the road.

The announcement was made here last night in connection with a report from St. Paul that the Great Northern Railroad would inaugurate a "speed war" between trains on the Northern Transcontinental route. The report said an unidentified official was authority for the statement that an hour and 15 minutes would be cut from the running time.

Mr. Black said "The Chief" would be put on the faster schedule in May. Eastbound the running time will be cut an hour to make it total 57 hours. Westbound running time, he said, would be slashed an hour and a half for a total of 56½ hours.

Darrow and Wilson Debate on Dry Law

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—(AP.)—A prohibition debate between Mr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Public Morals, and Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, drew a large crowd at the Metropolitan Opera House last night.

Dr. Wilson upheld the dry side of the question, "Should the Eighteenth Amendment be Repealed?"

Mother of 5 Sold Liquor to Feed Family

ROCKFORD, Ill., March 21.—(INS.)—Mrs. Petra Opiterres, 39-year-old mother of five children, today faces a jail sentence after her conviction for violation of the Prohibition Law.

Arraigned before Magistrate Burton Norton yesterday, she admitted she had sold liquor in an effort to buy food for the children, one of which she carried into court in her arms.

GANDHI URGES 'PASSIVE FIGHT'

BOMBAY, March 21.—(INS.)—"If sentenced to prison, go piously. If assaulted, bear it cheerfully. If shot, die peacefully."

These are among the principles laid down to his following by the noted Indian leader, Mahatma Gandhi, who today continued his "passive resistance" to British rule in the town of Kareli, en route to Jalalpur.

Gandhi is proceeding on his march to the sea, where he and his followers, in defiance of the authorities, will manufacture salt, on which the government maintains a monopoly.

The salt manufacturing operation is intended as the first actual stroke in Gandhi's campaign for complete Indian independence.

FOLLOW LINERS IN DOPE HUNT

NEW YORK, March 21.—(INS.)—While the investigation of the United States attorney's office into narcotic traffic continued today, customs inspectors maintained their drive to prevent smuggling on ocean liners. Two fast patrol boats slipped out of the harbor this morning astern of the French liner France.

All liners leaving New York will be carefully watched, it was said, to prevent smugglers unloading narcotics brought from abroad and held on board while in port. The France was followed as inspectors watched to see if an attempt was made to lower packages to boats in the harbor.

Free Auto Driver In Death of Guest

In a sealed verdict read in Criminal Court today Clarence Bolick, 30, of East Ohio street, was acquitted of involuntary manslaughter, in the death of Richard L. Pilkington, 22, of 1627 Sedgewick street. Pilkington was killed when, while riding in Bolick's auto, the machine ripped a guard rail on the Shadeland avenue bridge last October 27.

E. Liberty Board Asks Hall Action

FLIGHT AVERTS ARMED CLASH

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—(AP.)—Declaring he fled from Mississippi to prevent a clash between state troops and House of Representatives sergeant at arms, Carl Marshall, Bay street, Luis, Miss., attorney, said last night he would remain in New Orleans until he was assured there would be no fighting over his sentence to jail by the House.

He was adjudged in contempt by his failure to tell of an $80,000 transaction to have an anti-trust suit stopped against a road manufacturing concern. In a formal statement after he was located, Marshall said he had left the state at the request of friends, "men of high standing in the state," so that an "armed clash" would be avoided.

Marshall said he gave the legislative investigating committee "all the information I possessed" concerning official acts of officers of the state of Mississippi.

"The committee then endeavored to have me answer questions that would reveal information that I had come into the possession of as a lawyer or that I had received confidentially and that had no bearing on the official conduct of any official of the state.

"I declined to answer such questions. The House thereupon committed me for contempt and the governor of the state, believing I was right, pardoned me."

URGES CAPITAL HOUSING QUIZ

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—A joint Senate and House investigation into living conditions in Washington would be authorized under a concurrent resolution introduced by Representative Dickstein (Dem.), of New York.

In citing the need for such an investigation, the resolution said 91 per cent of Washington school children have some physical ailment; 22,500 pupils are undernourished, and 2,030 have pulmonary or lung trouble.

Many children, it said, are compelled to pay two fares going to and from school and have to omit their lunches. Living expenses in Washington, it continued, have increased 500 per cent, while the wages to the average government worker have increased 50 per cent.

Washington still has unsuitable living quarters in sections which could be only considered as slums and which have been described as the "worst in the world," the Dickstein resolution asserted.

RAIDER SCORED, PRISONER FREE

BALTIMORE, March 21.—(AP.)—United States Commissioner J. Frank Supplee dismissed charges of manufacture and possession of intoxicants against Walter Bowie, of Ironside, Md., at the same time characterizing the actions of a prohibition agent and a Washington policeman as unwarranted destruction of property.

According to testimony presented at the hearing Bowie, while driving a horse and empty wagon along a country road near Ironside was stopped by C. R. McCartney, a dry agent, and G. R. Deyore, policeman from Washington, who had seized a still nearby.

According to the agent, Bowie was taken from the wagon and the horse led to the still site, where the horse was unhitched and set loose. The wagon was demolished with an ax and with the harness piled up with the still and destroyed with a charge of dynamite.

The dry agent justified his action by saying the wagon was being used to haul sugar and coke to the still. Commissioner Supplee said he considered the destruction of the still unwarranted and the same opinion was expressed by William C. Purnell, assistant United States district attorney, who was prosecuting the case.

RACE CONTEST ENDS IN RIOT

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—Several squads of police halted a riot between Negroes and whites on the South Side last night, just a block from the University of Chicago campus.

The riot followed a basketball game in the university gymnasium between Calumet and Wendell Phillips high schools. After the game, part of the crowd rushed to the Fifty-fifth street car line and the disturbance ensued as they were attempting to board street cars. The trolley was twisted so that it was useless, several windows were broken and traffic was tied up for three blocks before police dispersed the crowds.

FEAR ELEMENT ENTERS SUIT

Is a man entitled to damages because of the element of fear in the presence of high tension wires on his property?

Argument was heard on that point before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court on the appeal of the West Penn Power Company ordered by an Allegheny County jury to pay Samuel Lamont, Plum Township farmer, $3,000 damages for stringing high tension wires across one corner of his farm.

The board of viewers had awarded Lamont $100 damages. Lamont appealed and the jury in the lower court said the damage should have been $3,000 or 30 times the original award. The highest value placed on the Lamont farm of four acres and a dwelling was $12,000.

The wires carry a voltage of 132,000 and as these are strung about 40 feet from Lamont's home, he claimed their presence had greatly damaged his property. Lamont claims that he will always have to reckon with the element of danger. The power company claims the award is excessive.

OFFICER KILLED IN GARRISON

LISBON, Portugal, March 21.—(AP.)—An official note announced last night that Lieut. Moraes Sarmento, deputy commissioner of the Portuguese colony of Angola, on the west coast of Africa, had been wounded by members of the garrison at Loanda, capital of the colony, and died yesterday.

A telegram from Angola said that in the absence of the high commissioner at Lobito, some members of the Loanda garrison had tried to arrest the deputy high commissioner, who was wounded while resisting.

The officer in command of the Loanda garrison reported that order was not otherwise disturbed, and that the government was taking the necessary measures to deal with the situation.

COIN FLIP BALKS SUICIDE PACT

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., March 21.—(AP.)—The flip of a coin to determine whether they should carry out a suicide pact immediately or spend one more hour alive, resulted in an hour's respite and probably prevented the carrying out of the plan by Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Chatterton, according to their story to police.

Chatterton, manager of a shoe store here, lost his nerve and instead of shooting his wife as agreed, wounded himself through the head, he told police. The injuries are not expected to prove fatal.

The couple rented an automobile and drove 12 miles along the Eau Claire River to Big Falls. Both told how after their arrival they flipped the coin and won the respite. When the time came to go through with the pact, Chatterton said he could not shoot his wife and turned the gun on himself.

A farmer brought the wounded man and his wife here for medical assistance.

Two notes addressed to their parents were found on Chatterton, and held by W. C. Crocker, district attorney.

"Dear mother and all," one note said, "forgive us but this is the only way out. We want to be buried side by side. Bud and Burdette."

The couple did not reveal the motive.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 21.—Although another convict in the county jail, Henry C. Cano, confessed to the crime, Elmer Philips, 22, was sentenced in Criminal Court to 12 years in the Moundsville penitentiary for the highway robbery of Dr. F. K. McClure, from whom an automobile and $78 were taken near here.

KIDNAP RESCUE PLANS PUSHED

EL PASO, Tex., March 21.—(AP.)—Both the United States and Mexican governments today sought the release of J. E. Bristow, 60, American oil operator, from bandits in the mountainous region of the State of Nayarit, Mexico. E. W. Eaton, American consul at Mazatlan, has gone to Tepic, Mexico, to attempt negotiations with the kidnapers.

Meanwhile, Gordon Obie Bristow, San Angelo, Tex., cattleman, still was in El Paso awaiting the results of the negotiations for his father's release. He was undecided last night whether he would attempt a trip by airplane to the mountainous region.

Reports from Mexico were at variance as to the amount of money sought by the bandits. One report said 3,000 pesos were demanded and another said 10,000 pesos were asked for the oil operator's release.

ST. LOUIS, March 21.—(AP.)—Henry Ford has started using the Mississippi River for freight shipments, officials of the Federal Barge Line revealed.

In the last 30 days, they said, the Lower Mississippi Line has handled 100 carloads of automobile parts for the assembly plants at Memphis, New Orleans, Houston and Damas, sent by rail-water routes from Detroits and points in Ohio and Indiana. They understand that doubling of this tonnage is immediately in view and that if service continues satisfactory it will reach 400 carloads a month.

GINGER PLAGUE KILLS 3 IN OHIO

CINCINNATI, March 21.—(AP.)—Three Ohioans were dead and 125 were suffering with a strange form of paralysis which doctors said came from drinking a Jamaica ginger concoction. Sixty-five were stricken in Cincinnati, 20 at Middletown and 40 at Mount Vernon.

At Middletown, all the victims said they had drunk Jamaica ginger mixed with soda water.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 21.—(AP.)—About 100 more cases of partial paralysis laid by physicians and health officers to the consumption of adulterated Jamaica ginger were reported in the state, bringing the total number of known victims to nearly 300.

An itinerant peddler of Jamaica ginger in Nicholas County left a trail of paralyzed patrons, according to reports from there.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—(AP.)—Dr. A. R. Bliss, Jr., dean of the School of Medicine, University of Tennessee, announced that a partial analysis of two samples of ginger extract sent here from Corinth, Miss., for tests, showed positive reaction to isoprophyl alcohol.

Isoprophyl alcohol is used as a denaturing process and is said to produce partial paralysis similar to that with which numbers of persons have been afflicted in the South and Mid-West.

SLATTERY WILL GIVES $70,000

BOSTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Requests amounting to approximately $70,000 to become effective upon the death of his wife, were contained in the will of the late Bishop Charles Lewis Slattery, which was filed here. The value of the entire estate was not disclosed.

A $30,000 trust, the income to go to the testator's aunt, Mrs. Sarah Lewis Kaler of Rockland, Me., until her death, when the principal is to be added to the residue of the estate, was one of the stipulations.

The remainder of the estate is to be held in trust, the income to go to Mrs. Slattery. On her death the following bequests become effective:

To the rector, wardens and vestrymen of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairbault, Minn., $10,000; to the rector, wardens and vestrymen of Christ Church, Springfield, Mass., $10,000; a similar amount to the rector, wardens and vestrymen of Christ Church, New York, to be used as a memorial to Emma McLellan Slattery, mother of the late bishop; to the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Mass., $20,000; and to the Cathedral Church of St. Paul at Boston, $10,000, for some permanent memorial to Mrs. Slattery.

The balance of the trust funds and residue of the estate is given in equal shares to the nieces of the late bishop, Elizabeth Granger, of Thermopolis, Wyoming, and Sarah Slattery of Denver, Colo.

7 GANG KILLINGS IN ROTHSTEIN FEUD SOLVED

International News Service.

NEWARK, N. J., March 21.—The charred body of a murdered man, found in the ruins of a gasoline saturated and burned automobile more than six months ago, today gave mute evidence of an intercity gangland war that extended back to the time of Arnold Rothstein and resulted in no less than seven murders, one of which occurred in Cleveland.

After trying since August 9, last, to identify the body, Deputy Chief Frank E. Brex, of the local detective force, announced today that he had definitely established that the slain man was Eugene Moran, alias John Rice, 39, a gangster, who was well-known on New York's East Side.

Moran, according to Brex, was a $1,000 a week henchman of Arnold Rothstein. His murder, the detective chief believes, was in reprisal for Moran's leadership in a feud between Rothstein and Jack "Legs" Diamond, East Side gangster.

SEVEN MURDERS LISTED

The murders that resulted from this feud, Brex said, were:

1—The slaying of Frank Devlin, a henchman of Moran's in the Denver exploit. Devlin's body was found March 9, 1929, on a farm near Somerville, N. J.

2—The slaying of Thomas (Fat) Walsh, former bodyguard of Rothstein, who was shot to death while playing cards in the Miami Biltmore Hotel, Miami, Fla.

3—The death of Moran.

4—The slaying of James Batto, a New York gambler, whose body was found in an abandoned automobile in a New York street on September 11, 1929.

CLEVELAND KILLING

5—The killing of Daniel Ahern, a New York racketeer, in Cleveland on September 13 last.

6—The slaying of Mortimer Schubert, also a New York racketeer, whose body was found under an elevated structure in New York on November 14, 1929.

7—The murder of Harry Veasey, of New York, whose body was found in an automobile in Hoboken, N. J., on January 10 last.

NAB 40 IN RAID ON BREWERY

NEWARK, N. J., March 21.—(AP.)—In the biggest raid in Newark's prohibition history, dry agents, armed with rifles and revolvers, yesterday battered their way into the "beer drop," or distributing point for the former Henaler Brewery, taking 40 prisoners, more than 7,000 barrels of beer and five loaded trucks.

The plant was running at full capacity, with a 500-foot pipe line running from the rear of the brewery to a former garage across the street, now used as the distributing and loading point.

Facilities for filling five barrels at one time and for quick loading of trucks were discovered.

Izaak Walton League To Hear U. S. Ranger

Maj. Philip Martindale, United States ranger of Yellowstone National Park, will entertain the Izaak Walton League tonight with an address in Rehearsal Hall at Carnegie Institute. Maj. Suspects Abandon Auto, Make Escape

Lieut. Dale Rankin, of the Wilkinsburg Police Department, today asked Wilmerding police to investigate the movement of an automobile found abandoned in Wilkinsburg early today after two men occupying it escaped from Patrolman George Tucker, who sought to question them. Police say the car was listed as owned by Ornie Tharp, of 736 Middle avenue, Wilmerding.

Lake Ore Shipping Season Opens April 15

DULUTH, March 21.—Railroad officials expect the iron ore shipping season from the head of the Great Lakes to open about April 15. Minnesota iron mining operators are looking for a better than average season, but no intimations have been received from Eastern furnace connections regarding prospective tonnages.

Both the Oliver Iron Mining Co., a subsidiary of United States Steel Corporation, and the independents, are ready to mine heavier tonnages than last year. Three hundred ore cars will be placed in commission by the Great Northern Railway. Northern Pacific and the Soo railroads are also figuring on handling heavier ore shipments.

AUTOS COLLIDE, BOTH BLAMED

Mrs. Rebecca Kraus, 50, of the Roof Garden Apartments, Beacon street, was injured today when the auto she was driving collided with a truck at Wightman and Beacon streets. The truck was thrown against a traffic light and damaged it.

The driver of the truck, C. S. Coulter, of 2229 Sixteenth avenue, Homestead, was uninjured.

Following the accident, Mrs. Kraus received treatment at her home for bruises.

A charge of reckless driving will be placed against both the woman and Coulter, police said.

HUSBAND HELD IN WIFE'S DEATH

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va., March 21.—David Pugh, 50, member of a prominent pioneer family of Hancock County, was held for the grand jury without bail when arraigned before Justice of the Peace J. A. Ward yesterday, charged with the murder of his wife, Nancy Marshall Pugh, 45, whose dead body was found in a creek at Gas Valley.

The warrant charging murder was sworn out by George Marshall, 70, father of the dead woman. Pugh on the stand denied any connection with the death of his wife.

A note found in the home, alleged to have been written by the woman just prior to her death, telling of her reason for the act, was mentioned at the hearing, but the contents were not divulged. County Coroner George A. Arner had rendered a verdict of death by suicide.

Union Pacific Buys 33 Buses for Lines

OMAHA, Neb., March 21.—(AP.)—The Union Pacific system has announced the purchase of nearly a half million dollars worth of motor buses for transcontinental and West Coast routes. Twenty-two new stages will be added to lines between Chicago and Los Angeles, and 11 between Portland, Spokane, Boise and Salt Lake City.

Bus subsidiaries of the railroad system now have in operation 300 stages on transcontinental routes from Chicago and St. Louis.

Didn't Like Joke, Hoey Gives Aide Rest

Police Lieut. Owen McNichols, aide to Inspector James N. (The Umpire) Hoey, has been under suspension, it was learned today.

The story is that McNichols was suspended by Hoey soon after a Fourth of July torpedo exploded in the garage adjoining the Oakland Police Station.

It was regarded more or less of a joke to scare patrolmen on hand for roll call.

There is one report that the noise so upset Hoey that he toppled backwards out of his chair, but this, of course, is probably not true.

Nevertheless, McNichols has been heard by the Police Trial Board, which reserved decision.

Willys-Overland Shipments Higher

TOLEDO, March 21.—Willys-Overland shipments during the first half of March were 33 1-3 per cent ahead of similar period in February, according to L. A. Miller, president. Orders on hand indicate that March sales will exceed those of February by at least 50 per cent. Outlook for April indicates a good increase over March.

SUMMER TRADE OUTLOOK GOOD

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—Optimistic reports from the Chambers of Commerce of 21 cities taking in every section of the country were made public here by W. J. L. Barnham president of the New York Board of Trade, who has been conducting a nationwide survey of business conditions and unemployment.

An especially hopeful note was sounded in the replies on prospects for the spring and summer, particularly in the agricultural regions it is felt, the survey shows that this year will show better results than last.

"Without underestimating the seriousness of present unemployment conditions," Mr. Barnham said, "the Board of Trade believes that the critical period is past and that business is on the road to recovery."

Elks, Eagles Clubs Looted At Kane

KANE, Pa., March 21.—The club rooms of the Elks and Eagles lodges were entered by burglars. At the Elks the burglars pried the combination knob from the safe but could not open the door and failed to obtain $300. They took a telephone cash box from the wall which contained a few dollars. At the Eagles the safe, which was unlocked, was ransacked but no money secured. The thieves took a few dollars from a cash register.

ECKENER TO GET FLIGHT MEDAL

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Diplomats, cabinet members, senators and representatives will convene on the evening of March 27 at the Washington Auditorium to honor Dr. Hugo von Eckener in the presentation by the National Geographic Society of its gold medal to the man who commanded the Graf Zeppelin on its round-the-world flight last year.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the society, will present the medal to Dr. Eckener, who in receiving it will join a group of distinguished explorers. Scenes of the historic flight will be reproduced by sound pictures and the presentation exercises will be broadcast by both the National and Columbia Broadcasting systems.

Dr. Eckener and Mrs. Eckener will arrive in New York tomorrow where they will remain until the middle of next week.

Rio Janeiro Swept By 20-Hour Storm

RIO JANEIRO, March 21.—(AP.)—An equinoctial storm that had swept the city intermittently for 20 hours was blowing itself out last night after having uprooted trees, put street cars, telephones and lights out of commission, and damaged houses. Nobody was injured.

Aged Buffalo King Saved as Herd Sounds Knell

DENVER, March 21.—(AP.)—Old age, a crime in the buffalo kingdom and one which draws capital punishment, almost ended the career of General, one time monarch of the City Park zoo herd.

General is 28 years old, eight more than the usual buffalo allotment. He has been succeeded by Colonel as the herd leader.

Buffalo tradition decrees that when oldsters have outworn their usefulness they shall fall before the onslaught of the new leader. The cows of the herd milled about General in the customary manner that precedes delivery of the death blow. Colonel stood by with lowered head to administer it. He gave a snort.

Clyde Hill, superintendent of the zoo, heard it and knew what it meant. He succeeded in whisking General into another pen where the aged bull will spend what years remain to him.

SHIPS TO LEAVE BEFORE BYRD

DUNEDIN, March 21.—(AP.)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and several of his assistants will stay here a few days after his ships have left Dunedin for home. They will remain to complete business of the Antarctic expedition.

Admiral Byrd issued orders that the bark City of New York must be ready to sail Sunday afternoon and discharging of cargo and the loading of coal and provisions proceeded rapidly. Coal was stacked 12 sacks high on the bark's forward decks.

The steamer Eleanor Bolling will sail a week later than the City of New York. Some of the heavy cargo of the expedition will be taken back to the United States on mercantile cargo carriers.

At Tahiti the expedition's ships will join company and Admiral Byrd will go aboard for the long leg of the journey to the Panama Canal. It was expected that two months would be required for the journey to New York, since the Eleanor Bollings might have to tow the bark part way to Panama, due to the lack of favorable winds in that region.

Bernt Balchen and Harold June, who accompanied Admiral Byrd on the flight over the South Pole, will leave Sunday on the City of New York. Dr. Lawrence Gould, geologist, will be aboard the Eleanor Bolling.

Ashley McKinley, aerial surveyor, left to catch a mail steamer at Wellington, N. Z., for San Francisco, as it was considered imperative that his films be developed and printed and the mosiac maps compiled without delay.

SCIENTISTS WIN RADIO CLAIM

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Two young scientists, Percival D. Lowell and Francis W. Dunmore, of Washington, have advanced a step nearer an estimated fortune of $20,000,000 in royalties in radio patents.

In a decision by the examiner of interference of the United States Patent Office they were awarded priority in the invention of the "all electric" radio receiving set, which can be operated from house lighting circuits and without batteries.

Their claim had been contested by Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Wired Radio, Inc., and Murad Radio Laboratories, Inc.

It was a second victory for the young scientists, as they had previously been awarded a court decision in a suit against the Radio Corporation of America.

NOOSE CHEATED BY REPRIEVE

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 21.—"I was sure God would answer my prayers," was the only comment made today by George Saunders when visited in the death cell by Warden A. C. Scroggins and told that Gov. William Conley had granted him a reprieve until Tuesday, May 2, in order that new evidence might be gone into.

Saunders was removed from the death cell back to his original cell.

Saunders was condemned to die on the gallows today following his conviction of the murder of Dennis Smith, Logan County. He also is alleged to have shot and killed Gussie Bloxon at the same time, with the same bullet.

It is the second time that the condemned man has been granted a stay, he having recently been taken to Logan County to be resentenced after an appeal had been refused by the State Court of Appeals.

ARTIST ADMITS AFFAIR WITH INDIAN

Loved Only Wife, Declares Marchand, Held Witness In Killing; Explains Notes

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 21.—"I had an affair with Lila Jimerson, I'll admit that. But love her? No—there never was any real love between us."

Henri Marchand, internationally famous artist and sculptor, sat in cell No. 2 in the Erie County Jail here and made these statements to this correspondent in an exclusive interview. He was speaking of his sweetheart, Miss Jimerson, the Indian maid on trial for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, who was hammered to death in her home less than three weeks ago.

MODEL ACCUSED

Lila is accused of having influenced Nancy Bowen, an aged Seneca Indian woman, to commit the crime. Lila and Nancy had communed with the "spirits" together through the agency of a ouija board. "Ma" Bowen is in custody and will be tried later for first degree murder.

"I feel this disgrace keenly," said Marchand, as he paced back and forth in his cell. "It is an awful price to pay for one's achievement. I had to go out to the reservation and live with those Indians—be one of them—in order to make a success of my career, and this has been the result."

Lila was his model. She posed for him on a reservation 30 miles from Buffalo. She is 36 years old. The artist's wife, who was so brutally beaten to death, was 50 and, like her husband, an artist of high caliber.

CHARGE AMAZING

"I cannot conceive how anyone could entertain the suspicion that I could be in any way connected with the death of my wife. Why, she was so dear to me; it is unbelievable that I would want the slightest harm to befall her. She was so sweet. She was a little thing. She weighed only 90 pounds."

Asked if it were not a fact that he was the author of several "My Dear Lila" letters, Marchand frankly admitted he was, and quickly made this explanation:

"Lila was a consumptive. One of her lungs was gone. She knew she never could get well. When I wrote those letters I was merely trying to cheer her up."

Marchand also wrote that "the main fact is that we understand each other and we are not children any more."

Jury Panel Exhausted, Indian Trial Adjourns

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 21.—(INS.)—Failing to obtain a jury after attorneys had examined 139 talesmen in the last two days and a half, Judge F. Bret Thorn today adjourned the trial of Lila Jimmerson, dark-eyed Indian maid charged with the hammer murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, until 10 o'clock Monday morning because the original jury panel had been exhausted. A new panel of 100 will be sworn in Monday.

Only nine jurors had been obtained. Questioning of talesmen began Wednesday morning and ended temporarily shortly after 11 o'clock this morning.

LAMONT URGES CENSUS AID

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Secretary Lamont last night appealed to the nation to give its fullest support to the decennial census, which will be taken next month.

Speaking over the Columbia system, the Commerce Secretary urged the people not to hold back or be apprehensive when approached by the census taker.

"We appeal to you to respond unanimously," he said, "with zeal, vigor, precision and typical American frankness, to this great collective effort to advance the common good."

Secretarty Lamont said the census was one of the foremost tasks of the government this year and pointed out that it will cost approximately $40,000,000.

"What forces are at work in this America of ours?" he inquired. "What transformations are taking place? What are the currents carrying us? How is our particular community faring? The census should disclose the answers to nearly all these questions in the economic field. And such answers will provide the basis for prudent action. If we are to take sound, effective measures to keep our nation on the upward path, we cannot guess about conditions—we must know."

SOCIAL WORKER WINS AWARD

FOUR LUTHERAN SYNODS URGED

HARRISBURG, March 21.—(AP.)—Realignment of the synodical boundaries of the United Lutheran Church in Pennsylvania to form four synods out of the existing six, was recommended here by a committee representing the six districts.

The plan of re-districting was adopted by the committee, after several hours' discussion of a report submitted by a sub-committee which has made a survey of the subject for the last year. To become effective, the project must be approved by each of the present six synods at their annual meetings, to be held in May and June. In some sections of the state there have been churches belonging to two or three synods in the same city, this situation being most marked in Philadelphia.

The Lutheran church has a membership of 429,000 in the state.

BALFOUR TO LIE BY TINY CHURCH

EAST LINTON, Scotland, March 21.—(INS.)—The body of Earl of Balfour was taken today to Whittingehame, the home of his childhood, to lie in state in the little church there until tomorrow, when it will be interred in a plot beside an ivy-covered wall.

Throughout the British Empire, and in other parts of the world where the noted British statesman was known and loved, tribute is to be paid him. In Edinburgh, at the Cathedral of St. Giles, in London at Westminster Abbey, and throughout the British dominions services will be held.

The Duke of York will represent King George in the services at the Abbey, to be attended by many notable figures.

Services in the church at Whittengehame will be of the simplest, in accordance with Lord Balfour's wishes.

EQUAL RIGHTS BILL REVISED

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—A revised bill to provide citizenship parity between men and women, and designed to meet the desires expressed during hearings held on his recent proposal, was introduced by Representative Cable, of Ohio.

In general, the newly-introduced measure is similar to the old one. It was this bill upon which Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, testified regarding her own experience in facing an election contest because she had lost her citizenship by marrying a British army officer. She later was renatriated.

The revised bill would abolish expatriation for women because of residence abroad. It would put the native-born woman on an equal basis with the native-born man as to citizenship.

Also it would permit a woman who has married and lost her citizenship to return outside the immigration quota.

The new bill has the approval of the Immigration Committee and will be presented to the House as soon as Representative Cable completes his report on it.

OPEN HOSPITAL FOR CHILDREN

HARRISBURG, March 21.—(AP.)—Twenty children were transferred yesterday from the Mont Alto Sanatorium to the State Hospital for Crippled Children at Elizabethtown. They represent the first group of patients at the new hospital.

These youngsters were sent to Mont Alto for care until the hospital should be ready for their transfer and the hospital's staff also was assembled there to await completion of the furnishing of the building.

Children, ranging in age from one month to 16 years, who are handicapped by acquired or congenital deformities, will be admitted and cared for. During their stay, so far as possible, their mental and vocational education will be directed. The purpose of the hospital is to lessen the handicap which the crippled child faces, and to enable him to earn a living when he becomes mature. No mentally defective children will be admitted and county medical directors will be responsible for the admission of children from their districts.

The building will be open to the public probably within the next 10 days.

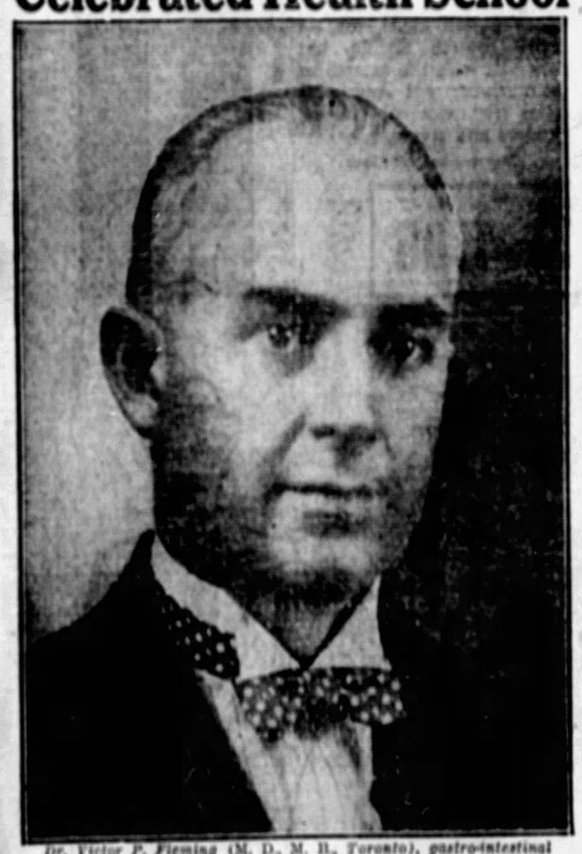
Flaxolyn Complete Success in Rigid Tests of Penna.'s Celebrated Health School



Dr. Victor P. Fleming (M. D., M. B., Toronto), gastro-intestinal specialist of York, Pa., whose unbounded praise of Dr. Lunts's new vitaminized herbal Flaxolyn is based upon actual use in the remarkable health school of which he is superintendent.

Dr. Fleming Tells How Vitaminized Flaxolyn Acts to Bring More Vigorous Vitality

On the Lincoln Highway at York, Pa., is a health school where hundreds of people from all over the State of Pennsylvania come to learn the greatest thing in life—how to live. The superintendent of this institution, Dr. Victor P. Fleming (M. D., M. B., Toronto), says: "We would not lend our name to any product which did not meet the most rigid clinical tests. We have played fair with all sorts of tonic-laxative preparations, submitted to us—saline, mineral, vegetable, etc. All of these we have rejected. Only Flaxolyn have we accepted and fully endorsed."

Says Flaxolyn Counteracts Acid Condition of the Blood

"It is because Flaxolyn safely changes acidity of the blood to a state of alkalinity," continues Dr. Fleming, "that we approve it so highly. In a health book which we are to publish shortly we are recommending the use of Flaxolyn to health-seekers who require aid for constipation, and a body building tonic of the highest herbal type."

The many symptoms indicating the presence of constipation poisons in the human system are: headaches, biliousness, sick, sallow complexion, stomach bloated with gas, heavy pressure on the stomach, sleeplessness, and general exhaustion.

Make This Free Test of Flaxolyn

You do not take the slightest risk when you give Flaxolyn a trial. The money you leave with the druggist is merely a deposit. The quick results must prove to you that Flaxolyn is more than worth the small amount you pay for it. Behind every bottle stands the integrity of the doctor who originated Flaxolyn, and who gives his own personal guarantee of your complete satisfaction.

IRON-BOUND GUARANTEE

I do not want you to pay for Flaxolyn unless you are fully satisfied that it does you good. I hereby guarantee that Flaxolyn contains only pure, harmless herbs combined with medicaments approved for their therapeutic value.

I further guarantee that unless Flaxolyn brings you a satisfactory improvement by the sixth pleasant spoonful, you may return the partly used bottle and the druggist will hand you back your money.

KDKA—Famous Lovers. Chopin-Sand Romance.

The story of the love affair of two outstanding artists of the nineteenth century, Frederic Chopin and Georges Sand, will be dramatized.

Georges Sand, the famous writer, whose real name was Aurore Dupin, spent her whole life protesting against accepted conventions and in affirming her belief that women were thinking individuals and not brainless toys. She thought she wanted to love a strong man, instinctively loved weak men, for her own will was too strong to be dominated by a man's.

Frederic Chopin, the Polish composer-pianist, was nervous, lonely and sensitive. He disliked noise, crowds and playing in public. It is not surprising, therefore, that Georges Sand was drawn to him—not surprising that for 10 years Chopin turned to her for mental support and sympathy. After they quarreled, Chopin never composed again.

BACON'S CIPHER LEFT TO PUBLIC

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—The will of William M. Voynich, who in 1912 discovered the famous cipher manuscript of Roger Bacon, it was disclosed today, provides that it never be sold to a private collector at any price, but that any public institution may buy it for $100,000.

Mr. Voynich, a noted bibliographer and medievalist, who died on Wednesday, discovered the manuscript in an Italian castle. The key to the manuscript, which contains some 300 pages inscribed with more than 800,000 words, was partly discovered by Mr. Voynich and the late Dr. William Romaine Newbold, of the University of Pennsylvania. Bacon, a thirteenth century English monk, entered his theories on science in cipher because of the superstitution of that age. The manuscript now rests in a safety deposit vault in New York.

Michelson Forgets His Own Luncheon

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—Prof. Alfred A. Michelson hopes an absent-minded scientist will be forgiven. He gave a luncheon at the Quadrangle Club, University of Chicago, for Dr. Lee DeForest. Various scientists waited for the professor. The soup got cold. Finally the luncheon proceeded without him. He forgot about it.

Protest Strike Ends, Cubans Resume Work

HAVANA, March 21.—(AP.)—With their 24-hour strike in protest against unemployment over, Cuba's workmen went back to their labors today. Street cars and omnibus lines again operated, relieving the partial tie-up of yesterday. Both in Havana and over the island the strike passed quietly.

President Machado told leaders of five labor organizations that the government was prone to view the strike as legitimate as long as manifestations were peaceful.

Freighter Seizure Held to Be Illegal

SEATTLE, March 21.—(AP.)—Release of the Canadian-American freighter Chief Capilano, seized under a writ of foreign attachment in the Strait of Juan De Fuca last Wednesday by a United States Coast Guard patrol boat, loomed today as a result of a ruling by Federal Judge E. E. Cushman. Although the freighter was seized in American waters, Judge Cushman last night held that the seizure was illegal under a treaty which guarantees free passage through the strait to American and British vessels.

Swirling Sand Covers Spokane With Grime

SPOKANE, Wash., March 21.—(AP.)—Spokane "Wash" was the natural slogan adopted here, following a sand storm which hurled so much dust into the homes and stores that cleaners bills will run into thousands of dollars.

The dust storm, which covered Eastern Washington, Northern Idaho and Western Montana, was succeeded here today by a light fall of snow, which soon disappeared.

The grime remained, however, causing woe to storekeepers because of damaged stocks and to housewives who had done their spring cleaning early.

Girl Given Parole On Mann Act Charge

ERIE, Pa., March 21.—Mary Glennon, 18, of Joliet, Ill., was placed on probation for two years to Probation Officer George O'Brien, when she pleaded guilty before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, Thursday afternoon, to charges under the Mann act.

According to admissions, the girl had induced Mary Quinn, 17, to leave her home in Joliet and accompany Camillo and Vincent Cascialo, professional dancers, on an automobile ride with the result that the girls were left stranded in Washington, Pa. The Cascialo brothers are being sought by the Department of Justice.

Think Train Victim Was Murdered First

KENTLAND, Ind., March 21.—(AP.)—Coroner Allan W. Kenoyer said today that the discovery of a carving knife, two blood-stained handkerchiefs and two bottles of poison near the railroad tracks where the body of Mrs. Bronys Norvydis was found Tuesday led him to believe she had been murdered and her body put on the tracks. The coroner said the woman's body had been so badly mangled when a train ran over it that it was impossible to determine how she had been killed.

HOLLYWOOD, BROADWAY HAPPENINGS AND LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

Rudy Vallee Going West In June to Make Another Film

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.

IN CASE anybody's heart is broken, okeh. But Harry Richman has decided to remain in Manhattan with Lew Leslie's International Revue. Richman was slated to chug West and lend his much Clara Bow-ed romantic self to another cinema. Ah, well, one learns to be stalwart in the face of disappointments . . .

AND while dipping the typewriter keys three thousand miles away, needs must this bureau print that Rudy Vallee—the heart palpitant of sundry Manhattan fems—expects to hit the Golden West trail in June. Um, another picture. RKO, I believe.

Rudy Vallee

Rudy may be a flame to New York, but when he habitated out here he wasn't an infinitesimal ember. Hollywood rages over hard breathing males. They can be normal at luncheon, but they gotta go for raw hamburgers in the flicks. And Rudy was such a gentle soul, with his deep set, still eyes and murmurous voice. And he rather ah-ed over the celebs, himself. You gotta be blase. Frank admiration is enough to have a private detective assigned a shadow job. Better luck this trip, Rudy . . .

HA, HA—THE SINGERS

SINGERS: Johnny Mack Brown, who modestly admits he can baritone 15 operatic arias. Reginald Denny, the monsieur of "Madame Satan," who abandoned the vocal chords for farcical caperings and has now returned to his first note. Norma Talmadge, if you please, and even if you don't. Milton Sills was trying the scales once. Don't know whether or not Milton abandoned the struggle. Even the supervisors sing, but they're only plugging their kumpny songs.

LENORE ULRIC ROLE

Lenore Ulric.

MEET THE WAITRESSES

USHERED into waitress outfits by Mrs. Abe Lehr, quite a few of the married fems have agreed to go in for "taking feed orders" in behalf of the Assistants League. This is a local charity, housed across from the Fox studio. Moneys made from the restaurant and goods for sale go to different charities. Mrs. Lehr took hold of the organization when it showed signs of gasping. She has enrolled as volunteer waitresses: Mrs. Douglas MacLean, Mrs. Dave Butler, Mrs. George Archainbaud, Mrs. Tod Browning, Mrs. Harry Beaumont, Mrs. George Fitzmaurice, Katherine Perry, Mrs. Henry King, Mrs. Benjamin Glazer, Carmen Pantages, Mrs. Howard Hawks, etc.

Jungle Film Added Feature in Sheridan

Arrangements have been made with Grace Flandrau, novelist, and Alice M. O'Brien, explorer, to present in the R-K-O Sheridan Square, beginning tomorrow, the talking picture record of their journey across Africa. The party spent considerable time in Itura, the home of the Pygmy people. The picture carries the audience from Stanleyville, in Belgian Congo, through the forest and jungle territory on into the lion, elephant and giraffe territory. The travel picture will be shown as an added attraction to the Richard Dix-Lois Wilson feature, "Lovin' the Ladies."

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

NEW YORK, March 21.

THINGS I NEVER KNEW TILL NOW

THAT the choicest spot in Miami is the jail, which is on the twentieth floor of the courthouse, where the breezes are plentiful.

That a lot of physical ills can be prevented by smokers if they light up after the flame on the match passes the sulphur line.

Walter Winchell

That the way to keep the shell of an egg from cracking while it is being boiled is to rinse it before putting it into the pot.

That city employes are exempt from income tax.

That some distilleries use ordinary prune juice to color it.

That Shakepeare was incessantly suing people for small amounts such as five and ten pounds, and was considered quite a sucker.

ALL DRUG USERS

THAT you and you and even you are drug-addicts; because your nervous system uses kuantities of adrenalin.

That high-voltage electricity has one failing that science has never been able to overcome, it simply cawn't turn sharp corners!

That the most brilliant minds gave up ever finding perpetual motion over 30 years ago, never imagining for a moment that it could be found in Chicago masquerading as Texas Guinan.

That if you go to sleep in the Strand Theater, even if you do not snore, the ushers will awaken you and say you cannot slumber there, which you can, by law, so long as you do not annoy anyone.

PLEASING TIP

THAT a high voltage, high frequency current will not kill you, but will give a swelegant dry cleaning.

That a terrier is a better mouser than a pussy cat.

That the three balls used as the sign of the pawnbrokers is not the coat of arms of the Medici family, but is an adaptation of the three coins of the merchant family Lombard. These three coins were later changed to three golden balls to make them visible at a distance.

That you cannot count up to $9,000,000 in a life time.

IN PARTNERSHIP

THAT the state of New York owns the Hudson River from shore to shore, but only one-half of the bed under it.

That the man who invented the pnioroscope was a janitor of a Dutch College.

That Shakespeare's original scenery consisted of signs telling the audience where the location was, and that except for those and chairs and tables the stage was free from other props.

That you walk erect because of the fluid in your ears.

That in New York you can use force on and beat your wife if necessary to obtain obedience from her, but that it must not be of such roughness as to "shock the conscience of the court."

AFTER DRINKING

THAT sherry is named after the Spanish town of Jerez, where the wine was originally made, the English pronouncing it Sherry.

That the lavalliere is named after the Duchess de La Valliere.

That sea shells have been found on top of Mt. Washington, N. H., proving it once lay under the ocean.

That a half dollar and a piece of paper of the same size fall at equal speeds. (You can win bets on that, one, too!)

That two years ago the late A. L. Erlanger turned down the offer of a theatrical combination organized in Wall street which proposed to pay him $1,000 daily for life for the use of his name.

HE DESERVED IT

THAT in 1914 a man who murdered a neighbor was fined $10 and was given a reprimand by a judge in Travers County, Tex.

That L. Rivers, the sponsor of "Green Pastures," refuses to tilt the prices of this biggest non-musical hit.

That if you are past 40 the chances are you cannot get a N. Y. Times staff job. Still the Times is not likely to fire you just because you have become old working for it.

That physicians prescribe nitroglycerin (an explosive) as a vasodilator in hardening of the arteries.

That the Joosh people were forced to become money lenders and to engage in commerce, for it was about the only things they were allowed to do in the Middle Ages.

That former soldiers who have sustained amputations, ride free on all street cars in Toronto.

That a forthcoming issue of Collier's will tell a few things about Broadway that even we never suspected.

EUROPA FIGHTS OCEAN GALES

CHERBOURG, France, March 21.—(AP.)—Off for New York on her first Atlantic crossing, the new North German Lloyd liner Europia, sister ship of the Blue Ribbon Bremen, steamed out of port into headwinds and westerly gales last night. She remained in the Roads only 65 minutes, a call record-breaking for its shortness.

A hundred miles out, the big liner wirelessed that she had run into violent headwinds. Nautical men here believe that she will hardly be able to break the Bremen's record for the crossing if the westerly gales hold for several hours.

Officials of the North German Lloyd line have declined to comment on reports that the Europia would try to better the Bremen's time of 4 days 17 hours and 24 minutes. Nevertheless her time will be closely watched.

The new German crack ship steamed majestically out of the Roads at 5:20 p. m. (12:20 p. m. Pittsburgh time), in a blaze of sunshine intervening between March showers. She received the admiration of every sea-faring man in this ancient seaport, although no official reception, contrary to custom on maiden voyages, marked her arrival in the Roads.

It was noted that the crew rushed about loading mail and baggage and that passengers were hurried on board. The Bremen, eastbound, arrived here only a few hours before the Europa.

Find 'Good' Beer In Raid On Hotel

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 21.—County detectives reported finding a modern barroom with "good beer" on tap when they raided the Arnold Hotel at Arnold, seizing, in addition, whisky and wine. Informations were made against Isadore Frank, alleged proprietor, and his assistant, T. J. Yeckel.

Smithfield Man, Hurt In Auto, Dies

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 21.—Injuries sustained March 16 in an automobile accident caused the death of Walter Hittie, 43, of Smithfield. Two of his children, Carl and Ira, were discharged from the hospital this week while Elizabeth, a third child, is still confined to the hospital.

Miner Crushed Between 2 Cars

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 21.—William J. Tarpley, 38, was crushed to death in the Maxwell mine of the H. C. Frick Coke company near here yesterday. He was caught between two mine cars. He leaves his wife and two children.

YOU can become too successful, too. Luke Barnett has succeeded so well as the practical joker that the other night at the American Legion banquet he slipped into a wig and a mustache to play the part of Count Something or Other, the well-known German banker. The disguise is necessary because too many of us know Luke by sight.

We are disappointed in Joe Slumbo. At the Braddock fights last summer he used to sit in the dollar seats and mimic the gesticulating announcer. The crowd liked his act, so John Hernon signed him up as a professional announcer for Motor Square Garden. But the young man developed stage fright, apparently, and now he's very formal about it all and no better than any other announcer.

ONE of the best cabaret entertainers (and there are very few good ones) we have ever seen is Al Shenk, a comedian. But for some reason or other he prefers to be vulgar as often as not. That's probably why he isn't more successful.

The rookie policeman at Central Police Station is introduced to the intricacies of policing by being instructed to "pull the box" attached to a girder alongside the Wabash Building. It's a dummy box.

GLENN RIGGS is a local radio announcer who is acquiring local fame through his laugh. Riggs conducts an early-morning program over KDKA in which he reads letters pointing out this or that foible of 1930. Riggs laughs whenever he feels like it. And many of his listeners can't refrain from joining him.

There is, after all, something to be said for the younger generation. The other night, at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street, a young woman who answered generally the description of a flapper found herself confronted by a moving street car as she hurried across the street. Calmly she hopped on to the front cow-catcher, rode a dozen feet, and when the motorman stopped, stepped off and went on about her business.

DURING the recent trial of Al Forney, that gentleman's admirers went to lengths to protect him from photographers.

Each day a different, devious exit from the Courthouse was used. On one occasion his lawyer, Hiram Hirsh, slipped into Mr. Forney's derby, overcoat and spectacles to deceive the picture men. Come to think of it, a picture of Hiram in that makeup would be an unusual picture in itself.

Not confident of our memory, we make notes on slips of paper and thrust these notes into a pocket. One slip we have just examined said: "A big, brown fox jumped over the fence," and now we can't remember the name of the fox's owner or where the fence was.

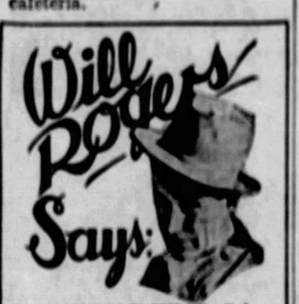
THERE was an ad. in a Pittsburgh paper the other day which said: "Wanted—special writer for cafeteria, $3,600." If you'd like to spend an idle hour in conjecture, try to decide on what should be the qualifications of a special writer for a cafeteria.



BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 21.

US POOR old movie folks do have our troubles lately. We no more than adapt ourselves to some new invention than another one knocks us in the creek. Talking pictures hit us at a time when we was as dumb as a rabbit, color photography showed up our red noses and grey hair, and to sink us entirely, some guy in Washington got a patent on an apparatus that will register "smell in the movies."

Now we not only got to look colorful, talk good, but our personal odor has got to be above suspicion. A criticism will read, "popular John Gilbert appeared here last night in 'Love 'Em and Destroy 'Em.' His speaking voice in the lower registers is pleasing, he has dark spots under his eyes, and a bluish bruise on his left thigh, he acts marvelous, but why don't he do something about his halitosis?"

Yours, WILL.

Quentin's Hidden Identity Source of Amusement

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the adventurous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walker White, "T. R.," the most active member of the gang; Quentin, the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day, after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lives of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

CHAPTER XV.

Q COULD make the best of what was at hand. And, here, he found a certain reverse amusement in being utterly disregarded by the strangers he had attracted to the models. There was a pronounced piquancy for us, too, in finding that Q was unknown, the opposite usually being the case.

Quentin, well aware of the possibilities for fun in an incognito, joined himself to the group about the table. "What's that place, there?" he asked, pointing to the little, toy-like White House.

One of the party turned to Quentin. "You live fh Washington?" he asked sharply.

"Yessir," Q admitted. "I was born here——"

"There it is, all over again!" said the man, scornfully. "You don't even know that that's the White .Iouse!"

"Nosir," Q said, with his tongue in his cheek, and the index and second finger of both hands crossed. "Is it a museum?"

The Gang, clutching the edges of the showcase, with an extreme effort at self control, their features expressing the agonized pain of repressing a joyous shout, managed, somehow, to maintain silence.

"No," Q's informant explained, "it's not a museum; it's where the President lives. Teddy, you know——"

"President Teddy, I do know!" Q cried, and, realizing that he would not be able to contain his laughter much longer, ran out into the corridor, where it exploded, rudely shattering the austere silence of the library. . . . None of the sightseers ever understood.

Hidden Identity

Amusement for Everybody in the Gang

Q's incognito was ever a delight both to him and to us, and we preserved it, even to the point of having our investigations interrupted by a Marine sentry and being shooed away from intriguing places while on a visit to the Naval Academy, at Annapolis. We were under the guardianship of my uncles, of Washington, both then in the banking business.

This was at a moment when Q, temporarily, was doubting everybody and everything, exhibited best, perhaps, by the series of experiments he carried on intermittently, all day, with his dollar watch. The last test to which he subjected it was the severe one of throwing it repeatedly into a sandbank and as often digging it out, to find that it still continued to run.

In that mood Q must have had some vagueness even as to the leaders of the expedition; until then he had not really known either of them; Q's doubts were soon shown to be resolved, however, when he said abruptly and most decisively, "There are good bankers and bad bankers, and both of you are evidently good bankers. Do you suppose I might call you Uncle Ed and Uncle Reggie?"

Receptions

Boys Dislike Them and Stay Away

When granted permission by both men, he wriggled with pleasure, something after the manner of a puppy, shown great favor. Then, in explanation of his previous statement, he added: "Some bankers—present company excepted, you know—have rich, evil faces and I'd like to bust 'em!" Doubtless this was an echo, reverberating in his ears, of something he had heard about "trust-busting."

Evidently the character of the good bankers was passed on, with Q's complete comment, to his father; for, a long while later, when the younger of the two uncles attended a presidential reception, and his name was announced by the aide, TR said in a voice, which resounded with pleasure from the Blue Room, through the Green and even into the East Room, "Hah! This is Uncle Reggie!"

To us, the occasional receptions were sheer annoyances; they hampered our freedom of movement. On the fringes of one, we had overheard some unfavorable comments upon our personal appearance, and thereafter, we never, intentionally, went near them, nor any of the ordinary visiting pilgrimages, either. When any such wandered near us and stared, we stiffened into unnatural formality and sought business elsewhere. Of course, being stared at, under certain conditions was amusing; but to Q, in his own home and garden, certainly not.

Baseball

Stranger Wants Ball That Quentin Hit

There were, however, unavoidable meetings. Once, when we were practicing ball, and I was pitching very badly, Q unexpectedly hit a high pop fly, clear over the iron picket-fence of the south garden. Charlie Taft ran to the fence just in time to see a stranger pick up the ball from the roadway, and continue on in the direction of Fifteenth street.

"Hey!" Charlie yelled. "Thanks for the ball!" He held up his mit, naturally expecting the ball to be returned.

"Who hit that ball over?" the stranger asked, walking towards the fence.

"Why, Quentin did—" Charlie said.

"Quentin Roosevelt?" the man asked curiously.

"Sure I did," Q interrupted. "What's the matter with my doing it?"

"Nothing at all," the man replied, scrutinizing the ball in his hand.

"Thanks for the ball," Q said persuasively.

"What will you give me for it?" the fellow temporized.

Q's face flushed; he was surprised into speechlessness; finally he burst out: "What will I give you? Nothing! Ab-so-lutely nothing! Why should I? It's not your ball. We just couldn't get it, right away, because of the fence. But I'd rather lose it, entirely, than give you anything, for what's ours. And if you take it, you're stealing. . . ."

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute!" said the stranger, laughing. "I'm not going to take it. But it's a valuable ball—to both of us. Now, I'll strike a bargain with you: if I throw it back to you, will you permit me to return with a dozen of the best new balls I can buy—the kind they use in the big leagues—

DR. FRANK C. JORDAN'S GREATLY-ENLARGED PHOTOGRAPH OF SKIES IN WHICH PLANET CAN BE SEEN WITH TELESCOPE

CLUB PLANNED ON SOUTH SIDE

The proposed boys' club for the South Side will be discussed at a meeting of board members of the Civic Club in the South Side Carnegie Library, Tuesday night. J. M. Lodge, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Boys' Club, Butler and Forty-fifth street, will co-operate with the South Side organization.

Civic leaders will attempt to interest business men and manufacturers in the project. The Civic Club already has gymnasium equipment and other material available and the plan is to lease a building in the central part of the district.

Circus Stars Wed By Squire Ill In Hospital

Dan Cupid entered Homestead Hospital last night to persuade Justice of the Peace Richard Lloyd, of Homestead Park, to tie the martial knot for a star bare-back rider and an acrobat of Ringling Brothers Circus. Lloyd is a patient in the hospital, where he recently underwent an operation.

The bride was Leah Friedman, of Chicago, and the bridegroom, whose horsemanship won her way into the heart of Lester F. Berger, son of E. F. Berger, of Miller avenue, Homestead Park. Berger and Lloyd have long been friends, and the couple decided to wait until the justice had recovered sufficiently to perform the ceremony.

ATTACK BULK SALES ACT

Constitutionality of the bulk sales act of 1919 was attacked yesterday before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. It was averred that the act was repealed by the passage of the uniform fraudulent conveyance act of 192..

The averments were made when argument was heard on the appeal from the decree of Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County, which decided that the sale of assets of the E. A. Myers Company was fraudulent and in violation of the bulk sales act.

The original complaint was brought by a creditor of the Myers Company, C. S. Miller, who alleged that proper notice had not been given. Miller conducted also an automobile agency at Uniontown for the vendor corporation. The plaintiff was a creditor of the Myers Corporation. The sale was declared void by the lower court and the defendant held liable for $9,784 with interest from January 12, 1926.

Pitt Students to Vote On Prohibition Issue

The prohibition question reached the campus of the University of Pittsburgh today.

The Pitt Weekly, undergraduate organ, announced that a student poll will start March 24 and requests co-operation from students in all schools. Ballot boxes will be placed in the Alumni, Thaw, pharmacy, medicine and law buildings. The movement is part of one fostered by 25 universities throughout the nation.

Normal L. Parks, editor, and Lawrence Bachman, circulation manager of the school paper, are directing the tabulation.

The vote will be simultaneous through the 25 schools of the country, Parks announced, and various news services will get the results next Thursday. The officials of the university are interested in the poll and sponsoring it here, Parks said. The ballot, used also in the other schools, asks these questions:

"Do you drink? If you do not drink, state reason—legal restriction, family restriction, personal taste?

"Do you favor the present prohibition situation—modification of laws, strict enforcement or total repeal of laws?"

Four Boys Arrested In Stolen Car Chase

Searching the North Side for bandits, Detective Thomas Morgan came upon four boys in a stolen automobile at Reedsdale and Cremo streets, last night. Instead of halting at the detective's command, the boys increased the speed of the car, but were captured after a short chase when a tire on the machine was punctured by a bullet from Morgan's revolver. They were sent to the Juvenile Court detention rooms.

North Braddock Girl Badly Hurt by Auto

As a result of being struck by an automobile in Electric avenue, North Braddock, Margaret Pollshen, 7, of 1419 Electric avenue, North Braddock, today was in Braddock General Hospital in a critical condition. David Herd, of 100 Dixon avenue, Oak Hill, alleged driver, was arrested, but later released under $1,000 bail. The girl suffered a fractured skull, police said.

12 PERSONS VICTIMS OF GANG

Woman Included In List Robbed at Drug Store; Cash, Valuables Taken

Three armed bandits added a dozen other victims to their list late last night and early today while a squad of detectives combed the North Side district in an effort to check the holdups.

The armed trio held up a drug store, a restaurant and then rifled the pockets of a pedestrian at East Ohio street and Mt. Troy road.

Jean Stack

The bandits struck first by holding up the pharmacy of Walter J. Ochsenhirt, 3594 Brighton road. They forced seven customers, including a woman, and two employes into the back room of the store.

There the patrons and the clerk, David Chilcotte, and the manager, I. J. Ostrander, were robbed of cash and jewelry. The robbers looted a cash register of $150, then fled from the store and escaped in an automobile.

A few hours later, three armed men, believed to be the same trio, held up the Teapot Dome restaurant, 1824 Brighton road, drove Jean Stack, a waitress, and Samuel Gively, the cook, into the rear room and rifled the cash register of $75. One of the bandits searched a customer for a revolver but made no attempt to rob him.

Early today three robbers leaped from an auto at East Ohio street and Mt. Troy and robbed Joseph Amalsmier, of 2813 Gobden street, of $13.

Existence of the new major planet discovered recently by Harvard University astronomers was proved today by Dr. Frank C. Jordan, assistant director of Allegheny Observatory.

Dr. Jordan took a photograph last Sunday night of the stars in the vicinity of Delta Geminorum. He took another of precisely the same region of the sky Wednesday night. On being developed the second plate showed that one of the stars occupied a different position from that which it occupied in the first picture. The other stars had not changed. The one that moved was the new planet, as yet unnamed.

In the 8x10 plates, the planet, a star in the fifteenth magnitude, is a tiny speck, scarcely visible without magnifying glass, while Delta Geminorum, a third magnitude star, is about a quarter of an inch across.

EVANS TO QUIT BENCH SOON

President Judge John A. Evans, of Common Pleas Court, will soon resign from the bench, on the advice of his physicians, according to his statement yesterday. The jurist, one of the oldest in the state in point of service, will give up his duties as soon as he disposes of unfinished business.

Judge Evans is 76 years of age and completed 31 years on the Common Pleas bench in September. He was appointed in September, 1898, elected the following November, and re-elected for three succeeding 10-year terms. His commission would not expire until January, 1940. He will be succeeded as president judge by Judge James R. Macfarlane, in line of seniority.

FIND POSITION OF PLANET X

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 21.—(AP.)—Harvard Observatory announced the first officially recorded position of the newly discovered Trans-Neptunian planet, or "Planet X," as it is temporarily known. The announcement follows:

"On a plate of 90 minutes exposure, made March 19, with the 16-inch Metcalf refractor at Harvard, the photographic magnitude of the Trans-Neptunian planet is estimated 16.0 on the International Magnitude scale.

North Side Woman's Room Robbed of $70

Police, Mine Squad Lose In Fight for Child's Life

An all-night battle by police of the Woods Run Station, the emergency squad of the Mine Safety Appliance Company and two physicians to save the life of a little girl suffering from pneumonia, ended in defeat when the victim, Ruth Taylor, 6, died at her home at 1415 Fulton street, North Side, at 5:45 a. m. today.

Police were summoned shortly after 6 p. m., when the family physicians announced that oxygen was needed to save the child's life. Patrolmen Harry Buch and Harry Hamilton hurried to the house and began administering oxygen. Their supply exhausted, they called for aid from the North Side and Central Police Stations.

When these tanks were emptied a call was sent to the mine appliances company and a squad of four, headed by Gus McClelland, hurried to the Taylor home.

Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor, became ill a week ago. Yesterday afternon pneumonia developed and her condition became grave and the only possible chance of saving the girl's life, the doctors said, was by administering oxygen.

The victim's father returned home from Detroit yesterday upon hearing of his daughter's illness.

CHIEF JUSTICE POINTS NEED OF REFORM

Tells Lawyers at Banquet Here Legislation Should Yield Power Over Rules

A hope that the Legislature will concede to the Supreme Court of the state the right to make rules regulating the procedure and practices in the courts, was expressed by Robert Von Moschizisker, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, last night. He was the principal speaker at a banquet in the William Penn Hotel, held in honor of the members of his court. It was sponsored by the sixth zone and the Allegheny County Bar Association.

Bernard J. Myers, of Lancaster, state president, and Forest G. Moorhead, of Beaver, also spoke. Myers, in his address on the association's aims, announced the personnel of a committee to revise and codify the laws of the state relating to corporations.

SMITH CHAIRMAN

Edwin W. Smith, of this city, was named chairman. Other members are John G. Buchanan, of the University of Pittsburgh; George E. Alter, of this city; C. Reynolds Bedford, of Scranton; William Clark Mason, Franklin Spencer Edmonds, A. Carson Simpson and Charles I. Thompson, Philadelphia; Charles H. Hollinger and George Ross Hull, of Harrisburg; S. R. Zimmerman, of Lancaster; Seth T. McCormick, Jr., of Williamsport, and Thomas A. Crichton, of Wellsboro.

Chief Justice Moschzisker lauded the bar association system. He pointed out that at the next judicial conference, to be held next month in Philadelphia, attention would be brought to a resolution, to take the form of an act of Assembly, in which the Legislature would be asked to give the courts the right to govern themselves.

FOR COURT RULE

"I often think," he said, "that it would have been much better if, in the beginning, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania had assumed the attitude that the regulation of all procedural matters—practice in the court, rules of evidence, etc.—was for the judiciary exclusively, not for the Legislature. But there have been too many recognitions of legislative right to deal with these matters for the judiciary now to take over that which belongs to it. As things stand, the best we can hope is that the Legislature will concede it to us, at least a modified form."

The Chief Justice prepared the proposed statute, which, he explained, will be presented to the conference of 160 judges next month, with the view of having it recommended to the Legislature.

George E. Alter, former attorney general, was toastmaster. W. W. Smith, president of the association here, presided.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: "Should a poor man marry a rich girl, or vice versa? Under these conditions will the marriage be happy?"

CLARA SCROGGINS, Seventh Avenue Cafeteria, Downtown: "If true love exists between the boy and the girl in the case, then I can't see why the matter of one having a lot of money and the other little or none—should make any difference. If the real affection is present neither will have anything to worry about. Most of these types of marriages have proved successful anyhow."

Miss Scroggins.

ANNA KOLCUN, Cashier, Downtown: "I don't think the fact that the woman has more money makes any difference to two persons who really are in love. There used to be a saying that riches and limited means could never get along together, but the number of Cinderella - Prince Charming marriages in recent years—most of which have proved successful—have disproved this theory."

Miss Kolcun.

MARGARET LAZORIE, Southside: "There is a possibility that if the girl has a large amount of money, the fellow who contemplates marriage with her might feel inclined to believe he is imposing on her generosity. But if both really love one another the amount of money each has won't make any difference."

Miss Lazorie.

GRACE MEHAFFEY, checker, Seventh Avenue Cafeteria: "If two persons are in love, regardless of their financial standing as compared to each other, the matter of mere money doesn't matter. Love knows no barriers, and for that reason I am inclined to believe that they could really live happily. One's possessions, under the ordinary procedure of American married life, are supposed to belong to the other."

Miss Mehaffey.

MARIE DUGAN, Hazlewood: "If I really loved a man I wouldn't care at all whether he had a lot of money or not. I'd expect him to feel the same way if the situation were the reverse. There have been innumerable cases where a poor man, who loved a rich girl was afraid to propose because he felt he was imposing on her. I don't think one should assume this attitude."

Miss Dugan.

MARY TURONY, Southside: "Happiness doesn't always depend on money matters. In fact, in most cases the situation is the exact reverse. The matter of a fortune doesn't make any difference. Sometimes men feel cheap, living on their wife's money, but it is only a state of mind rather than an actuality. I believe it is perfectly all right to marry under those circumstances if the mutual affection is present."

Miss Turony.

TRAFFIC MAN SHOWS NEED OF CONTEST

Chamber of Commerce Now Leading Battle on Tariffs Proposed by Rail Body

If the Interstate Commerce Commission increases the rates of iron and steel shipments within the Pittsburgh Industrial district, this city's industries will lose huge sums in business, Donald O. Moore, manager of the traffic division of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce said today.

The local chamber is waging a fight against the commission putting into effect the new rate schedule. The new rate schedule is to take effect May 20. In addition to the above-mentioned loss of outside business, local industrialists will have more than $1,000,000 alone added to their yearly freight bill, Mr. Moore states that figures obtained by the chamber indicate.

Moore has been named chairman of the committee to assemble evidence to present to the State Public Service Commission at a hearing which is to be requested within a few weeks. Representatives of local concerns will meet Wednesday in the chamber with Mr. Moore to map their fight.

ROCKS MENACE ROADWAY

Overhanging rock menaces motorists on Mt. Washington Roadway and a tragedy may result unless the condition is remedied, Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang has informed Council.

Stating that he has neither the men nor equipment to remove the menace, Lang asked $9,500. The space behind the parapet wall has been filled, he said, and any rocks that might fall will hit the roadway. He wants to remove approximately 1,000 cubic yards from behind the wall.

The situation is worst, he reported, east and west of the Monongahela Incline. Council will confer with the department's engineers on the matter.

CO-EDS AT TECH WATCH CHEFS

Classrooms of the Institutional Management Department of Margaret Morrison Carnegie College were transferred to the Hotel Schenley kitchens yesterday, where the students watched chefs, pastry cooks and bakers do honors in the culinary arts.

The visit, according to Miss Grace Ware, instructor, is part of the curricular activities of the class, which prepares young women for positions as tea room and cafeteria managers, dieticians, dining room supervisors and restaurant executives. Actual class room credit is given for the inspection trip.

From top to bottom the spacious kitchens were inspected. All girls assisted in the operations of learning how a meal was served and prepared in a big hostelry. Head Chef A. Danzi explained the processes. They watched silver, copper and gold plate polished, pastry mixed and baked, chops, filet mignons and steaks grilled, oysters shucked, salads prepared and serving supervised.

Copious notes were taken, later, Miss Ware said, to be prepared into class theses for semester credits.

Aside from visiting hotels, trips are taken at intervals to hospitals, restaurants and other institutions. Activities are observed closely.

And to top matters off at the Schenley the students sampled most of the victuals they saw prepared by European and American chefs a few minutes before. Monsieur Danzi acted as host.

"You ladies do me ze big honor today and I want to show you everyzing we do," Chef Danzi assured them as he prepared menus for luncheon and dinner.

"Pleez come back aggain," he invited.

Institutions are graded, according to Miss Ware, from the standpoint of equipment, management and quality. The students work under the supervision of the college household economics division.

Twentieth Century Club Members Enjoy Three Original Plays

THE original plays production brought out a large audience of Twentieth Century Club members yesterday afternoon, an audience that very obviously enjoyed and approved the three playlets offered. Bedell Monro and Miss Eda McCoy, with Buglers Samuel Foster and Craig Moore, of Boy Scout Troop 67, sounding assembly and taps offstage.

The play is prettily conceived around an old Hartz Mountain legend found on the mantelpiece of the inn where the action takes place.

Miss Sophie Keenan's tragic little incident of the Mexican War, which she has named "The Torn Cap," was presented by Mrs. Thomas H. Eddy, Miss Helen R. West, Mrs. Arthur R. Little and Mrs. George B. Oates.

The third playlet, which was by Mrs. C. F. C. Arensberg, takes its name, "Rosy Apple, Lemon or Pear," from an old rhyme. Its cast was made up of the author, Mrs. Ernest Calhoun, Mrs. Edward O. Tabor, Mrs. S. Brainard West and Mrs. James M. Clark.

All three were given appropriate and attractive settings by Mrs. H. Allen Machesney and Miss Eleanor Grier, of the drama committee. Tea followed.

AIRPORT LAND PLEA UPHELD

Overestimating or under estimating property values in condemnation proceedings was scored by Judge Frank P. Patterson today in granting a new trial to Allegheny County in the acquisition of property in Mifflin Township for the new airport.

The court upheld the county's contention that the jury's award of $35,385 for the Louisa Notz property was excessive.

Estimates of the value of the property by witnesses for the owners ran as high as $160,000. County estimates ranged around $20,000 and $25,000.

"It is more conducive to the administration of justice for both parties to avoid overvaluing on the one hand, or undervaluing on the other," the court held, "so that a jury may be able to arrive at a just verdict instead of being forced to render a compromise verdict without a substantial basis of valuation.

"Where such conditions exist so obviously as in this case, it seems to us the duty of the court to grant a new trial as often as may be necessary that justice may be done."

Automobile Theft Confessed by Boy

Sam Boyd, aged 16, of 864 Saw Mill way, was held for further investigation today in Morals Court when he admitted before Judge Thomas D. Jones that he stole an automobile last night in Pressly street, North Side.

City detectives testified they followed the car for two miles before they stopped Boyd. Three other boys, all under 15 years of age, were with Boyd.

Mrs. Lwellyn was arrested yesterday afternoon in Kaufmann's store by city detectives. At the hearing this morning, a representative of Kaufmann's testified she attempted to pass a check for $25 in payment of several dresses. She represented the check as signed by Dr. F. C. Blessing and payable on the Hazelwood Savings and Trust Company. She admitted the charge.

Representatives of Gimbel's, Gilbert's Furniture Store, Schroeder Radio Store, Wurlitzer Company and the Bank of American Trust Company also appeared against the woman.

After admitting all the counts, the defendant pleaded that she was the mother of five children and needed the money for rent.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

Ends Coughs!

"Each cough made me more anxious... more frightened!"

"It was eleven o'clock on a bitter winter night — my little daughter Jane woke up—coughing. My husband ran to the drug store and got a bottle of Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. With the very first swallow of the syrup her cough began to calm down. We gave her a little bit every hour and finally, around two o'clock in the morning, she fell asleep again. How relieved I was! In the morning Jane felt much better—and in two days she was all well again."

STYLISTS PREDICT CORAL TO BE POPULAR FOR SPRING

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, March 21. — Corral some coral, wherever you may chance upon it. For it promisess to be immensely popular this season with both black and white costumes. Coral is especially pleasing with dresses of white and off-white shades, when the material is taffeta or satin, rather than a sheerer fabric. Some amber has also been noted, and it would appear that such jewelry owes its appeal to the prevalence of dresses that are plainly of period inspiration. Then too, coral, amber, topaz and similar semi-precious stones are quite restful in addition to the glittering splendors of the scintillating gems that have played such a shining part in the sartorial scheme since last Autumn.

WE cabled you recently some salient details of the very fascinating Bal de la Couture held at the Opera. We are ever so pleased to be able to send you some sketches of certain of the most successful costumes, all of which were contributed by the leading houses here. The first sketch is of an alluring white taffeta frock, with a close fitting bodice and skirt beneath circular panels at sides and back. The decolletage was cut in a wide square at the front with the straps well out over the shoulders and a deep V in back. A huge puffed bow of cherry colored taffeta was placed on the left hip and matching taffeta shoes were worn. Coral jewelry completed the color note of this happy frock which was worn by an attractive young brunette.

THE other sketch is of a ravishing evening gown, one of the gems of the creations that Mr. Worth selected to represent his distinguished establishment at the Bal de Couture. The frock of heavy black georgette has a semi-fitted bodice draped slightly across the front, and a long-all-around taffeta ruching. The short jacket of ermine that would look well with any type of black flaring skirt edged with heavy evening frock, has motifs of black velvet embroidered with strass inset into the sides and sleeves of the jacket. The décollete of the gown forms a deep "V" in back.

LAUD EDITORIAL ON ALIENS

A resolution commending an editorial which appeared in Wednesday's Sun-Telegraph was passed yesterday by the officers and board of managers of Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution.

The editorial, entitled "Ejection of Undesirable Aliens Will Stop Mischief," read in part:

"It is high time that the government of the United States stopped trifling with the abuse of American hospitality by undesirable aliens. If, after rigid enforcement of existing law, it is found that more law is needed to rid this country of undesirable aliens, then the Congress should legislate without fear or favor to the end that these morally unfit may be deported as rapidly as the physically and mentally unfit are remanded whence they came."

Col. Franklin Blackstone, a director of the organization, made the resolution. Copies of it will be sent to Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for favorable action.

Rhubarb Tarts. Coffee.

PLANNING Lenten menus that are both varied and nourishing becomes quite a problem after the first week. That's why I am suggesting this meatless menu for our Sunday dinner. I know you'll find the crabmeat baked in tomato shells delicious, if you prepare the dish in this way:

Scoop out the inside of 6 tomatoes and mix the pulp with 1½ cups canned crabmeat and ¾ cup cream sauce. Refill the tomato shells with this mixture, sprinkle with a few grains mustard and cover the tops with buttered bread crumbs. Bake for 30 minutes.

IN the meantime prepare the vegetable roast so that it, too, can be placed in the oven. Press ½ cup cooked peas through a sieve and combine with ½ cup chopped boiled carrots and ½ cup cooked string beans cut in pieces. Add 1½ cups milk, 1 egg slightly beaten and 1 cup soft bread crumbs. Season with ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and ½ teaspoon paprika.

Turn into a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm.

THE rice cakes are simply prepared. Mix 1½ cups boiled rice with ½ teaspoon salt and the yoke of 1 egg. Form into flat cakes and roll in bread crumbs. Brown the cakes on both sides in hot fat or butter and there you are!

There's no more delicious way of serving a rhubarb dessert than in individual tarts covered with a

WHILE the pasetry is baking, prepare the filling. Blanch 2 cups peeled, sliced rhubarb by letting it stand in boiling water 10 minutes. Drain. Add 1 cup sugar and 3 tablespoons flour and cook 15 minutes. Pour this over 1 egg, well beaten; add 1 tablespoon orange juice and cook 5 minutes longer, stirring constantly.

Pour into the baked shells. Cover with a meringue made of 2 egg whites and 2 tablespoon powdered sugar, and return to the oven until the meringue is slightly browned.

CREAM OF SPINACH SOUP—Cook 1 large sliced onion slowly in 2 2/3 tablespoons butter for five minutes without browning. Add 3 cups meat broth, 3/4 cups of bread crumbs, 3/4 teaspoon salt and dash of pepper and simmer for 20 minutes Mix 1 1/2 tablespoon flour and 3 tablespoons cold water to a paste, add to the soup and cook for 10 minutes. Add 2 1/4 cups of spinach puree and 1 1/2 cups evaporated milk. Reheat and serve at once.

* * *

SWEET BREAD CROQUETS—Prepare a thick white sauce of 4 tablespoons butter, 8 tablespoons flour and 1/2 cup evaporated milk diluted with 1/2 cup chicken stock. Add 2 well beaten eggs, salt and pepper, paprika and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Prepare 1 pair of sweetbreads by soaking in cold water for 1 hour, renewing the water several times. Simmer about 30 minutes in salted vinegar to which 1 tablespoon vinegar has been added. Transfer to cold water to harden. Remove all fibers and tubes. Cut in uniform pieces. Add the necessary amount of chicken to make 1 1/2 cups in all. Combine with the thick sauce. Cool and shape into croquettes. Roll in fine crumbs, then in undiluted evaporated milk and again in crumbs. Fry in deep, hot fat at a temperature of 390 degrees Fahrenheit (hot enough to turn a 1-inch cube of soft bread a golden brown in 40 seconds). Drain on unglazed paper, serve on a hot platter with watercress.

MINT GELATIN SALAD—Soften 2 tablespoons gelatin in cold water and dissolve in 1 cup hot water. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 4 tablespoons sugar and stir until dissolved. Add 1/2 cup lemon juice, strained. When the mixture cools and before it thickens stir in 1 cup diced apples, peaches and pears. Stir well, then add 1/2 cup strained orange juice, 1/2 cup shredded pineapple and 3 drops mint flavoring. Color green and mold in individual molds. Chill until firm and turn out on lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise.

BAKED STUFFED MACKEREL—Wash 3 1/2 to 4 pounds mackerel and wipe with a damp cloth. For the stuffing, melt 2 tablespoons butter and add 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon chopped onion, 1 teaspoon chopped capers, 1/4 teaspoon chopped parsley. Stuff the fish and tie together. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and spread with melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven 50 to 60 minutes. Baste often with butter and water. Garnish with lemon slices.

PLANKED HAMBURG STEAK—Chop 2 pounds of round steak fine, mix it thoroughly with 1 unbeaten egg, 1 cup bread crumbs, 2 teaspoons salt and 1/2 teaspoon pepper and 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 chopped onion and green pepper finely minced. Form into a flat loaf and fry in hot drippings until well browned. (This will take about 15 minutes.) Remove to a hot, well greased plank and lay strips of bacon over the loaf Pipe a border of mashed potatoes around the edge of the plank, place in a moderate oven and finish cooking for 20 or 25 minutes more. Add just before serving springs of parsley and the Julienne carrots and buttered beets, which have previously been cooked and seasoned.

DEVILED CRAB—Melt 3 tablespoons of butter, stir in 2 tablespoons of flour and 1 cup of heated rich milk or cream. Add a few grains of cayenne, a teaspoon paprika and a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add the yolks of 2 eggs slightly beaten and 2 cups of crab meat, cook 3 minutes. Stir in 1/2 tablespoon lemon juice and 2 tablespoons cooking sherry. Put the mixture into crab shells or ramekins and cover with buttered crumbs. Place a slice of lemon sprinkled with paprika, on top of each serving. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) until brown. Serves 6.

BAKED OYSTERS WITH CHEESE—Butter a deep baking dish and fill almost to the top with alternate layers of oysters and grated cheese, sprinkled with salt, pepper and a very little celery salt. Pour in a little of the oyster liquor and cover the top with thick slices of peeled tomatoes covered with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 45 minutes. Canned tomatoes, well drained and sprinkled with cheese, may be used instead of the fresh tomatoes.

The oysters may be left on the opened half shells and sprinkled with grated cheese, horseradish, salt, pepper and few buttered crumbs. Arrange the shells in a shallow pan and bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) 20 minutes. Or they may be broiled under, but not too near the gas flame 10 or 15 minutes. Cover tops with bread crumbs.

AFTERNOON TEA DAINTIES—Two cakes cream cheese (or 8 oz. loose cream cheese), 2 cupfuls flour, guava jelly, 4 cupful of chopped pistachio nuts, 1/4 teaspoonful salt.

Cream cheese and butter together and work in the flour with the finger tips. Chill in the ice box for several hours. Roll out thin on slightly floured board. Spread with jelly and sprinkle with nuts. Roll like a jelly roll. Cut in quarter-inch slices. Place cut side down on a greased pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F) 10 minutes until brown.

PINEAPPLE MINT PARFAIT—Boil for 5 minutes, or to the thread stage, 1 cup sugar and 1 cup of water. Pour it gradually over the stiffly beaten whites of 3 eggs. Fold in 1 pint whipped cream, 1 cup well drained shredded pineapple, 1/4 cup finely shredded mint cherries and 2 teaspoons mint flavoring. Color green with a little green vegetable coloring dissolved in 1 teaspoon of the whipping cream. Pack in a mold and freeze in the proportions of 1 part ice to 1 part salt. Let stand 4 hours. Serve in tall parfait glasses and garnish with a whole mint cherry placed in a rose of green whipped cream (put through a pastry tube).

CURRIED LAMB WITH RICE—Two pounds of lamb cut from the shoulder and cut in small pieces for serving. Brown in butter, then place in a kettle, cover with boiling water, adding 1 bay leaf, 2 small onions sliced, 6 pepper-corns, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, cover and simmer slowly for 2 hours. Remove the meat when tender, strain the stock in the kettle and thicken it with 4 tablespoons flour, which has been combined with 1/2 teaspoon curry powder and water enough to form a paste. Cook the gravy until thickened, add salt and pepper to taste and serve the sauce over the lamb. Place a border of steamed rice around the platter.

FISH AND VEGETABLE CHOWDER—Clean 3 pounds of fish, add it to 3 quarts of water and bring slowly to the boiling point. Cook at simmering point for 20 minutes. In the meantime fry 1/4 pound of salt pork until the fat begins to run freely from it and the pork is light brown. Cut the pork into pieces with scissors. Remove the fish from the water, take it from the bones and place it in a casserole with 1 quart of the fish stock. Add 2 cups of mixed vegetables (carrots, string beans and peas are good) and 1/4 cup sliced onions. Add 1 tablespoon salt 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce and 1/4 teaspoon celery salt. Cover casserole and cook 20 minutes, then add 2 cups sliced potatoes, cover again and cook for 20 minutes more. Serve at once.

and bake in a moderate oven until the egg is set—about 12 minutes. Serve on hot buttered toast.

NEAPOLITAN SALAD—Cut 2 cups of celery in short, thin strips, cover 2 green peppers with boiling water for 10 minutes; then cut in same size strips as the celery, add 3 canned pimentoes cut in the same size and marinate in French dressing for 2 hours. Chill thoroughly. Serve in nests of lettuce with a thick French dressing.

CREOLE LAMB—Melt 2 tablespoons butter; add 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper and 1 tablespoon chopped onion. Cook 2 minutes, then add 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup meat stock or water, ½ cup tomato pulp, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon horseradish. Boil 2 or 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Add 1 cup cold cooked ham which has been cut in small pieces. When thoroughly heated, serve on strips of toast.

BEETS WITH SOUR SAUCE—Beets with a sour sauce blend perfectly with pork. Wash the beets and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and set aside ½ cup of the water in which they were cooked. Pour cold water over the beets, which makes the skins rub off easily. Cut the vegetable into dice.

Now for the sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons of butter, blend in an equal amount of flour, and when the mixture bubbles, add the half cup of beet water. Then add ¼ cup of vinegar, ¼ cup of cream, ½ teaspoon of salt, a wee bit of pepper and 1 teaspoon of sugar. Add the diced beets and cook until thoroughly reheated.

ICE-BOX DESSERT—Line your bread pan with thin strips of sponge cake and pour a creamy gelatin mixture in the center for a handsome icebox cake minus the usual over-abundance of curve-producing ingredients. Arrange cake so dessert is easily sliced.

For the center you make a tutti frutti effect by starting with orange gelatin, then adding sliced maraschino cherries, coarsely cut; almonds, sliced dates, white raisins which have been plumped in warm water and shaken dry, candied pineapple and a few sliced green cherries.

CHOCOLATE TORTE—Mix 1 cup grated zwieback and 1 teaspoon baking powder together. Stir 6 egg yolks and 1 cup of sugar until very light, then add ½ cup grated almonds, 1 cup grated chocolate, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1 teaspoon cloves and mix well. Then add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 6 egg whites stiffly beaten. Bake in 2 layers in a 325 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes. Spread raspberry jam between the layers and frost with a chocolate butter icing flavored with almond.

VEGETABLE SOUFFLE—Melt 3 tablespoons butter, blend with 3 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper, and slowly add 1 cup milk. Bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly. To this white sauce add 1 cup vegetable pulp (any combination of left-over vegetables may be used), 3 well beaten egg yolks and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Lastly, fold in the 3 whites of eggs, beaten very stiff. Turn into a buttered baking dish. Set the dish in hot water and bake in a slow oven until firm. Serve immediately.

SPANISH VEAL CAKES—Mix 1½ pounds chopped raw veal with ½ cup bread crumbs, 1 well-beaten egg and 1 teaspoon salt. Shape as you would flat croquettes. Roll in flour, and saute the meat in ½ pound chopped salt pork or other fat. Place the meat cakes in a baking dish and pour 1 cup tomato sauce over them. Add a little water if the sauce is too thick. Add 1 large onion, finely chopped, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, ½ cup finely chopped green pepper and a few drops Worcestershire sauce. Cook slowly for 1 hour in the oven. Serve hot, garnished with parsley.

QUICK COFFEE CAKE—Melt 1-3 cup shortening and mix with ¼ cup sugar; 1 egg, slightly beaten, and 1-3 cup top milk or cream. Sift together 2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt and 4 teaspoons baking powder. Add to the other ingredients, together with ½ cup seedless raisins. Pour into greased cake pans and sprinkle with a mixture of 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 2 tablespoons sugar. Bake in a hot oven 15 to 20 minutes.

* * *

PRUNE AND CHEESE SALAD—Wash and soak large prunes until soft. (Overnight is best). Cook in the same water in which they were soaked, adding ½ cup of sugar. When soft, drain and chill, after removing the pit. Fill the center of the prunes with moistened cream cheese to which has been added ¼ cup each chopped cherries and walnut meats. Serve 3 prunes to each salad and top with a creamy mayonnaise, sprinkle with paprika and garnish with a whole mint cherry.

OYSTER FRICASSEE—Melt 4 tablespoons butter, add 4 tablespoons flour, and stir constantly until delicately browned. Add ¾ cup thin cream, ½ teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper and 1 cup liquid from the oysters. Stir until smooth. Add 3 dozen oysters, and bring to boiling point. When the oysters are plump and the edges curl, remove from the heat. Serve on toast.

BREAST OF VEAL STUFFED WITH RAISINS—For the dressing mix together 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 cup seedless raisins, ½ teaspoon thyme, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons melted butter. Wipe a 4-pound breast of veal, season with salt and pepper and stuff with the raisin dressing. Sew up and bake with strips of salt pork over the meat for fat. Baste the veal with the drippings every 20 minutes. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound, with 25 minutes additional. Make a gravy from the drippings in the pan.

EGGS IN BAKED POTATOES—Remove the tops of 6 large baked potatoes, and scoop out a center portion of each. Put half a teaspoon of butter in each potato and drop an egg in the center. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Put in the oven for 5 minutes or until the egg sets.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors and dietitians because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets.

ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Philadelphia Pepper Pot sounds new and interesting. We've never had it on our table. Goodness knows, I'd never think of trying to make it. But I'll try it, since I can get it already cooked."

"Why, I never realized there are so many different and fascinating Campbell's Soups. I usually bought only the Tomato and the Vegetable and one or two others. But now I'm going to get a real variety every time!"

These are some of the remarks made by women in the grocery stores these days as they make their selections from the

The Date Is a Nutritious And Wholesome Fruit

Recent discoveries are making it possible to control the size and development of dates. The cultivation of this fruit has been started, more or less experimentally in the United States.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

IT is in tropical, arid lands that some fruits seem to grow most abundantly, and they are of many varieties. Some of them become the staple foods of the people.

Dates are one of these valuable fruits, perhaps, one of the most nutritious.

From earliest times the fruits of the date palm have been the main dependence of the Arabs, of the natives of Western Asia and of Northern Africa. They are grown in Spain and Sicily also. Even before the Christian era, they were grown from the Euphrates to the Nile.

In our day, the Persian Gulf region is the greatest center of the date-growing industry. There are said to be around twenty million date palms in this region.

GROWTH INFLUENCED

For the most part, irrigation is used in cultivating these trees. The climate is exceedingly hot, the temperature being as high as 110 degrees F. for days and nights at a time. But the dates thrive and the trees continue to bear for 200 years. Bunches of the fruit weigh 20 pounds or more.

The Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture has recently made a striking discovery. Experiments have shown that different kinds of pollen will yield different qualities of dates. Pollen from some trees produce small seeds and small fruits that ripen early. Pollen taken from other trees cause the production of large seeds and large fruits which ripen late. This discovery gives the date grower the power to influence the time of ripening of his crop, and the size of the fruit as well. The discovery is of great importance, as it is the first time that this pronounced effect of pollen on the development of fruit has been definitely proved.

GROWN IN SOUTH

Date culture has been successfully introduced into some parts of the United States through the importation of offshoots of the Old World varieties. They mature readily in the extreme Southern part of California and in Arizona. One of the rarest dates now being grown in America is the famous Menakher date, from Tunis.

When dates are prepared for export in Arabia, they are dried in the sun. The Arabs gather and prepare the fruit. As the dates are so very sticky, there is every chance for dirt and filth to contaminate them, so it is important that the dried date be washed before it is eaten.

It is a wholesome and nutritious food. It has an appealing flavor and because of its good qualities is worthy of greater use in the dietary.

Humiliating and extremely painful . .

—these troubles that come from harsh, non-absorbent toilet tissue

AILMENTS of this kind bring mental as well as physical suffering. For these are troubles one must bear in secret.

Yet millions have them. In fact, doctors estimate that over 65 per cent of all middle-aged men and women suffer from some form of rectal disease.

How are these troubles caused?

In many cases, inferior toilet tissue is directly responsible. 580 doctors and 223 hospitals, recently questioned on the subject, agreed that "harsh toilet tissue may cause serious injury."

ScotTissue, Sani-Tissue and Waldorf are famous bathroom tissues specially processed to satisfy the three requirements doctors say toilet tissue must have to be safe: absorbency—softness—chemical purity. Each sheet is made up of millions of "thirsty fibres."

These specially treated fibres are extremely soft and cloth-like. Crumple a sheet in your hand. It feels as suave as old linen.

Roll it into a little ball and drop it in water. It sinks almost instantly—proof of unusual absorbency. Ordinary toilet tissue remains floating.

Only the finest fresh materials go into Scott Tissues. They are neither acid nor alkaline in reaction. Each sheet is fully sterilized in manufacture.

Children use Scott Tissues easily; the sheets tear squarely at the perforations. The rolls are closely wrapped to fit the standard built-in fixtures. Why take chances—when it costs no more to buy these fine quality toilet tissues.

Scott Tissues

NOTE: ScotTissue and Waldorf are the two largest selling brands in the world . . . Sani-Tissue is the new popular priced white toilet tissue embodying the famous thirsty fibre qualities.

STEEL MARKET RECOVERY NEAR

YOUNGSTOWN, Pa., March 21.—Steel makers look for an upward trend in operations and an increase in mill backlogs during the last week in March. Some second quarter business has been placed this past week, but there are still substantial unfilled requirements yet to be placed. District mills are in much better position from the standpoint of unfilled orders than at the beginning of the month.

March, as a whole, has been disappointing and business has been at a lower level with district producers than in February. The March average rate of operations will be close to 65 per cent, compared with 75 per cent in February. However, the upturn which is already under way is expected to gather quick momentum, and April's average is expected to be higher. New business will come to the mills next month in larger volume from the automobile industry, while building construction requirements will take larger tonnages.

Perhaps the most notable price development of the week is in decision of sheet makers to sell black sheets during the next quarter at 2.65 cents per pound. This is $2 per ton less than makers had hoped to get, but apparently new business has not developed sufficient strength to warrant a higher market.

Sheet bars, slabs and billets will command $33 for next quarter.

Dunn Carnera Booster. Calls Giant Real Fighter. Ex-Buc's Career Halted.

Old Local Hurler Dead. Father-Son Slabmates. Value of Teamwork.

BOXING VET PICKS PRIMO FOR TITLE

JIMMY DUNN, Cleveland boxing veteran, who was here Wednesday night to second his boy, Joey Goodman, in the latter's bout with Eddie Brannon at Duquesne Garden, sees in Primo Carnera the coming heavyweight champion of the world. Dunn was at the ringside when Carnera met Roy (Ace) Clark in Philadelphia, and was in Chuck Wiggins' corner when Wiggins faced Primo in St. Louis last Monday night. He says he saw enough in the two bouts to convince him that nothing can stop the big Italian from eventually winning the title if he is given a fair shot at it.

Primo Carnera

"Carnera looks to me like the coming heavyweight champion," said Jimmy. "In my opinion he has sufficient natural ability, in connection with his great size, to make him practically unbeatable after he has learned a little more. He is surprisingly fast and quick for a man of his tremendous bulk, handles himself well in all sorts of situations, has a perfect right cross and hits with enough power to stop anybody. Many a ring giant in the past has lacked competitive spirit. Carnera has it to the extent that he gets mad while in action. That would make most fighters easier to lick, but in the case of Carnera it only makes him more dangerous.

"PRIMO'S great height, strength and weight are his defense," continued Dunn. "His opponents are forced to keep punching and swinging upward, which puts them at a disadvantage. They won't reach him often, and when they do reach him they won't be able to hurt him. It's a safe guess that George Godfrey won't beat him, and, as for the proposed come-back of Jack Dempsey, I think it is a cinch that Carnera will defeat Dempsey and then beat Jack Sharkey or anybody else who enters the ring with him."

Dunn is considered one of the wise heads of the fight game, in which he has been a prominent figure for 30 years. Before he became a manager, in which he has handled successfully a large number of boxers, including Johnny Kilbane when the latter was world featherweight champion, Jimmy learned the game inside the ropes as a boxer from 1900 to 1910. In the same building where Goodman stopped Brannon here the other night, Dunn met Harlem Tommy Murphy in a no-decision six-round bout on June 15, 1909. He also appeared here on several other occasions, and during his career met Freddie Welsh, with whom he fought a 20-round draw; Abe Attell, Ray Bronson, Phil Brock, Tommy Feltz, Frank Carsey, Willie Moody, Clarence Forbes, Jerry Murphy and many additional top-liners.

LESS than a year ago a bright major league baseball prospect as a member of the Pittsburgh team, Infielder Coburn Jones, may have already reached the end of his diamond career. He is lost to the Newark International League club for this season, at least, and may have to quit the game altogether.

Coburn Jones

Jones became ill suddenly in camp one night recently after he had retired. He was removed to a hospital, where it was found he was suffering from diabetes. It developed that the player had been under a physician's orders for treatment of the disease, but had failed to carry out the doctor's instructions after reaching the Newark club's training camp.

ONE of the pitchers of Pittsburgh's earliest major league days has passed in the death of Robert M. Barr at his home in Washington, D. C. In addition to his Pittsburgh engagement, he pitched for Washington in the old Eastern League in 1885, and also for Buffalo, Rochester and Indianapolis. It was in 1883 that he pitched here, Pittsburgh's second year in the old American Association, then a major circuit. Uncle Al Pratt was manager of the club at the beginning of the season, as in 1882, but during the campaign he resigned and Denny McGee, known as Denny Mack, in baseball, succeeded him.

PITTSBURGH'S pitchers that year, aside from Barr, were Ed Nolan, John Driscoll, John Neagle and Billy Taylor. Taylor helped out in the catching department and anywhere else that he happened to be needed. The regular catchers were John Hays and Bill Blagg.

Ed Swartwood, a converted outfielder and in later days an umpire, was at first base, George Creamer at second, Joe Battin at third, and Johnny Peters, Denny Mack, Frank McLaughlin and Bill Morgan took turns at shortstop. The outfielders were Mike Mansell, Charley Eden, Reid Doyle and Lew Dickerson. The locals finished fourth in a six-club race.

POP WARNER, of Stanford, former Pitt football coach, whose father, Capt. William H. Warner, 89, died Wednesday in San Clemente, Cal., is the second prominent gridiron mentor on the coast to suffer a parental loss within a short time.

Ray Caldwell

Howard Jones, coach at Southern California, has just returned to North Hollywood from the Middle West, where he was called just before a brief illness caused the death of both his father and mother.

TWO more pairs of brothers have hobbed up in the big league. Pitcher Joe Heving, of the Giants, is a brother of John, the Red Sox catcher, and a brother of Al Simmons, the A's star outfielder, has joined the Cleveland Indians. But it remained for the Birmingham club, of the Southern Association, to top all the family acts in baseball by presenting a father-and-son combination—none other than Ray Caldwell, McKeesport product and former American League star, and his son, James Raymond. Like his father, James Raymond is a right-hand pitcher. The father is 42 and the son is 19.

BARRING the case of Tommy and Nelson Leach in Florida a few years ago, you'll have to go back to the days of Jim O'Rourke and his son, Frank, in the Eastern League, to find another instance of a father and son playing for the same ball club in a real pro league. Ex-Pirate Elmer Jacobs and his son, Jack, were pitchers in the Pacific Coast League in 1928, but Elmer was with San Francisco while Jack worked for Los Angeles. This is the younger Caldwell's first professional engagement. He has been pitching independent ball in Corydon, Pa.

Ray Caldwell, the father, made his start as a professional with the McKeesport club, of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League in 1910. He was so green that Senator W. D. Mansfield, owner of the club, had to show him how to stand on the rubber, but he developed so rapidly that the Yankees bought him in September for $1,500. Ray starred for the Yanks, Red Sox and Indians for 11 years before going back to the minors in 1922. He pitched a no-hit game for Cleveland against the Yanks in 1919. Pitching for the Yanks against the Athletics in 1913 with the bases full, he struck out Amos Strunk, Eddie Collins and Home Run Baker on nine pitched balls. He also shares with Elmer Smith, II, and Pat Collins the record of having made home runs in two successive times at bat as a pinch-hitter.

ROY (ACE) CLARK, heavyweight Negro battler of Philadelphia, who laster longer against Primo Carnera than any other man who has faced the Italian Colossus in this country, will meet another giant,

MERCER CO. FIVE FAVORED TO WIN

Probable Lineups

N. Kensington		Sharon
McCandless	F	McCamant
Wilson	F	Decon
Dayoub	C	Murphy
Ames	G	Crompton
Laughlin	G	Laycock

Officials—Beggs Snyder and John Irwin.

After tonight you can have your pick of four pretty good basketball teams to raise a fuss over as potential state basketball champions. Right now, at this minute, there are five clubs still in the running, but Sharon and New Kensington are going to do terrible things to one another at Grove City this evening, and when the smoke of this battle lifts, one of 'em is going to be stretched out quite comfortably on the floor.

Billy Ames

Sharon has been knocking off the W. P. I. A. L. champions with monotonous regularity of recent years, and with practically a veteran team, figures to turn the trick again this year. Coach Dickerson's teams have won four consecutive District No. 8 titles, no mean feat.

MURPHY BIG STAR

The noble Mercer Countians, led by the irrepressible Jimsy Murphy, was a favorite in their district before the campaign opened, and breezed through the race in fine fettle, with little or less trouble. New Kensington had to take part in a play-off to win the Section I title in the W. P. I. A. L. to even get into the elimination tourney, and then had to put on three great last-minute finishes to emerge on the top of the heap.

Coach Carl Glock will match Harold Wilson, Babe Dayoub and Billy Ames, his star trio, against the veteran Sharon combination of Murphy-Deem-McCamant and Laycock. Ames, one of the cleverest dribblers in the section, may cause no end of trouble to Sharon's defense tonight.

All in all, tonight's game looks like a battle between a whale of a good basketball team and a quintet of undoubted stamina, with the precious ability to fight courageously when behind, and keep on fighting until the end.

GAME SELLOUT

The game already has attracted a sellout crowd. Bob Thorn's small Grove City gym will be packed to capacity. It's practically impossible to get tickets. Maybe there will be a chance to do some scalping, who knows?

The winner of tonight's game will come to Pittsburgh Tuesday to face Lewistown, District No. 6 winner, which put out the District No. 5 champs, Windber, Wednesday night with no trouble at all, at all. The other semi-final game will bring together Lower Merion, of near Philadelphia, and John Harris, of Harrisburg, at Philadelphia in the Palestra of the University of Pennsylvania Monday night.

The regional winners will meet in the state championship final at the Palestra, in Philadelphia, on Saturday, March 29.

TOURNEY OPENS

The Washington County Interscholastic Athletic Association's annual tournament gets under way today at Trinity High School, Washington, with games in three classes. The schedule follows:

Third class—4:30 p. m., Beallsville vs. Midway. West Alexander drew bye and will meet winner at 2:15. 8:30 Friday, Blaine Township vs. West Bethlehem. Peters Township drew bye and will meet winner at 3:30. Finals will meet at 7 p. m. tomorrow in third class.

Second class—10 a. m., East Washington vs. Union High of Burgettstown. Claysville drew bye and will meet winner at 11:15. Friday, East Pike Run vs. East Pike Run. Cecil drew bye and will

Nick Altrock Says:

SOMEWHERE IN MISSISSIPPI, March 21.—I see Comiskey won't sign up Shires until Art tells him all about what he was doing all last winter and all I can say is Comiskey must have been on a desert island where they don't get newspapers. Why, for a while last December they thought they would have to postpone King George's birthday till Shires got off first page. If I was Shires and Comiskey asked me what I'd been doing this winter, I would send Commey all my press clippings and let him pay the freight. Shires is some fighter, at that. There are times when he looks better than Jack Sharkey, especially when he is talking.

YESTERDAY'S EXPLANATIONS—THE PUNO INDIANS WHO WERE MARRIED 100 YEARS—All the Puno Indians, of Bolivia, are remarkable for longevity. The record is held by the couple I depicted. Their marriage was celebrated five years before the Battle of Waterloo. The wife is 120 years old, and her husband is "going on 131." They have a great-great-great-grandchild who now is four years old. Lake Titicaca is situated in the Andes, 12,645 feet above the sea, and its climate is supposed to be remarkably healthful. THE TWO EYELESS FISH—These fish were taken from the Mammoth Cave in Kentucky. Their owner vouches for the fact that they have not been fed and that their water has been changed for the last four years.

TOMORROW: THE MYSTERY OF THE FLY

ZINN OPPOSES BRAME ON MOUND

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—All washed up on the Mission Reds, the Pirates today were all set for those classy Seals, who are rated high in the Pacific Coast League competition. In the series that begins this afternoon, the Buccos feel they have a score to pay, for it was these same Seals who gave the Freebooters an artistic lacing in Paso Robles last Sunday.

The first fight of a four-game set will see the Pirates fighting against a boy who once upon a time flipped the rocket in the interest of the Pittsburgh club. Jimmy Zinn, the big power-house sharpshooter, is down on the boards to open the battle. He will be opposed by a right-hander of physical proportions just as large as those of James in the person of Ervin Brame. Both, by the way, are excellent batters.

BEAT MISSIONS, 9-5.

Skipper Ens and his camp followers were quite convinced that they were hitting along toward a mid-summer gait in view of their showing against Wade Killefer's Mission Reds in the series that ended yesterday. The Buccos copped the "rubber" game with little trouble, the score of the third scrap being 9 to 5.

Four homers marked the battle, each side getting two. The longest sock of the pleasant afternoon was delivered by George Grantham, who hung the rocket on top of the roof of a house adjacent to right-field. P. Waner smacked out the other Buccaneer four-sacker, the right-fielder hitting into the left-field bleachers. Paul also had a double and a single. Shortstop Joe Cascaret

Tennis Federation Bans Open Tourneys

PARIS, March 21.—(INS.)—The proposed open tennis championship between amateurs and professionals was booted downstairs by the International Tennis Federation today, the convention defeating the amendment by what was said to have been "an overwhelming vote." It was said that the United States and England alone stood by their guns in voting for the amendment, which was to have changed the rules of amateur tennis whereby amateurs and professionals could have competed on terms of equality in the same championship.

The Federation declined to make known the exact vote on the measure.

TRAYNOR PARTS WITH MOLARS

By Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Pie Traynor is on the mend and the gloom of the Pirate camp has turned to joy. Pie is minus two teeth, but his infected eye appears to be clearing up. The captain of the Buccos parted with the molars yesterday, and less than an hour later he said he felt relief. The officials of the club left nothing undone in their effort to get favorable action on Traynor. If he continues to improve there will be no doubt about his starting the season.

The quick change in Traynor's condition was a source of deep satisfaction to Manager Ens. With Burleigh Grimes still among the missing, Jewel is anxious to get his first choice battle front ready and, of course, Pie is one of the stars of his favored combination.

ENS MAKES SHIFT

Meantime, Skipper Ens plans some changes. He stated today he would make a change in his batting order for the opening game with the Seals. The switch will move Grantham from his lower notch up to the second position. Comorosky will be dropped to the sixth spot, with Clarke batting in the cleanup position. Ens is not set on Clarke as a cleanup batter, but he intends using Traynor in this spot, apparently, and he wants to have it open for Pie when the captain returns. Moreover, he wishes to get others accustomed to places wherein they may hit after the season opens.

The switch concerning Grantham may be permanent, although Ens may make more changes as the preparatory season progresses.

Chillysauce

The Pirate hospital list had a new member today in the person of Pitcher Leon Chagnon, the New England boy who enjoyed his success with Columbia last season. Chagnon is out with water on the knee. It seems he has been nursing the ailment for some time, but only yesterday did the trouble reach such a pass as to take him out of battle togs. Chag-

HIGGINS TO SUCCEED BEZDEK AS GRID TUTOR

BOB TO TAKE OVER LIONS IN FALL

By JESS CARVER

Remember Thanksgiving Day back in 1920? Remember the Pitt-Penn State game at Forbes Field? Remember Bill Hess? Remember Bob Higgins? Remember all those things, huh? Boy, what a memory!

Bob Higgins

Well, anyway the same Bob Higgins who caught the pass Bill Hess threw from behind State's own goal line, gathered it into his sturdy arms and streaked for the opposite goal for a touchdown and the score that started State to a 20-0 triumph over Pop Warner's Pitt Panthers is to succeed Hugo Bezdek as head coach of football at Penn State, and will take over his duties beginning with the training season next fall.

NO SURPRISE

The appointment of Higgins as successor to Bezdek, who stepped out of his coaching role to take over the duties of athletic director, will hardly come as surprise. It has not been officially given out by the Penn State authorities as yet, but unless they change their minds and those of the members of the athletic council, the president of the institution will confirm this yarn before very long.

After graduating from Penn State, Bob coached at Washington University, St. Louis and then at West Virginia Wesleyan where he enjoyed considerable success. He whipped together one team of Bobcats that served Syracuse a defeat, even after the astute Pete McRae had scouted Wesleyan. Think that over.

RETURNED AS AID

They brought him back to State two years ago as Bez's assistant, and at the time little secret was made of the fact that Bob was to take Bezdek's place once Hugo stepped out. He is one of the shrewdest coaches in the country, and along with Dex Very was one of the greatest ends of all time.

The selection of an assistant will be left entirely up to Bob. He'll announce his choice all in good time, and may elevate either Larry Conover or Joe Bedenk to the post.

REDDING ELECTED

Albert C. Redding, a letterman for the last two years on Carnegie Tech's swimming squad, has been chosen to serve as captain of the 1931 tank team. Redding, who is a free style swimmer, scored many points for the Plaid in its recent campaign when four meets out of eight were won—the best season a Tech swimming team ever had. He is a Pittsburgh boy, and a student in the school of building construction.

The Tipoff

Spring football practice at Wash. Jef will start Monday afternoon, provided real weather attends the hinds of the Prexie Head Coach Bill Amos intends to put his squad through some seven weeks of work.

Larry Conover assistant football coach at Penn State, intends to return to the Virginia avenue beach at Atlantic City as life guard next summer. If you want to have some fun, swim out under water to the life boat in which Doc Sutt's Larry may usually be found reclining and upset it. How those life guards hate to get wet.

Buddy Overend and his hospitable frau will entertain at their home Saturday night for the crowd that trapped with the Tech football squad to the Pan-Am. Those included at Saturday's party will be Mr. and Mrs. Bob Waddell, Mr. and Mrs. Al Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. John Lisbon, Dick and Mike Vroy, Mr. and Mrs. Dex Mackenzie, Merle Minerd, Jack Casey, Mr. and Mrs. Lefty Lee, and Mr. and Mrs. Wally Burns.

If that crowd didn't have a swell time on the trip westward, then no party ever did. Wally Burns is to be entertained at nite this week, which will be a good time. Buddy can have any party going and Dex Very has an act all his own. And how about Casey?

They are betting on Sharon at odds of almost 2 to 1 tonight over New Kensington. The boys hope to give them a beating, for its greatest sport—the out stuff in a pinch. What a laugh it will be if they (New Kensington) put on another last minute rally, and pull the old ball game out of the fire.

The Pitt and Duke track squads depart early tomorrow morning for Morgantown, where they will compete in the second annual West Virginia indoor intercollegiate track and field championships in the evening.

NO. 3—THE BATTING STANCE

Mac grabbed a bat and stepped up to the plate.

"Hey Babe," he yelled, "get a load of this and learn something about hitting."

"Yeah," Ed butted in, "he looks like a slow movie of Ajax defying the lightning." And he did, too.

"Well, what's wrong?" he growled. "What's the matter with my form?"

"The first thing to do is to step up there flatfooted, with your feet far enough apart that your weight is evenly distributed," I told him. He did that.

"Now," I said, "relax. Be natural and keep balanced so that you're set to step any way the pitch comes."

The picture shows Mac standing up there—and it shows what I mean. You will notice that he is facing around so he can look squarely at the pitcher, yet his front foot is far enough advanced that when his shoulders come around on the swing they won't pull him "in'o the bucket."

Mac, I discovered, was a natural choke hitter. And that's fine. I'm not a choke hitter myself, but I believe it's the best hitting style. Joe Sewell, of Cleveland, is a good example of a choke hitter. I had Mac choking about three inches.

"Now," I told him, "let your right hand grip the bat from the underside, with the left hand on top (reversed for left hand hitters) and both hands holding tightly to the bat. The wrists should be loose and flexible. It's from the wrist snap that the real drive comes."

Mac is making two mistakes in the picture. First—his hands are about an inch apart on the bat whereas they should be close together. The second thing is—he hasn't the bat back far enough to be ready for the pitch. The real hitter holds his bat shoulder-high and a few inches away from his body. Holding it down as Mac is or letting it rest on the shoulder makes the hitter a sucker for a fast ball because he can't snap into his swing fast enough to meet the ball squarely.

The two big things, though, as I told Mac, are "Be natural," and "Keep your feet firm and your body always on balance."

STEEL CITY LOOP MEETS TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

The Steel City Baseball League, composed of two sections, will hold its final meeting this evening at Honus Wagner's. The wonderful strides made by this loop has set all sandlotters in the district talking, and out of a six-club loop last season, we find 15 teams all set to go in the eastern and western sections this year.

SPLENDID ROSTER

In the section playing from the eastern part of Pittsburgh, we find the East End Cardinals, East Liberty Crimsons, Young Mens' Star Circle, of Bloomfield, the Hale Club of Turtle Creek, Lincoln Place, Jack Potts, the Shine A. C. and the Golden Indians. In the Western Section are Demor, Dispatch, Observatory Civics, Fox A. C., Brookline, St. Joachim's, Moore Cardinals or the I. K. S. Moores.

There is little doubt but that this is the finest light first-class loop ever organized in the district.

The players are all around 20 years of age and are the type Honus Wagner is keen upon watching. The veteran is spending his evenings on the sandlots giving the Pittsburgh boys a chance he did not get without fighting hard.

TO CLOSE LEAGUE

The league will be closed at this session. All managers should be on hand. Practically all of the forfeits are posted, and the rules will be passed upon by the managers. Any other manager having a team in this class should attend the meeting, which will start at 7:45 p. m.

The Lincoln Civics will hold a meeting this evening at 7082 Lemington avenue. All of last season's and any new players wishing a tryout should be on hand.

this one a member of his own race, in Philadelphia next Monday night.

Clark is to go against George Godfrey for 10 rounds at the Arena. Godfrey weighs 250 pounds and Clark scales 235. The Negro heavyweight championship is supposed to be at stake on the outcome. Godfrey is generally expected to qualify for a match with Carnera by stopping Clark in quicker time than did Primo, who turned the trick in the sixth round.

Frank Morganweck

THE professional basketball success of the Rochester Centrals, winners of the second half of the American League race and opponents of the Cleveland Rosenblums in the play-off for the title, shows what can be accomplished by an evenly balanced club that depends upon team work more than upon the individual brilliancy of any particular star. For there is no outstanding star on the Rochester club. It is the first team ever to appear in a world series without having in its lineup one or two players who were talked about and played up to a greater extent than the rest. Manager Frank Morganweck, in the game more than three decades, is noted as a developer of players, but he keeps down individual prominence and make his men work as a team. There are no stars on the Rochester club, but it's a tall, heavy team and every man is a threat. The Rosies and Centrals broke even during the regular season. Morganweck managed Johnny Freund's last South Side Central League team, when it had Steele, Henschell, Frankel, Curlett and Penino.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Duquesne Preps of Pittsburgh won its way through to the second round of the National Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament yesterday afternoon by beating St. Gregory's High of Shawnee, Okla., 35 to 16, in a first-round contest. The win sends Duquesne against St. Michael's High School, of Union City, N. J., in a second round contest this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Beringer sent Duquesne into the lead with a short field goal as the game opened, and although a field goal and a free throw sent the opponents, St. Gregory's of Shawnee, Okla., into a momentary lead, Beringer at once wiped out the advantage with a field goal and three free throws that put Duquesne on top, 7 to 5, as the first quarter ended.

DUKES LEAD AT HALF

Beringer and Weselich scored a short basket apiece as the second period began, and although the Oklahomans attempted to keep the scoring pace set by the Pittsburghers, the accurate short range shooting of Beringer resulted in three more quick field goals, his teammates contributing enough points to keep Duquesne in the lead, 18 to 9, as the second quarter ended.

Beringer and Lesniak opened the third quarter by dribbling in beneath the net and lifting through a short basket apiece to lengthen Duquesne's margin. Sears added a free throw. Lesniak dropped through two quick field goals from the sidelines, and Sears took a long pass to lift a field goal through. Malek tipped in another basket and Sears put in a free throw when he was shoved by Furner. Rheinhart held Sears and was banished on personal fouls, Sears missing both free throws. Furner scored a short basket as the third quarter ended with Duquesne leading, 32 to 11.

LESNIAK SCORES

Lesniak opened the final quarter by putting in a short field goal from the corner of the floor. Kehras following by scoring the second Gregory basket of the half from long range. Mayer followed with a free throw for the Oklahomans, Sears balancing it off by dropping in one of two free throws. Mayer scored a short field goal to make the score Duquesne 35, St. Gregory 16 as the game ended. The lineup:

Duquesne—35.		St. Gregory—16.
Beringer	F	Furner
Sears	F	Mayer
Weselich	C	Shaffer
Malek	G	Rheinhart
Lesniak	G	Kehras

Substitutions—Tuman, McGaffery, Rodnak, Hoey, Mayer, Ford, goals—Beringer 6, Sears, Weselich, Malek, Lesniak 4, Furner, Mayer 2, Kehras 2, Mayer 2. Foul goals—Duquesne Preps, 5 out of 17; St. Gregory, 4 out of 11. Referee—Clarke.

After trailing for three periods, St. Rose of Lima, O., cut loose in the final session to defeat Campion Academy of Prairie Du Chien, Wis., 22 to 13, in the first game of today's program.

Spalding Institute, Peoria, Ill., defeated St. Theresa, Detroit, 46-10.

BUCK M'TIERNAN — JOHNNY PIAI

McTiernan, Swissvale middleweight, makes his first appearance in the ring since last December when he boxes Piai, hailing from Greenville, Pa., in the 10-round main bout at the Moose Temple tonight. Illness put McTiernan on the sidelines and he will be more or less on trial against Piai, a rugged fighter.

Remy Kremer and Steve Swetonic pitched winning ball for the Pirates, although both were solved quite frequently, forced to extend themselves.

Nevers, of football fame, received a fine ovation from the first four Pirate batters who went to the barrier. Brickell, Comorosky and P. Waner smeared three singles to right in quick succession and Grantham followed with a double that cleaned off the sacks. Grantham cleared the fence with his home run of the fifth, and later left the contest in favor of Charley Engle, who played stellar ball in the field.

Jimmy Mosolf also worked his way into the battle in time to connect for two pretty hits. The big pasture recruit slammed out a single and a double in two trips to the plate. This young man appears destined to bat his way into the majors.

Among those witnessing yesterday's game was Tom Davies, than whom there have been few better baseball players. Tom and his family came to the coast weeks ago. CHAMPS OF TWO LOOPS CLASH

By JULIUS LEVIN

Champions of two leagues come together at Sharpsburg High School tonight when the Duquesne Lafayettes, winners of the first half title in the County League, clash with the Penn Five, winner of the second half laurels in the West Penn League.

The Lafayettes being professionals, it was necessary for the manager of the Penn Five, an amateur team, to obtain a permit to stage the game. This was obtained from the Alleghany Mountain Association of the A. A. U. last night.

The first game of the playoff series for the West Penn championship between the Schneiders and Penn Five takes place next Tuesday at Forresters Hall, Lawrenceville. The game originally was scheduled for Community House, but this hall was not available.

A triple tie has developed in the Commercial-Industrial League race with Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, Potter, Title and Real Estate in a bunch at the top. Tonight's game between the railroaders and Real Estate will find the losing team eliminated. Monday P. & L. E. winds up the C. & I. season by engaging Potter. If the railroaders win both games a playoff series will not be necessary as the P. & L. E. team won the first-half crown.

The Intermediate basketball tournament semi-finals and final will be held tonight at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock. North Boroughs Y Intermediates and the Oakland Y Intermediates at 6 o'clock. Downtown and Center Avenue will play at 7 o'clock. The final will be played at 9:30 between the winners of the above mentioned games.

The reserve teams representing the Young Men's Hebrew Association and Heinz House will clash at Kingsley House next Wednesday night for the Institutional Reserve League championship.

The Y. M. H. A. defeated the old Coffey Club, 46 to 39, in their game last night. In a Philadelphia Company League battle, Duquesne Light set down Pittsburgh Railways, 35 to 30. The Mowry Buicks topped the Matz Club, 23-15, in the Homestead Junior loop.

Walton Smashes Backstroke Mark

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 21.—(AP.)—Frank Walton, captain of the Hollywood Athletic Club swimming team, clipped three seconds from the world record for the 150-yard backstroke here last night. Walton, checked by three A. A. U. times, made the distance in 1:39. The recognized world record in a 25-foot pool is 1:42, held by George Fissler, of the New York Athletic Club.

MOOSE SHOWS M'TIERNAN IN COMEBACK

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Can Buck McTiernan come back and regain the fine boxing form and knockout punch that he boasted prior to the illness that laid him low last December and has kept him on the sidelines ever since?

That question will be answered tonight, when Buck, now a full-fledged middleweight, begins a comeback campaign against Johnny Piai, of Greenville, Pa., in the main bout in the Moose Temple, downtown. Piai is a good, rugged fighter and if Buck has not regained his class and strength, he may be in for a rough night. His most recent bout was in the Moose ring and it ended in a knockout defeat at the fists of Mickey Solomon, of New Castle, whom he previously had stopped. It was after losing to Solomon that McTiernan was ordered to rest and take care of his health, before attempting to box again.

McTiernan always draws a large crowd of admirers and the Moose arena likely will be jammed tonight by the curious who are anxious to satisfy themselves as to whether or not he has been permanently affected by his illness.

A good preliminary card backs up the McTiernan battle. Hans Roberts, of Brookline, German welterweight, boxes Cowboy De Luca, of Lawrenceville, in the semi-final, a return bout, De Luca having won a decision over him recently. In the second bout, Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, will try to gain revenge over Billy Scholes, of the North Side, for a surprise victory the latter recently scored over him in the same ring. Paul Balint, of the North Side, and Frankie Lanz, of Sharpsburg, provide the opening bout.

Between Rounds

Babe Ruth, of Louisville, refused to take on Balting Gizzy at 150 pounds, holding out for 157, and as a result, the bout planned for the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night is off. Gizzy will be very busy, however. He meets Andy Andruzzi in the windup in Duquesne Garden, Wednesday night of next week and Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Louisville, at Wheeling the following Monday night. He also likely will box Stanley Williams, of Wheeling, in the latter's home town on April 24, during the horse racing meet, and has a return match pending with Joey Powell, of Philadelphia, at Johnstown.

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, suffered the reopening of an old cut on one of his eyes in his bout with Happy Atherton at Indianapolis, Tuesday night, and for this reason his match with Frankie Young, of Detroit, carded as the windup at the Moose Temple next Friday night, is off.

Midget Wolgast and Black Bill get on a 10-round semi-final for the world flyweight championship, so far as New York State is concerned, in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight. Al Ridgway and Kid Chocolate meet in the main bout. Johnny Dattis knows Ernie Mandell at Providence. Mickey Cohen meets Maurice Holtzer at Denver and Young Terry opposes Johnny Carrillo at Scranton. Mickie Strub boxes Joey Abrams and Tuz Phillips meets Harry Stevens in 10-rounders, while Henry Andrews takes on Harry Freeman for six rounds and Matty Gilardi mixes with Whitey Stevenson and Joe Boler engages Young Hernando in four-rounders at Erie. The Intercollegiate tournament gets under way in Philadelphia.

Heine Hart, Allentown, (Pa.) Dutchman, arrived in town this morning with his manager, Ed (Pep) Babcock, and Terry McHugh, former boxer, who is his trainer, and put up at the Ritz Hotel, across the street from Motor Square Garden, where he bouts Jackie Rodgers next Monday night. He was scheduled to work out in Flynn's gym this afternoon.

Jackie Rodgers and his manager, James (Red) Mason, returned yesterday late yesterday from Chicago, where Jackie inaugurated his training for the Hart bout, and the knockout star indulged in a light workout in an empire boxer gymnasium on the North Side. He will train there again today. Johnny Dundich, Jackie's other manager, got back from Chicago this morning.

Billy Angelo, who defeated Vincent Hambright in Cincinnati Wednesday night, boxes Billy Alger at Chester, Pa., next Thursday night.

Hart's record shows a list of only 23 battles, of which he has won 15 by knockouts, 10 by decisions, lost one decision, to Vidal Gregorio, 10 eight rounds, and fought a draw with Dan Billick. His knockout victims include Johnny Cannon, in nine rounds, and he has scored decisions over Pinky May, Jimmy Kappa-port, Matty White, Eddie Law, Johnny Vacca, Jimmy Corrie, Steve Hidick and Buck, among others. He claims he was sick when Billick held him to a draw, and he floored Dan three times in their second bout, but couldn't finish him. Dundich additionally also first fought a draw with Hodgers, but later was knocked out by him in one round.

Jesse Duke, of Clearfield, Pa., who meets Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, in the second bout on the Garden card Monday night, has been boxing about two years and has scored a number of knockouts, including among his victims Billy Fabo, of Johnstown.

Purdue wins Big Ten basketball title without losing a game. Having won the football championship last fall, the Boilermaker alumni should have enough satisfaction out of these two seasons to last them for 10 years, but they won't.

Knute Rockne.

With only six lettermen returning, Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, after his spring football practice, says that prospects for a good team next fall are very dismal. This means that Illinois will have a better team than last season.

Hinch, of Northwestern, by swimming the 150-yard backstroke in 1 minute 39 4-5 seconds, becomes a serious contender in this event at the national collegiates at Cambridge. Kojac, of Rutgers, has done several seconds faster, but if the Olympic champion swims the backstroke, then Schwarze, of Northwestern, has a dandy chance of winning the 100-yard free style.

Wisconsin wins indoor Big Ten meet. The surprise of the event, however, was Indiana's splendid showing. The Hoosier State seems to be enjoying a good year all around, with Butler, Purdue, Notre Dame and George Ade all contributing.

When Stanford and Southern California meet in their annual dual track meet, there are more bear stories, publicity of all kinds and statements by both coaches that their teams can't possibly win, etc., than we have in the important football games in the fall. It should be a tie this spring, with each coach doing the best he can to lose—character-building, as it were.

New York Boxing Commission is getting a big hand for its "Baumes Law" for foul fighters . . . . And for no other reason than that it is returning to fundamentals . . . . In the future when a boxer claims he has been fouled the referee either will allow the claim immediately or disallow it and begin counting him out . . . . . There'll be no more vaccillating, five-minute rests or examinations by doctors to determine the genuineness of the claim . . . . Back in the old days before commissions began to glorify fouls by paying attention to them and figuratively building mountains out of molehills very few bouts ended in fouls and very few fighters claimed fouls . . . . It has been only in recent years that the thing has reached the fashionable or epidemic stage . . . . The sanest corrective idea of them all is that of the New York Commission to go back to the old order and call a foul and quit worrying about tricks and spades . . . . The best way to kill off the foul claimers is to count them out . . . . They'll get up if they're not hurt . . . . . Babying them along encourages them . . . . And the best way to cure a palpably intentional fouler is to toss him out on the cool night air and refuse to sanction matches for him in the future . . . . The situation will right itself with the application of less theory and closer adherence to the old-fashioned rules of boxing . . . . . That thundering silence you hear is the absence from the city of Johnny Freund, who is gone for the duration of the American League playoff series between Cleveland and Rochester for the so-called world basketball championship, which got under way in Rochester, N. Y., last night . . . . A variation of the gag about having to burn down a school building to get a poor student out of it is the one about the lad who lagged in high school so long he finally earned the label, "The Student Prince" . . . . Donnie Beck, forward of the Duquesne High School basketball team, which was nosed out by New Kensington High in the final round of the W. P. I. A. L. series at the Stadium the other night, is one of the many nephews of Jules Beck, the amiable matchmaker of Motor Square Garden . . . . Jules was at the big game, in which Donnie scored six field goals, and though, like almost everybody else, the battle was in the old bag when the half ended with Duquesne leading, 26 to 16 . . . . New Kensington's great rally in the second half then swept the Duquesne players off their feet and netted a 38-34 victory . . . . Donnie isn't the only athlete among the Duquesne Becks . . . . Jules himself was an amateur boxer a little more than a dozen years ago, and so was another nephew, Mike, a brother of Donnie . . . . Mike played quarterback on the Duquesne High eleven, boxed as a lightweight and was catcher on the Duquesne High nine for Jim Howard, who later pitched for the Detroit Tigers . . . . Phil (Dodo) Beck, another nephew of Jules, also was an amateur boxer and later appeared in a few pro fights in the Penn Avenue Power House, when Red Mason was running shows there . . . . Eddie Kline, one of the stars of the Fintex team, of the County Basketball League, is another nephew of Jules, being the son of a sister . . . . The reason Jules has so many nephews is because he has five brothers and four sisters and he was the baby of his family. He has nephews older tha himself, Mr. Ripley, believe it or not.—HARRY KECK.

Chickie Rides With Jake But Refuses His Love

CHAPTER XXXIX.

JAKE'S eyes passed with amused tolerance over Chickie's glowing, excited face, filling her with irritation. She said abruptly: "I didn't expect you! There was nothing definite."

Through the door of the living room Jennie watched Jonathan tugging at his mustache. The complacent monotony, so drab, so tame, struck her with sudden aversion. She wanted to dash away—close them out! What did they know of lightning in the blood? Ah—what did they know of songs flashing through the heart? Even Jake—

He laughed, whispering softly: "You little liar! It was as definite as Monday coming after Sunday. And a good show, too! Come as you are!"

"It's too late. I'm tired, really. It would be over when we got there."

Jennie padded out, rubbing her hands. "Yes—hurry! This is no way to do. Mr. Munson has been waiting an hour."

She said flippantly: "Oh, let him wait! What his interest! I had to work. I'm too tired now."

Jake shrugged, his eyes mocking. "Take a ride, then; rest yourself, my dear. Give you a breath of air."

And Jennie nodding, mildly reproving. Just when she wanted most to be free—to be alone—to go sweeping her thoughts far out with him on the tossing, glad sea that was love.

She put her hand out in swift appeal. Jake turned toward her, shutting Jennie out. "Chickie—you've got to say goodby to me anyway. Won't turn me out stark cold will you? Not polite, my dear! I'll bring you back in half an hour."

She went.

It left her with a little poisoned fear in her mind — that meeting with Jake. He said nothing until they were parked on a lonely stretch below Jamaica. He slumped down in the seat and laughed: "Giving me the out, Chickie?"

She didn't answer, but, half glancing toward him, noticed the red mouth pale and unsmiling. His warm, magnetic hand covered hers. "I see, Chickie. You won't listen to an old dog, will you? Don't want me around at all?"

"I'm not making dates with anyone."

Jake Shocked

"As bad as that? You're calling off Wednesday and Friday, too?"

"Yes."

"Forever, I suppose?"

"Yes."

He leaned down to her then, black eyes hot, provoking. "Well, say it gently—draw tears, you little onion! Say it without so much as a sigh. That's affectionate, my dear!" His breath quickened, his face so near to hers she could feel it like a flame. The exultant voice sank to a husky murmur. "Chickie, you don't mean this? Let me speak—"

She put her hands up between them. He caught them, moving his hot lips swiftly over their palms. "I will—I want you, Chickie, I love you; oh, I'd give the world. I've not said much lately. I wanted you to care, Chickie—if you'd only put your arms around me—just once—"

She closed her eyes, pushing him with a little sob. "No! Don't, I can't stand it!"

He sat back rigid—white as paper. He began to fumble with the gears; his breath so loud it seemed tearing him. She was cut to the heart; tears rushed into her eyes. She hid her face.

"Never mind, Chickie." He touched her hands gently. "That's all right. I shouldn't have done that. I couldn't help it. The way you look I thought you liked me a little."

"I do! I like you a great deal. Oh, I think you're fine. I wouldn't hurt you for the world. But you see—well—I didn't think you'd say that now—"

Chickie Dreams

"No, I didn't mean to. If you knew how I want you—how I'd like to kiss you—how I've wanted for all these months—and a year before that, Chickie—my dear—" He clenched his hands on the wheel. After a while he said quietly: "You're not going to be married?"

"Oh, I don't think of such things."

He smiled. "That's good—a boy's love. Swift and hot. I think I want you enough to wait—Chickie—wait till you come back. Will you be glad to find me here, then? You rather like me. Yes, you do! You've let me kiss you! I'll wait!"

She couldn't speak for the faint heat that rose heavily above her. She felt a knife striking white through her heart. Boy's love—swift and hot. Oh, was that true of Barry? And she might some day look across the alley and find no sweet, strong mouth pursed gayly, teasing, to hers? Oh—and a day when he would be gone? A numb, faint terror pulsed coldly through her veins.

She lay awake that night and through the soft beauty of her dream there ran a hard, tight thread of fear. She felt Barry's fine hands holding her face, his lips trembling when he said how beautiful she was. She felt his head lowering to hers, warm, firm cheeks pressed against her neck.

Oh—she would wind her arms relentlessly about him—oh, she would bind him fast—she would drop on her knees and plead. Never again would he go. He was hers—always.

She looked neither back to the days when she painted for herself such a rich, magnificent future — Princess Chickie garmented in furs, riding in limousines, sailing to Europe; nor forward to the time when she would be grimly called upon to skimp, to suffer, to sacrifice. Her heart and all her thought dwelt in this golden ecstasy of the present. Only to keep it so—and always.

of the night; found herself sitof the night; found herself sitting upright, trembling — a starkness in her mind. She had dreamed that she and Jake were standing on a gray shore. It was raining—a cruel wind blowing. Jake said: "Well, I told you, my dear — a boy —" crying.

Tells of Her Love

Wild with torment to see Barry again; to hear him laugh warmly, looking into her eyes, saying: "Ah—the pretty one—how I love her!" Aching to have his glance going down like a silver light to bless her heart.

It was quite a while before she spoke of it to him. Often now as they rode in the evenings she stole a glance to his wonderfully set head. A little faint terror throbbed through her because it swept her so—just watching him. Sometimes she reached her hand to his neck, touching his cheek, whispering: "Barry, I'm dying all for love. And you?"

"And you do that again, frail—heaven knows what will happen."

They had paused at the crest of a hill, blue sky all a-patterned with star dust, arching down gently to the still, far-circling beauty of the thousand purple hills.

In the far fields the quiet homes wearing lights like pale yellow jewels.

She said softly, ready either to sing or to cry: "Barry—it seems as though we're at the top of the world all alone. And I love it! It seems that I don't need or want a thing but you. A little while ago if any one told me I would be willing to stand the hard things—and, oh—just want to stand them, I would have jeered. I would have run from that window of yours yelling blue murder!"

His mouth, full cut and sweet, came down to hers: "You really love me that much, Chickie? Why? Say it again."

"Then you are glad? But did you want it to turn out like this?"

Looking into her eyes, he shook his head: "No, ma'am! Or I would have hitched up my belt and run like the devil!"

"Oh, you would!"

Barry Sees Opportunity

He was suddenly remembering the idle September afternoon when he had stood at the window flirting. How aimless and happy all his fancies.

Chickie repeated: "You would have run—oh, why?"

He said, grinning but honest: "Well, you've answered it yourself. Who craves hardship or struggle? And I, a penniless youth riled with ambition! Why, when you first began to flirt with me—oh, all right, then, when I first gave you the merry eye I thought it would be sweet to love you in a nice, summery way, such a lily-face as it was perched there above me—"

Her eyes saddened and lowered; her white hands lay clasped in her lap. The sweetness of her went through his senses subtly like faint, lulling music. He took her hands and pressed them: "Chickie—that was long ago—before hand, as it were. Now—well, now, I only think of you and how dear you are—"

She clung to him—glad tears against his heart.

He came one evening a few weeks later with a great package that he held by a wooden handle. He hunched his head down against his shoulders, red, grinning: "Got something—Chickie—listen, here's a present—me to you—and, say—news! Remember that Ila Moore you met at the Abbots'? Father has all kinds of jack—"

Chickie broke in, breathless—a sharpness in her throat: "Yes! What about her!"

"Saw her father today—may get a big chance."

"With him? With Ila's father?' She drew her hands together.

"Through him."

"You'll take it?"

"Well, will I!" He thrust the enormous package into her hands. "Take it, frail. Say—if we get this we'll be sitting pretty. You an' yer steady!" He stooped and kissed her. "Pretty good, sweet?"

A pause—and then she answered,

By FAY KING

IT'S a great mistake for the former wife of a recently re-married man to step out in drinking bouts, or rush off into a new marriage to show how little she cares.

By doing this she only plays into the hands of her selfish husband and his new love.

Friends begin to think he was well rid of her.

This forced gaiety and happiness has a hollow ring. She is often invited around by former friends so they can gloat over her secret unhappiness, or so they can see how she will take praise of his new wife.

It is better if a former wife can slip away to some other place and begin a worthy life among new friends.

Mary Repeats Words of Noel's Attackers

I WAITED until Mary's paroxysm of sobbing had spent itself before I spoke to her.

"Mary darling," I said softly when the sobs finally had ceased and she lay quiet in my arms save for the long shuddering breaths which went over her, "will you believe me when I say that you need not worry any more about Jack Leslie or what he will try to do? Your Uncle Dicky and Mr. Underwood will attend to him. Can't you see that he was counting upon frightening you into keeping what he said to yourself? He didn't dream that you would consult anybody else."

She stirred in my arms and sat up, her face suddenly lighting with hope.

"I forgot to tell you that he told me that very thing. 'Keep this to yourself,' he said 'or the fat will be frying so hot that you can't stop it. Some of your fine relatives may think they can stop me talking, but they don't know me, and remember, when I once get started talking on the witness stand or anywhere else, it will be too late. Well, there's one thing, you'll have a nice lot of publicity. You and Noel can go on the small time at least if you want to."

"All I could say was 'All right,'" Mary went on, "and, indeed, Auntie Madge, I didn't mean to tell you. I thought I could manage somehow to get him the money."

"You poor baby!" I said suddenly enlightened, "that was what you meant by your talk of going into the chorus and needing money for your instructors when you came in so blue this afternoon!"

"Yes," she admitted shamefully. "I thought if I got a job and dropped some of my tutors—oh! I meant to be very deceitful—and skimped on my clothes I could manage to make up the thirty-five a week. But then this happened to Noel. Oh, if I only had known that beast meant to strike so quickly, I never would have taken Noel out tonight. He only went to please me, I know. It's all my fault!"

"Hush!" I said firmly. "If Leslie hadn't caused the attack at one time, he would have at another. It was just a coincidence that it happened tonight. But tell me what happened and how you know that it was Leslie who was responsible for it, since you said he didn't appear himself. Noel must have known, for when he became conscious the first thing he said was to watch out for you and not to let Leslie molest you."

"Yes, Noel knows Leslie is in town," she said, "although I'm not sure he understands that Leslie had anything to do with the attack upon him. But tonight when we started away from the theater—Leslie must have been following us all the evening—he met us almost face to face. There was a crowd and nobody noticed anything out of the way in his taking off his hat and saying 'good evening' as he passed us.

"But I was afraid they would notice Noel. He looked as if he would faint away right there. And he started toward Leslie who had gone on without another look. He had made the meeting appear a casual one, but if you could have seen the look on his face and the mocking way he spoke you would have been as wild as Noel. I was ready to scream myself, I was so angry, but I knew I had to be calm for Noel, so I held on to his arm with both hands and whispered, 'Oh, Noel, I feel so faint. Get me out of here quick!'

"You know those buildings they're tearing down on each side of the street—they're made to order for anything like that—and Leslie must have had a man on each side, to be sure not to miss us, for as we walked along a man leaped out from the scaffolding, struck Noel over the head, and said to me: 'With the compliments of Mr. Leslie, Miss. It'll be worse next time,' and then darted back into the pile of rubbish behind those buildings."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The 'Love-Panic'

JUST about this time of year, many a perfectly sane young man is attacked by a strange malady, called the "love panic."

Its symptoms are alternate exhilaration and depression; 'giddy head and cold feet; fluttering pulse and unreasoning fear. All of which are merely the "growing pains" of the heart, from which a man suffers, when he is afraid that he is falling in love—and doesn't want to.

Women never have the "love-panic." A girl always knows when she is falling in love. She has been expecting it from childhood and floats into it as gracefully and naturally as a swan in water.

But a man is always so cocksure that he never can and never WILL fall in love, that he simply won't believe it, when it happens to him. He struggles against it as he struggles against Spring cold or a fever; and fights it with all the antidotes he can conjure up, from plunging into work to running away, or even pursuing the wrong girl.

And the more he fights—the harder he falls!

The first thing the average man does when he discovers that a particular girl is beginning to mean more to him than any of the others, is to assure her, frankly and brutally, that he is NOT the marrying kind. That he never has been in love and doubts that he ever shall be. That he likes her "just for companionship," and all that sort of thing.

THAT," he figures, "will HOLD her!"

If the girl is inexperienced, this is something of a shock. But, if she is wise, she recognizes the symptoms, and merely smiles understandingly and agrees with him that he is probably a born misogamist and of the "perennial bachelor" type—cold, wise and impregnable.

And the next moment, he is yearning to take her in his arms—and take it all back.

One minute he is planning to pack up, hop a train and flee from her, forever—and the next he is seized with a cold fright for fear she may escape him. One minute, he wonders if she is trying to rope him in—and the next he wonders if he can ever hope to win such a paragon.

He goes home at night with the fixed determination never to see her again; and wakes up next morning wondering how soon he can get her on the telephone. One minute, he is vowing to himself that he could never endure to be "tied to any woman"—and the next he is pitying himself for being "lonely."

And, all the time, he is assuring himself desperately, that he is NOT in love—and that this is "just like all the others." Or just an attack of liver or spring fever.

He can't eat, he can't sleep, he can't work—until, all of a sudden, he wakes up some morning, admits that he's in love, and gives up the struggle.

* * *

THAT'S the "love-panic"!

The White House Gang

and exchange this ball for the twelve new ones?"

"That would be making us a present," said Q shortly, "and I don't know you. Apparently we get all the benefit. So there's a catch in it somewhere, but I'll bite. What else do you want?"

"I want you to write your name on the old ball," answered the man.

"I think you are a knave," remarked the well worded Q, with utter frankness, "but I'd be a fool, not to accept the bargain . . ."

The stranger tossed the ball back to us and hurried away. In the course of fifteen minutes, or so, he returned, and handed a box containing a dozen balls across the fence. Q completed this profitable transaction by laboriously writing "Quentin Roosevelt" on the cover of the old ball, with a fountain pen. This sudden acquisition of a dozen balls was more than acceptable, seeing that the organization of a real ball team was under way. The club had been insisted on by Walker White, Brom and Taffy—all of whom were beginning to exhibit playing talent. Q was enthusiastic, although no player. Dick and I were lukewarm, both being notorious fumblers.

Chew took over the duties of management, which left me as water-carrier. On week days I became a small edition of Gunga Din, as far as about Kipling's fortieth line. On Saturdays, when we played regular games, I never managed to have charge of the lemonade buckets as completely as I desired.

Team Organized

Nevertheless the Gang wanted a team that would stand up well in its class . . . so we went after players at school with reputations. Scouting was made easy by letting it be known that we intended using the White House garden as a playing field. The newspaper records show we "signed up" the following boys, whose last names, only, were given, in true baseball style: Campbell (pitcher), Lockwood (catcher), Talbot (first base), and Mock (third base). The other positions were Gang-filled.

As captain of the team, Walker White asked Q to arrange with his mother to place the diamond in the south garden; but no one, for obvious reasons, invited Q to join the team. Not unreasonably miffed, Q disappeared, ostensibly to get permission from Mrs. Roosevelt, but returned almost too promptly for any interview with her to have been held and said: "It will be all right with mother, I'm sure." He paused to allow the good news to properly percolate. Then, with the greatest care he added: "I'm sure she'd like me to be on the team . . . in center or right field." The team bowed to the inevitable.

So under the name of "The Madrids," Gang members and outside talent played "The Plateaus" and others and challenged all comers. None of the games were particularly brilliant, although Walker was soon to become a crack pitcher, and we received newspaper publicity.

Liked Reporters

Q took a sudden and quite understandable liking for newspapermen because an inexcusable error, at a critical moment, in a crucial game, had been chivalrously ignored by the correspondents. Q, playing right field, had become completely absorbed in licking the greasy leather-softener off his glove, when a grounder went sizzling through to right field, finally rolling slowly past the unconscious Q. The yells, taunts and agonized injunctions of "The Madrids" finally aroused Q to the realization that the ball was somewhere in his part of the pasture but not soon enough to prevent the slow grounder from presenting the lucky batter with three bags.

The newspaper story said, "Quentin Roosevelt held down the position in right field, and his playing was one of the features of the contest." Charlie who played second base, Brom in left field, and Walker at shortstop, only received positional mention . . . and all of them were utterly frank in explaining to Q just what were the true facts, with regard to his playing.

"A feature of the contest?" Q said, at last; "One of the worst of 'em, I fear. But I think it was really sporting in the newspaper man to put it that way. Don't you?"

Wait for Propositions

But to return to the incident of the exchanged baseballs: Three days later, acting on the amazing report of an usher, we hurried to the store of a noted sporting goods dealer, and found the ball the centerpiece of a window-display which was attracting the wistful attention of a number of boys and grown men even. The legend, "ball used by Quentin Roosevelt" was scrolled right across the width of the window.

The commercial possibilities of this transaction occurred to us immediately; but Q held that it would be very poor business for him to rush into the store, and offer to write his name on various articles of merchandise. "That would cheapen it," he said. On the other hand, if we were to wait until offers were made to us, then the procedure would be entirely justifiable, and we should be in a position to keep the price well up, possibly to something better than a dozen to one. We waited and waited, and although nobody came to us with business propositions, we lived in hope, and saw ourselves clothed in purple and fine linen, equipped with the things our hearts desired, and all for nothing more difficult of manipulation, than Q's scrawly signature.

Of course, to us, Quentin became immensely important. That is to say, we became anxious that he should be careful of his signing-hand, there being every likelihood of its becoming extremely useful at almost any minute. Summoned by ushers for various reasons, we experienced some sharp disappointments, seeing that we imagined each call might be that of a deputation of sporting goods' dealers, waiting upon Q for the bestowal of his signmanual.

Finally, Q rebelled. "I just have a feeling," he said, "that my father wouldn't like it so much, after all. You must remember, that he it was, who made the name important; and he's really the boss of it." Without any really tenable question, he was the head of the house—the chieftain of the clan.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Sentimental, But Not Necessarily Significant

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

What does it signify when a young girl wears a young man's fraternity pin?

HIGH SCHOOL MISS.

A GREAT deal—or nothing. Sometimes the pin is given as a symbol of an engagement, but of course if it is, this is made clear by the young man who asks the girl to wear his fraternity pin. That is, the girl must not just take it for granted—as I have seen girls do—that just because there is more or less a tradition of this symbolism she is engaged to the gentleman!

On the other hand, the lending of the fraternity pin may have no significance whatever, except a friendly wish on the part of the boy that he would like to have the girl who interests him especially at least for the time being, wear something that belongs to him. Nice and sentimental, that is, but anything but significant.

A Most Important Visit

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have just become engaged and neither my parents nor my fiance's parents know each other. Both have extended invitations to visit the other. My parents invited him first, though. My fiance's parents claim that my parents should call on them first. E. C.

NO; it is the other way about. As soon as the engagement is consummated and the fiance tells his parents the good news, they should go at once to call on the girl and her parents. This is a most important visit, and should be made, to be strictly correct, within 24 hours after the young man has informed his parents. Naturally, it is a significant visit, this visit of welcome of the girl into the family of her fiance, and naturally she expects that the visit will be made immediately and with high enthusiasm.

Where the Gentleman May Be of Assistance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct for a gentleman to allow a lady to get off a car or bus first? My opinion is that he should get off first, so that he may be able to assist the lady, but I have often seen the opposite done—that is why I wondered.

INTERESTED READER.

THE gentleman gets off the car or bus first, so that he will be in position to assist the lady when she steps from the car. He could not be of assistance to her if he allows her to get from the car first.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

WITHOUT question the hat is the most important detail of a woman's dress, having a direct influence upon the facial features. A tall, narrow woman in a tall, narrow hat is a beauty misdemeanor. Long-faced females should not top their brain containers with hats that are shaped like chimney pots. Working on the same principle, no fat-faced bit of loveliness should wear a crownless hat; the flatter she makes her head the wider her face will seem to be.

There is a belief now among those who treat hair diseases that the best way to get rid of excessive oil in the glory-knot is to give it hot oil rubs. Cocoanut oil, olive oil or castor oil thinned with alcohol can be used. It should remain on over night and the castile shampoo should follow in the morning. Try it.

To develop the bust turn on the cold spray. Be careful not to chill the hands. The idea is to chill the breasts so that the blood streams will become active there. If the hands are chilled the effect is lost. Follow with massage with cocoa-butter.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Care of the Children's Teeth

MUCH interest is being shown in the care of children's teeth, both by the dental profession and the medical profession. By public education they hope to accomplish what seems like an almost impossible task by any other means. Parents are encouraged to bring their children to the free dental clinics.

DR. COPELAND

The need for care of a child's first teeth is a matter which is overlooked all too frequently. Most parents believe that it is a natural thing for the first teeth to come out and that on this account they require no care. This is not true. If the first teeth are not taken care of, the second teeth come in with lessened vitality.

Give your child a chance to have perfect teeth. Take him to the dentist or clinic often enough to keep decay under control. Once every six months is not too often.

Nutrition has a place of great importance in the matter of teeth. The diet of the growing child should be carefully watched. His rapid growth calls for an abundance of good protein foods, and the minerals, which are bone and teeth-forming factors. They must have the necessary vitamins to promote growth and energy.

Milk is an essential for every child, at least a quart every day. If a child gets tired of drinking milk, change may be had by giving him this amount of milk in the form of custards, creamed soups, in puddings and other ways.

Even the youngest child should have an abundance of fruit juices, especially orange juice and tomato juice, besides milk in the diet. The growing child needs an abundance of the fresh fruits and vegetables, especially the leafy vegetables and tomatoes. He should be given liberal amounts of them, lettuce, spinach, cauliflower, cabbage.

Eggs are an excellent protein food. They possess easily digested fats, iron and the vitamins, especially the "antirachitic" factors. Soft boiled or poached eggs or shirred eggs are better than fried eggs.

Cereals served with milk form another excellent protein food. Oatmeal, rolled oats, wheatena and shredded wheat are all good cereals.

Children should be taught to keep the teeth clean. They should be brushed night and morning, with a stiff brush, with or without dentifrice.

Food should not be allowed to collect between the teeth. These spaces are a breeding place for all sorts of germs, for it must be realized that the moist mouth is a place where germs always lurk. Many persons use an antiseptic mouth wash these days. It is a safe habit.

It is of the utmost importance that your child visit a dentist or clinic frequently. It is necessary that food be thoroughly chewed. A child cannot chew thoroughly his food with decayed and broken teeth. Decayed teeth are the cause of many infections, and this in itself is reason enough why your child should have every advantage of good, sound teeth.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, March 22

THE astral influences for this day presage intriguing and uncertain events and circumstances, but are not entirely ominous. Affairs will be lively and well stimulated, and certain phases of new ventures may flourish, but others may disappoint, and employment may give concern.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of conflicting conditions with some affairs flourishing and other causing anxiety. Much depends on individual effort.

A child born on this day may be enterprising and adventurous, but restless and changeable, and given to intrigue. Its personal life may be spectacular.

A more "natural" skin-tone is in vogue—a rich, pearl-cream color, with delicate texture just made for caresses! Armand Cold Cream Powder produces this effect. You rub it first into the puff, then spread on smoothly, slowly, evenly—toning the face to a fresher tint, and more lasting loveliness.

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. Here are three reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) The Ford charges for financing are low.

(3) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. It leaves the factory ready for use. The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices. None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and figure out just what you are getting for your automobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

WHEN you do this you will have a new appreciation of what the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers are doing to keep down the cost of Ford cars. You will also know why it is possible to put so much real value into the new Ford and still retain the low price. The money you pay goes for value in the car. It is not wasted in excessive costs in manufacturing or selling.

MARKET TURNS UNEVEN WHEN RATE RISES

Irregularity Follows Call Loan Boost—50 Hit Highs For 1930—Trading Heavy

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—Unexpected increases from 3 to 4 and thence to 4½ per cent in the call money rate, which accompanied the calling of about $100,000,000 in loans, turned the course of stock prices irregular today after an early outburst of buying had carried more than 50 issues to new high levels for the year. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, with indications by early afternoon that total sales would cross the 5,000,000-share mark for the first time this year. The ticker ran as much as 40 minutes behind the market.

Paying off of the Treasury overdraft at the Federal Reserve, coupled with the fact that out-of-town banks and corporations no longer found the low rates prevailing here earlier in the week an inducement to lend funds on call, accounted for the sudden firmness of money, high rates here will invariably attract funds back so that Wall Street generally looks for a fairly stable call rate moderately above the low levels reached this week.

BUSINESS NEWS

Business news still gave no indication of any general recovery. Presidents of three large railroads commented today on the sharp falling off in freight traffic, which is now running at the lowest levels for this period of the year since 1922. Several new merger rumors cropped out during the day, the latest involving the proposed acquisition of Vick Chemical by Drug, Inc.

In the early outburst of buying, U. S. Steel common touched 190, up 3⅜ points, for the first time this year, but sold off from that level on profit taking.

Further efforts were made by speculators for the advance to revive enthusiasm for the motor shares. General Motors crossed 49, but met with heavy offerings on the rally.

United Carbon was a spectacular feature, soaring 10 points to a new high at 72.

BEARS UNLOAD

Youngstown Sheet and Tube broke 7 points, Johns Manville 4½, Columbian Carbon 3½ and Sears Roebuck 3.

MERGER FOES ANSWERED

NEW YORK, March 21—(AP.)—A committee favoring the proposed merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation made public a letter to Sheet & Tube stockholders attacking statements in a recent circular of a committee opposing the consolidation.

The figures contained in that circular, the letter says, "Are manifestly misleading unless their relation to the basis of the proposed consolidation is made entirely clear."

The letter then presents an analysis of the earnings of the two companies from 1924 to 1929.

"It is apparent from the above tabulation," the letter says, "that the total earnings upon 1 1-3 shares of Bethlehem during the last six years were practically the same as the earnings upon one share of Sheet & Tube as now constituted during the same period."

Members of the proxy committee who signed the letter are J. A. Campbell, Samuel Mather, Richard Garlick and John Tod.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 21.—(AP.)—A strategic move of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, to throw another barrier before the merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, was revealed last night when it was announced that the Cliffs Corporation of Cleveland had withdrawn 126,000 shares of stock from the fight for proxies.

Eaton is said to control 50 per cent of Cliffs Corporation holdings and the other half is owned by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company of which William G. Mather, of Cleveland, is president.

Withdrawal reduces the amount to be mustered by opponents to the merger to 274,000 shares, while proponents must obtain 800,001 of the 1,200,000 of the Sheet & Tube shares.

Porto Rican Sales 80% Ahead of 1929

NEW YORK, March 21.—February sales of the Porto Rican-American Tobacco Company, Inc., for the month were 80 per cent ahead of the corresponding month of last year, Luis Toro, president of the company, stated today. January sales showed a gain of 50 per cent compared with 1929.

Toro said he regarded the prospects of the company as much better than they were at this time in 1929.

Ford Not After Isotta-Fraschini

DETROIT, March 21.—Ford Motor Company has issued a denial of a copyrighted cable from Rome, Italy, to the effect that Henry Ford is negotiating for the Isotta-Fraschini Company, manufacturers of de luxe automobiles and airplanes in that country.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 21.—Wheat today advanced to a price 2c a bushel more than last week's bottom level. Argentine developments had much to do with the rise, a feature being reports that supplies of good millable wheat in Argentina were about exhausted. These reports were in line with advices that the Argentine yield cotained a large percentage of poor, lightweight wheat.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

Formation of the Electric Products Corporation, a holding company, which will acquire distributors of Frigidaire and Delco Light products in various parts of the United States, was announced here today. The new corporation will have its headquarters in Pittsburgh, and has been incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania.

Suburban Electric Development Company, Western Pennsylvania distributor of these products, will be the largest unit in the new combination.

Electric Products Corporation also has acquired for cash from the Frigidaire Corporation the factory distributing branch at Indianapolis.

EXCHANGE OF SHARES

Electric Products Corporation will acquire all the outstanding stock of Suburban Electric Development Company, all the stock of J. J. Munsell & Sons Co. of Columbus O. heretofore a wholly-owned subsidiary of Suburban Electric Development Company, and all the stock of Refrigerating Equipment Corporation of Indianapolis.

Stockholders of Suburban Electric Development Company will be asked to exchange their stock for that of Electric Products Corporation on a share-for-share basis.

SEEK OTHER COMPANIES

Negotiations are already under way for acquisition of other frigidaire agencies in large centers of population.

Electric Products Corporation has an authorized capitalization of 500,000 shares of no par value capital stock with no bonds or preferred stock.

Sales of Suburban Electric Development Company have grown rapidly in the past five years. Sales during the months of January and February this year were 20 per cent higher than during the same two months of 1929, due, in part, to some large contracts received.

Spang, Chalfant Cash Position Stronger

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

AN increase of $1,667,616 in working capital, additions to plant facilities amounting to $834,406 and reductions in funded debt and preferred stock were the outstanding developments shown in the annual report of Spang, Chalfant & Co., Inc.

The company came to the close of the year in a greatly strengthened financial position. Current assets of $13,885,085 were 8.2 times current liabilities. This compared with a ratio of 4.7 at the end of 1928. Working capital at the end of 1929 was $12,201,194, compared with $10,533,578 a year before. Cash amounted to $2,570,211 as compared with cash and call loans of $2,035,888 a year ago. In addition to this the company invested in marketable securities costing $500,000.

The improvement in current financial position was accomplished after making extensive plant improvements and reducing funded debt. Physical properties were carried at $21,561,429. Against these reserves for depreciation amounted to $1,373,291.

Bonds Retired

SINCE January 1, $276,000 of the company's bonds have been purchased and placed in the treasury. This was in addition to $501,000 of bonds purchased during 1929. During the year 1,773 shares of the 6 per cent preferred stock were retired through the sinking fund. This left 135,727 shares outstanding.

In discussing the year's operations, Gordon Fisher, president of the company, said:

"Your company was able to make an advantageous purchase of an additional 50 acres adjoining its Ambridge property, and while there are no immediate proposals for the erection of additional buildings on this increased acreage, it permitted a new railroad siding layout which greatly improved railroad connections with the new Economy line and yard now being completed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. New buildings, which occupied the land purchased in 1928 were completed in 1929 and have provided the greatly needed additional space for larger machinery and direct operation in finishing, resulting in material operating economies.

Production Costs Reduced

"THE board planned an important program for enlargement and betterments at the Etna plant, to be carried out during the fall and winter of 1929-30. There have been effected the relocation of entire departments and the installation of new finishing equipment. Operation of the units now completed has shown the wisdom of this program and has already resulted in decreased costs and greater production.

"The board has decided to develop during 1930 the laboratory equipment for the physical testing of its manufactured products and for chemical and metallurgical research and experiment. This development will meet a necessity occasioned by the increasing demand, particularly of oil country consumers, for physical qualities in tubular goods which were unnecessary and unheard of a few years ago, and will permit your company to keep abreast of modern research and experiment in chemistry and metallurgy.

Oil Well Supply Company

"THE connection which your company has with the Oil Well Supply Company has become increasingly valuable and important. That company has watched and followed all new oil country developments and has been available for distribution of the products of your company at all strategic points, not only in the older fields but in any new territory where oil or gas may be found.

"There has been close co-operation between the various departments of your company and the assistance each can give to the other in sales effort, engineering counsel and constructive suggestion has resulted to the mutual advantage of both companies to a large degree."

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPICS

Expect Announcement of Advance in Cigaret Prices Soon.

AMONG the strongest groups on the New York Exchange yesterday were the tobacco shares led by American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers and Reynolds Tobacco. These issues practically recovered the ground lost Wednesday. Tobacco shares are popular with investors because of their splendid earnings record and their position at the moment is strengthened by the prospect for increased dividends as a result of the favorable influence on earnings of the restoration of cigaret prices last fall. In fact it is reported that advance in prices by makers of the leading brands may be announced very shortly.

With the recent speculative leaders evidently encountering sufficient selling in the way of realizing to check advancing tendencies in that direction, bullish activity shifted into new channels. General Motors, one of the wheelhorses of the Coolidge bull market, was brought to the front yesterday afternoon, climbing rather spectacularly to new high levels for the move in response to enormous buying. The advance in New York came in face of the publication of the 1929 annual report, which, while generally satisfactory, revealed some discouraging features. Among the latter was the fact that while the company's sales were somewhat larger than in 1928, its net profit was $28,185,846 smaller, suggesting that its margin of profit on production was rather slim. The balance sheet showed investments in government securities down $86,085,000, reflecting realization by the corporation on such assets to finance in part its increased investment of $100,000,000 in non-consolidated companies and its own stock.

ONE factor considered unusually favorable is the report that the savings banks have recovered their losses in deposits of last year, with the total now in excess of previous records. This information is viewed as indicating that the conditions throughout the country are not as unfavorable as some of the pessimists have been insisting. It also reflects the conservatism of the public, and leads to the belief that part of these savings will again find their way into investment securities before long.

Skelly Oil has not shared proportionately in the periods of strength which have developed in this group in the past week or so. There has been some good accumulation, however, for the account of local interests who feel the stock will be brought into line shortly. Officials of the company are due in New York shortly. In the past, their arrival has heralded more activity and strength in Skelly.

REGARDLESS of the outcome of the plan for acquisition of Youngstown Sheet and Tube by Bethlehem, the latter is looked upon as one of the logical leaders in the industrial group later on. Bethlehem has not yet reflected the benefits from the two stock offerings made to holders last year. A considerable part of the money received in June for expansion has not yet started showing the return, as the construction work still is in progress. The company also did not have the benefits of its bond retirement plan until February 1, last, so that earnings per share, even in less active steel years, will make favorable comparisons in the future.

Anchor Cap has been rather quiet during the past few days after its spurt a week or so ago. The stock met some profit-taking by traders who were attracted to the long side by its action, but this supply was absorbed easily. Earnings of the company are favorable, and when the issue again moves ahead it is likely to attract a following. Important interests who purchased the stock several weeks ago have taken the shares out of the Street and reduced the floating supply. Any demonstration of strength probably will result in the revival of rumors of a merger with one of the big can companies.

General Motors Sales Are Lower

General Motors dealers in the United States last month delivered 88,742 cars to consumers, compared with 110,148 for the corresponding month a year ago. Sales by General Motors manufacturing divisions to dealers in the country last month amounted to 100,904 cars, as against 141,422 in February, 1929. Total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, amounted to 126,196 cars, as contrasted with 175,148 in the same month last year.

* Assumed by National Fireproofing Corporation

The business of National Fireproofing Corporation which dates back to 1889 is manufacturing and erecting fire proof materials of every description, brick, tile, earthenware and other clay products. The Corporation owns 20 plants in 17 localities in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois all of which are adjacent to valuable clay deposits. Clay deposits now owned or leased are estimated to contain enough recoverable clay for 60 years output based on the present capacity of one million tons of finished products annually.

The present Corporation succeeded National Fire Proofing Company on January 1, this year issuing its stock on a share for share basis. The 6% Cumulative Preferred replaced 7% non-Cumulative Preferred of the old Company which had been outstanding since 1902 and had paid dividends in 21 of the intervening 28 years including the past seven. The no par Common Stock replaced $50 par Common of the former Company which had paid no dividends since 1904 but paid 4% in January 1930.

Net earnings of the predecessor Company for 1929 were reported more than twice interest and preferred dividend requirements for the new Corporation. Current assets as of January first were stated approximately 4 times current liabilities and surplus account showed $2,380,744.86.

The management reports that the orders on hand at this time as compared with last year, and the prospects for additional business are such that even better results are looked for in 1930 than those enjoyed by the predecessor company in 1929.

Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, Trustee

BUSINESS AND PROPERTIES

Union Oil Company of California, incorporated under the laws of California in 1890, is engaged, directly and through subsidiaries, in the production, refining and distribution of petroleum and its products. The company and its subsidiaries own in fee (or mineral rights in fee) 194,600 acres and hold under lease 60,849 acres—all in the United States. Additional acreage includes approximately 400,000 acres owned in fee in Colombia, South America, and a half interest in concessions to approximately 880,000 acres in Venezuela.

The company's production of crude oil and natural gasoline, subject to royalties, amounted in 1929 to approximately 22,600,000 barrels, and total receipts (including crude oil and oil products purchased) to approximately 50,700,000 barrels. Present production of crude oil and natural gasoline, from 605 wells in California, is at the daily rate of approximately 55,000 barrels, and in addition the company is purchasing about 53,000 barrels per day. The company also has 273 wells shut in capable of a daily production of about 55,000 barrels.

CAPITALIZATION

Funded indebtedness of the company, additional to these $15,000,000 debentures, was outstanding as at December 31, 1929 in the total amount of $21,544,500, comprised of $1,103,000 First Mortgage 5% Bonds, due 1931; $8,934,500 6% Gold Bonds, Series A (secured), due 1942; $8,300,000 5% Bonds, Series C, due 1935; $2,000,000 Union Atlantic Company 4½% Gold Bonds, due 1937 (representing one-half of a total issue of $4,000,000 guaranteed jointly and severally by the company and The Atlantic Refining Company), and $1,207,000 Purchase Obligations.

Capital stock (par value of $25 a share) was, as at December 31, 1929, authorized in the amount of 5,000,000 shares, of which 4,215,953 shares were outstanding. Of the authorized but unissued shares of capital stock, 150,000 shares are to be reserved for issuance upon the exercise of stock subscription warrants accompanying these debentures.

Proceeds from the sale of these debentures are to be used in the expansion of the company's business, and for other corporate purposes.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Operations have resulted in a net profit in each year since 1896. Results of operations of the company and its subsidiary and controlled companies (including 50% interest in Union Atlantic Company, since formation of that company in 1927), during the six-year period ended December 31, 1929, were as follows:

Years Ended December 31:	Sales	Net earnings after charges, including depreciation and depletion, but before interest and Federal income taxes
1924	$65,950,218	$12,823,774
1925	74,378,772	12,456,110
1926	79,943,781	14,856,576
1927	80,273,327	12,[illegible]00,670
1928	85,367,771	12,724,9[illegible]8*
1929	88,864,519	16,743,397

*Includes profit arising from the sale of certain oil properties, which profit however was almost completely offset by reducing the inventory value of fuel oil stocks.

The maximum annual interest requirement on all funded indebtedness of the company outstanding as at December 31, 1929 as shown above, plus annual interest on these debentures, is $1,908,640.

Net earnings for the year 1929, after deduction of all expenses including interest and Federal income taxes as actually paid and/or charged, amounted to $15,019,635, equivalent to $3.56 a share on the 4,215,953 shares of capital stock outstanding at the end of such year.

ASSETS

The consolidated balance sheet of the company and its subsidiaries, as at December 31, 1929, without adjustment for this financing, shows total assets (including $40,878,559 of recorded appreciation in value of certain proven oil properties), after deducting reserves and all liabilities except funded debt, of approximately $200,000,000. Current assets are shown as $68,798,084 as against current liabilities of $9,947,053.

EQUITY

The indicated aggregate market value of the company's outstanding capital stock, based on current quotations (approximately $45 per share) on the New York Stock Exchange, is in excess of $180,000,000.

The company has agreed to make application in due course to list these debentures on the New York Stock Exchange.

We offer these debentures, with capital stock subscription warrants, for delivery if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to necessary action by stockholders and to approval of legal proceedings by counsel. Wiggin's Recipe for Achieving True Success

By B. C. FORBES

WHAT manner of man has developed the largest bank the world has ever seen? The Chrysler Building, the highest in the world, is not more essentially the handiwork of Walter P. Chrysler than the Chase National Bank is the handiwork of Albert H. Wiggin.

Al Wiggin has two outstanding characteristics: his ability as a banker and his ability to make friends.

TIME was when Mr. Wiggin, now 62, did not have the ambition to build up the most gigantic financial institution in all history. He decided some years ago to take life more easy and to devote more time to social and society life. Choosing a Boston bluebood as president, Mr. Wiggin became chairman and loosened his hold on the reins.

But that didn't turn out altogether happily. Since then the Chase has had a succession of presidents, but Mr. Wiggin has been the real dynamo generating the bank's energy. And I am quite sure he has found more real satisfaction since he returned to active harness than he did when he tried to become accustomed to leisure—this notwithstanding that he is a crack golfer.

I ONCE had a heart-to-heart talk with Mr. Wiggin, sometimes called "the banker with a million friends," on the subject of friends and on getting on in the world.

"Making friends is often called the passport to success," I started.

"Character—personality—is the passport to success, not friends," he cut in. "Friends made for an end don't last till the end. Any friendship that has to be bought, not necessarily in dollars, but by fawning or flattering or dining or entertaining, is not worth the price; it is not worth having. Smiles don't win the best kind of friends; it's what is behind the smiles—personality, ability. Friendships inspired by your pocketbook are not friendships; they are, as far as you are concerned, frauds, for they are not genuine, they are not true-blue, they are not sincere."

"But isn't it true that when you or any other head of a great organization want to pick a man for a highly responsible position, you don't pick a stranger but someone who is either a friend of yours or a friend of your friends?" I asked.

"That is true, and then again it is not true. It is true that big jobs are usually filled in the way you say; but the man who is selected is not selected because he is a friend, but because he can deliver the goods. Friends don't make a man, but if a man has the right qualities, the right personality, the right caliber, he cannot help making friends; they just feel drawn to him. The thing to do is to cultivate and develop qualities and abilities that increase your own usefulness. Then the friendship part will take care of itself.

"The man's a rotter who starts out to make friends for what there is in it for him. He's also a fool, for people will soon get onto his curves."

THE son of a New England preacher, Al Wiggin's first connection with banking was as errand and office boy during school vacations. The family purse did not permit of a college education, he became a bank clerk. Before he was 23 he was a federal bank examiner. At 26 he was elected a Boston bank officer, later became vice president of a larger institution, was brought into touch with New York bankers, impressed them, and was invited to New York as vice president of the famous old National Park Bank, later to be absorbed by Wiggin into his own Chase Bank.

IN New York Wiggin quickly developed into something bigger and broader than a commercial banker. He blossomed odt as a financier, a man of vision, of judgment, of creative ability.

During the terrific 1907 panic, both the late J. P. Morgan and George F. Baker sized up Wiggin's financial statesmanship. He was only 43 when made president of the Chase bank, which he had enormously developed during a half-a-dozen years as vice president.

The most influential directorates in the country soon opened their doors to him. He became a power in many fields.

Never did he make a greater impression in the inner circles of high finance than last November, when he joined the Morgan-sponsored consortium, as it was called, to combat the fierce financial storm which then raged.

WIGGIN'S philosophy may be epitomized in this statement:

"Personality and the ability to make friends are not superficial matters. They are not simply a question of what goes by the name of 'manners.' They are deeper things. They have their roots in the heart of a man. They are the man."

Gimbel Brothers Sales Increasing

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—Tendencies toward firmer money resulted in a less avid demand for bonds today, although the pace of the market was still brisk and well above the average for the past year.

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

The Year 1930 BELONGS TO ADVERTISERS

Deeds, Not Words, Make Prosperity

There is little of glory for the optimist who shouts "Business is going to be good in 1930," and while contemplating these epigrammatic words, let the merchant of the store next door take trade that might have been his, through advertising. The man who advertises his products, moves those products. Products sold, mean more products manufactured. More products manufactured mean cheaper prices, lower living costs and more employment. In the meantime the wise advertiser is increasing his volume, hastening his turnover, enjoying prosperity. Roger W. Babson, noted economic authority, pursues this line of logic and concludes, "Advertising can revive business quicker than anything else." In 1929, more than $2,000,000,000 was spent through advertising channels to move more than forty billions in merchandise. A recent survey in New York among national advertisers shows that both of these figures will be substantially increased during 1930. That, we claim, is the best evidence of the happy prophesies for better business. Its cause—one thing—advertising.

There Is News in Advertising

Advertising, in its broadest sense, is news. It is news of the most valuable sort. It is news of how the budget may be stretched, how the income may be made to do more things. It is news of the great commercial age in which we live. All of Pittsburgh's important merchants are contributing reporters to the Sun-Telegraph's complete advertising news columns. In these columns they tell you what is new, what is good and what, where and how you may buy. These merchants present you with facts. It is your duty to yourself to read these facts, to learn what they are reporting for your benefit. You should acquaint yourself with the advertising columns of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph every day. Use this treasury of mercantile information as your own buying guide. The Sun-Telegraph publishes all the store news of Pittsburgh's important merchants. Get the Sun-Telegraph habit. Keep abreast of the times. Read its news. Good news. News of true prosperity. Read the advertising columns of the Sun-Telegraph every day.

WILLIAMS GETS VERDICT, TAKES BEATING

Chuck Burns, battle-scarred heavyweight, claiming San Antonio, Tex., as his home, was the victim of one of those weird decisions last night at the end of his 10-round main bout with Harry Williams, Negro fighter, of the North Side, at the Palisades, McKeesport.

Burns, employing a two-fisted attack and carrying the fight to his opponent during the greater part of the bout, carried at least six rounds, while three went to Williams, and another was even. Jock Simco, one of the judges, and Referee Jimmy McLaughlin cast their votes for Williams, while Frank (Bull) Brown, the other judge, wrote his ticket in favor of Burns, who rightly deserved it.

BURNS HAS EDGE

Burns landed hard and often on the Negro heavyweight's jaw, crossing his heavy artillery repeatedly in the clinches and tying up Williams in the infighting. He carried the first two rounds by neat margins, lost the third, but came back with his hard punching to win the fourth and fifth sessions. Williams changed his tactics with the start of the sixth and endeavored to outbox the Texan, using a long, left jab, which missed its mark more often than it landed. He continued this in the seventh, earning a shade in this round. Both boys mixed it freely in the eighth, which was even, while Burns did the best work in the last two stanzas and near the end of the fight nearly floored Williams when he crossed two hard rights.

Burns dropped Williams with a short right during a clinch in the first round, but the Negro boy was up without a count. Williams weighed 179 pounds, while Burns scaled 181.

The semi-final was a slugging bee from the opening bell until the final chime, Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., earning the decision of both judges over Teddy Welch, Tube City veteran. Referee McLaughlin voted a draw.

HAYES STOPPED

Both boys went to it hammer and tongs with Edwards landing the majority of the blows. Most of Welch's efforts resulted from wild rights and left hooks that had little effect on the West Virginia boxer when they did land. Edwards floored Teddy twice in the third round, but Welch was up both times without a count. He weighed 147¼, against 143¼ for Welch.

Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, made a big hit with the fans as he scored a technical kayo victory over Casey Hayes, Homestead Negro welterweight, in the third round of the second bout. Hayes was floored three times before he was stretched out on the canvas and the towel flew into the ring from his corner to bring the bout to a close.

Ken Davis, of East Liverpool, won all the way from Albert Parone, of Pittsburgh, in the six-round opener.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., March 21.—(INS.)—Switches in several important riding assignments in the $140,000 Caliente handicap of next Sunday had been made here today.

The most important change was putting Frank Coltiletti on Alexander Pantages. Jockey J. Parmelee, originally scheduled to ride Ululiu, was given Reichert Brothers' My Dandy, while Redding, who was to have ridden Vanity, will have the leg up on Ululiu, winner of the Mardi Gras handicap at New Orleans.

Carnera Scores Eleventh Kayo Easily

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 21. — (AP.) — Primo Carnera, giant Italian, scored his eleventh knockout in the United States here last night when he put Frank Zavita, Newark heavyweight, to sleep in the first round of their scheduled 10-round bout. The fight lasted 1 minute 51 seconds.

The huge Italian, who tipped the scales at 275 pounds, knocked the Newark battler down with a left uppercut earlier in the round, but Zavita was up before the count of 10. Zavita did not land a solid punch during the battle. His weight was 235.

DAILY TRUE STORY

'My Theory Is——'

"MY theory is," I said to Prof. Graves, of our Modern English course at —— college, "that if one only becomes a good student of human nature he can become a writer of note—look at Dickens."

"That is rather difficult, Stanton," the professor answered with a hint of a smile. I felt my face flush.

"I'm not a purist—I meant to take Dickens as an example of a writer who knew human nature," I muttered.

"I gathered as much. Dickens was a newspaper man."

"Exactly. That is why I intend to lay my foundation as a writer by a few years' work on a newspaper, professor.

"Why not a post-graduate course in journalism?"

"Not necessary—same students day after day. On a paper I meet all sorts, study human nature that way. Learn how to size up people, learn the motives that move the average man and woman to think and act almost in a rut."

"Good luck to you, Oliver," the professor said.

"I—I'll dedicate my first novel to you," I promised in a burst of gratitude.

"Not if it is to be titled, 'In the Rut,'" he begged.

I didn't know that he was laughing at me.

"No, no, professor, what I mean is this—my theory is that just as a stream follows a channel, so do people let their acts move along in the same old channel."

"Interesting—very," the Professor said.

Human Nature in Raw

After college I found a newspaper job. It wasn't on a metropolitan daily, but still in a city of a couple hundred thousand. Plenty of human nature there to study.

I didn't start out as an editor, despite my college degree. The position wasn't so very big. I was day man at police headquarters and my writing consisted of notes on a pad which I telephoned to the city room for experienced men to go after and write up.

Still I could study human nature—and read a great deal.

I got to know Chief Garson quite well. He had a boy in college.

"Waste of time—but the boy's mother wanted him to go. Learn more outside," Chief Garson said to me one day.

"In a way—one can study human nature in the raw, at least."

"Raw is the very word," the chief agreed; "you never can tell what they'll do—the people who either come here or are dragged in."

"Oh, I wouldn't say that, Chief," I protested.

"Eh?"

"You see, my theory is that the great common herd of people are much alike—their minds work in a rut—just the same as we know that conscience drives the average man who commits a big crime to finally confess—give himself up."

"The hell it does," said Chief Garson.

I stared at him in considerable amazement, not because he had used that common, inelegant but forceful expression, but because he did not seem to believe in my theory.

"Conscience," I quoted, "is the champion of justice."

"You don't get me, Chief," I argued. "My theory is that Shakespeare knew his onions when he said that conscience made cowards of us all."

I purposely used the expression "knew his onions" so that Chief Garson would better understand me.

"Yeah? What police department was this Shakespeare ever in?"

Chief Explains

I was indignant then, but I think now that perhaps the Chief was trying to spoof me.

"But think how often a murderer will give himself up, Chief."

"Unless he knows he hasn't a chance to avoid having the goods pinned on him, he doesn't."

"Oh, yes, quite often."

"About as often as a chicken is hatched with four legs, young feller," Chief Garson insisted.

"Just before you honored our fair city with your journalistic presence—and theories—there was the Schmidt case. His wife was brutally murdered. Say, he raised heck here, said that our detectives were a lot of infants because they couldn't solve the crime. Schmidt was killed in his car and we found proof that he had killed his wife himself for the insurance money—no, no, my boy, your theory is all wet—murders do not give themselves up," the chief insisted.

I was trying to think of some forcible argument to offset this when an exceptionally well-dressed man of around thirty stepped into the office and coughed apologetically.

"I have just committed a murder," the stranger announced.

I shot a triumphant glance at the chief, but he didn't seem at all disturbed.

"Yes?" he said pleasantly, as if encouraging the man to go on.

"Yes—— it is true."

"Sit down, sit down. What is your name?"

"James Roland is my name, chief," he told him.

"Age?"

"Forty."

"You don't look a day over thirty," the chief snapped.

I was getting nervous. Why all those silly questions that could be answered later? Why not get all the details of the crime? I had all I could do to keep from shouting, "Why did you give yourself up?" I knew his answer would be, "My conscience troubled me." This was just the proof I wanted for my theory.

Admits Murder

"I am forty," the man insisted.

"Occupation?"

"My profession is gambling." He said it as if a little proud of it.

"Ah, a quarrel over cards?"

"Oh, no."

"Well, well—what is it? You have killed someone. Who was it, and why?" Chief Garson demanded.

"It was a girl, a beautiful girl," James Roland answered, and sighed.

Who?"

"Helen Warren, nineteen, residence 317 Oak street—and she was beautiful."

"When did this happen and where?"

"Oh, perhaps twenty minutes ago. In River Park."

"Where is the body?"

"At the bottom of the river."

"Since you were going to give yourself up, why make us the trouble of grappling for the body?" Garson demanded.

"I didn't intend to give myself up, but my conscience forced me to do it."

"Perhaps she didn't drown after you threw her in—she may have crawled up on the bank some place," Garson said.

"Oh, no, hardly that. You see, I cut her throat first."

A cold chill went down my spine. No wonder his conscience sent him to give himself up.

"Why the murder?"

"She refused to see me any more, and—well, I loved her," he answered, with his first show of feeling.

"And here I give myself up," he went on, after a pause.

"We would have got you, anyway," Chief Garson said, sharply.

"Never—I had everything planned. The girl is at the bottom of the river. So is the knife. The rubber gloves I used are burned in one of the park incinerators. The dead girl is the only one, or was the only one in this state who knew me—no one knew that she knew me. Not a soul who ever knew me knows that I came to this state, much less this city. I have"—he patted his pocket—"my passage on a boat to Brazil. The girl has no relatives, no one to search for her, and you couldn't have solved this murder in a million years—only my conscience drove me here."

Removes Makeup

I was making notes rapidly but paused and grinned at the chief again.

"Why didn't your conscience prevent you from committing the crime?" Chief Grason said, sharply, leaning forward and glaring at the man.

"Conscience pricks deepest after an evil deed is done. I see you doubt that I could have made my get-away. Look—"

The man removed toupee. Then a false mustache. He wiped off the spirit gum and I'm a so-and-so if he didn't remove some putty or something from the bridge of his nose!

Then this James Roland looked his 40 years.

He stood up and laughed.

"As if you could ever—"

Two men hurried in and up to the man.

"Come on, Caesar, we won't let Brutus hurt you," one of the men said.

"You've got me wrong, sir," James Roland cried, "I am Hannibal."

"Sure, sure, let's go out and cross the Alps," the keeper agreed. He turned to the chief.

"A new one we just got in over at Doc. Hibbard's private asylum," he exclaimed.

The chief nodded. The two men led the "confessed murderer" out, as he was urging them to "Bring on the Alps."

"You and your theories!" shouted Chief Garson to me.

They heard him laugh five blocks away.

Late James M. Guffey Typifies Oil's Romance

The golden romance of the petroleum industry is typified in the career of the late James M. Guffey, a figure in the oil business for many years. Old-timers in the Pennsylvania oil fields called him familiarly "Jim" Guffey. In the later years of his life he was dignified with the title Colonel Guffey.

Like many connected with petroleum production for many years, his experience dated back to the Pithole of the glamorous days of this Aladdin town that oil made to grow overnight to a city with all the metropolitan airs and structures, and to vanish completely just as quickly when the oil boom moved onward to Franklin, Bradford, Oil City, Titusville and the thousand and one towns, which, like Pithole, lacking the stability of those named, flamed like the fluid which gave them life and expired ingloriously. Memory of them is all that remains of their part in petroleum's golden romance.

These towns knew Jim Guffey when Western Pennsylvania was the undisputed capital and center of the petroleum industry. But Jim Guffey was a natural "wild-catter." A most worthy man in the oil business—the wild-catter. He was the pioneer, the discoverer of the new fields. So Mr. Guffey and his business partner in the firm of Guffey & Galey moved on and on and on. On to untried territory and unrevealed fortune, which, as usual with the daring, was high sometimes, often low.

A big figure in the political world, Mr. Guffey became, too, his career in that line of endeavor reaching its height when he became national committeeman of the Democratic party after having helped on two occasions to make the late Gov. Pattison the only Democratic executive Pennsylvania has had in the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

But it is as an oil man that Jim Guffey will be remembered—an oil man who pioneered and helped to open to the world new sources of one of its most valuable natural resources. As such he goes to his grave deserving of honor.

Deaths in Traffic Fewer, Can Be Further Reduced

According to a report of the Better Traffic Committee, based on compilation of figures taken from the coroner's office, there was slight improvement in the matter of traffic deaths in February, as compared to other Februarys. Last month the number was 14, the lowest in four years, and three under the total for February, 1929.

"The traffic records of February," stated Walter Rosenbaum, education section chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, "as serious as they are, show some improvement over previous years. Let us hope that they are an indication of a further reduction of such fatalities in the future."

Everybody, of course, will say "Amen" to that, but will everybody try to make it an "Amen"? Just a little special care, such as you take for your own safety when streets are icy, will do it. Just recently there was report that accidents throughout the state were comparatively few when the highways were icy, the drivers being extra careful because of the danger.

Surely, if we keep accidents down when road conditions are dangerous, we are criminal if we don't do it when utter carelessness is the principal hazard.

Smoke Over Pittsburgh Gradually Diminishing

Mellon Institute's announcement that the fall of soot in Pittsburgh during the past year was about one-third less than when it made its last previous survey of air pollution, six years ago, is good news. The increased purity of the atmosphere could, perhaps, not be regarded as an unmixed blessing if it were due to a lull in industry. Happily, that is not the case.

It is stated that production of heat and power in Pittsburgh's mills is, if anything, greater than six years ago. Smoke is being banished, not at the cost of prosperity, but by controlling combustion of fuel more effectively, by adoption of smokeless fuels such as coke and pulverized coal, and by increased use of electric power.

Housekeepers as well as industrial operators are contributing to making Pittsburgh a smokeless city by using greater care in stoking their furnaces.

A gratifying feature of the situation is that in abating smoke fuel is economized and money saved.

Safer Air Route Over Pennsylvania Is Urged

Eleven men prominent in aviation have written to Col. Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, offering a suggestion that should receive special consideration. It is that the Pennsylvania link in the proposed St. Louis-New York airway follow the Lincoln Highway as a matter of safety.

Some time ago another man in the local aviation field pointed out that a southern route was preferable to one over Central Pennsylvania, which has been the scene of serious mishaps to fliers. At that time it was pointed out that a route such as now is suggested had a greater safety factor in being cultivated and having wide valleys in which forced landings could be made with less danger.

College Showmanship

Educators Adopting Motion Picture Psychology.

Mrs. Lundy Howard Harris has been appointed professor of sin at Rollins College, Florida.

That is good showmanship, because certainly the younger people of this and other generations are curious about sin.

And if the lady was called professor of moral behavior she and her courses would not stir up much curiosity.

Apparently, the educators are slyly adopting the psychology of the motion picture industry. In fact, it may come to a point where the heretofore dull professor will have lurid posters outside his classroom and electric signs over the door. If the thing is done snappily, the youngsters will not be inclined to cut classes—the first time.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

AIN'T it funny, the things people will say about their neighbors? You never know whether your neighbors think you're so much as you think you are.

Anyhow, Mr. and Mrs. Squetts was talking one evening about their neighbors, the Tites, that had been living across the street from them for a year.

"You know, Bob," says Mrs. Squetts, "Mrs. Tite practically admitted to me today that, in spite of all their grasping and saving, they ain't got a thing for a rainy day."

"I know that ain't so," says Bob. "They've got three or four umbrellas they've borrowed at different times to go home with."

EVIDENCE is fast accumulating to sustain the theory that Columbus discovered a SENIOR, instead of a junior continent, when he bungled across the Atlantic and patronizingly called this a NEW WORLD.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

YOU'VE got to hand it to San Francisco!

While the mobs of unemployed were rioting in New York, Detroit, Seattle, Boston, Milwaukee and a dozen other American cities on Red Thursday, busting heads, hurling bombs, San Francisco turned her demonstration into a huge, friendly get-together meeting!

Not a pretty sight, a mob of unemployed. Not a nice feeling, to be hungry and broke and out of a job, I know, I've been. Perhaps, if you haven't, you can theorize and criticize and get all excited about the big show. But it isn't a big show to the poor wretches in it. It isn't "thrilling" or "dramatic" to walk up a winter street, with emptiness growing your stomach and worry raveling your nerves . . . and hate hurting you like a poison. It's plain hell . . . the hopeless sort of a hell that drives a man mad.

Mobs of hungry men are pretty much mobs of crazy men, dangerous as starved tortured wolves. A terrible thing to go surging up a city street. And most of our cities armed against that terror with gun and stick and bomb and mounted police. Not so San Francisco! San Francisco armed against violence with sympathy and understanding and a glad hand!

When the 2,000 marchers started up Market street, Chief of Police William J. Quinn—blessings on the smart, warm Irish heart of him!—came down to meet them. Came down on his own two feet, without gun or bomb or stick, to welcome them as man to man. Ride them down? Call out the reserves? Treat them like ruffians? Not William Quinn. Took them by the hand, smiled in their faces, wished them luck and posed, with their leaders, for the photographers. Leave it to the Irish!

Then away they all went up Market to the Civic Center. And there was "Jimmy" waiting—His Honor, Mayor James Rolph, Jr.—on a grand new platform all draped with flags, with another speech of welcome. What did they want? "Jimmy" would get it for them if it could be had. Let them draw up their demands—name a representative to appear before the City Council. They cheered! They'd come to hate. They stayed to cheer!

A get-together meeting instead of a riot! A friendly recognition of a man's right to be heard, even if his pockets are empty. A triumph of common sense, good fellowship and decency. That's a real American answer—the only civilized answer—the only answer that works.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Supplication

FULL well I know
All joys are brief:
Though white and bent,
Old Time's a thief.

Nor dare I ask
Too much of him,
Who goes with scythe
And visage grim.

I would not hold
The things of youth,
Though these by all
Are prized, in truth.

Careless, I cast
Love, beauty, grace
Away, before
Time's mocking face.

With all the rest
I well can part,
But leave me, Time,
A child's glad heart.

Text for Today For such an high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens; who needeth not daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people's: for this he did once, when he offered up himself."—Hebrews vii: 26, 27.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

BUT it should be remembered that these direct preservations of the material of extinct creatures are the rarest accidents. Most fossils (for any dug-up trace of an organic being is called a fossil) are not actual surviving bits of corpses at all, but bits of corpses which have been changed into rock by a slow translation and replacement.

They are copies at second hand of the original writing. As the bones or other enduring fragments lie buried they slowly dissolve away and are replaced more or less completely by mineral substances. In a word they are "petrified."

H. G. Wells

In this process, of course, they undergo varying degrees of distortion although in one or two exceptional cases the translation is astonishingly accurate, each little difference of texture in the original being faithfully reflected in the mineralized fossil.

The record may be even more indirect than that; it may be a dried footprint or the hollow impress of a bit of skin or a shell. From these scattered and accidental remains the palaeontologist patiently reconstructs his picture of the world as it used to be.

Occasionally a lucky chance makes us realize how scanty our information really is.

In California, for instance, a pool of water with sticky margins impregnated with tar proved a death-trap to thousands of creatures as they came down to drink, and to hordes of carniverous mammals, like wolves and saber-toothed tigers, which endeavored to catch the drinkers when they stuck fast. Now the paleontologist finds a hoard of treasures in that one pool.

In France, in the drought of 1911, it was noted that all the fish in a pool burrowed into the mud when the water dried up, and were eventually baked hard in their hundreds. Unless the geologists of future ages happen to hit on such a patch of trapped life, they are not likely to find more than isolated bones of these kinds of fish.

Almost the only complete skeletons of the extraordinary giant reptile, iguanodon, are those of a whole troop, 29 of them, old and young, which were found in a Belgian cave, obviously entombed by some accident.

Fossil ants, we note, are often found in amber. Amber is the fossilized gum which once exuded as resin from long decayed pine-trees.

Only an insignificant fraction of the ant population of the world gets trapped in resin; and only an insignificant fraction of the resin is hardened and preserved as amber; and yet almost all our knowledge of the ants of the past is derived from specimens in amber.

The amount of detail preserved to us is also very much a matter of luck. As a rule, nothing survives but the skeleton, and even that may be distorted and sometimes partly rotted. Now and again, however, happy accidents have caused traces of the softer parts to survive to our day.

For example, one or two specimens of the strange duck-billed dinosaur, trachodon, in the Upper Cretaceous (IV C 3), died and fell on a patch of soft mud.

They decayed and the place where they had been became covered with sand. But the mud beneath held the impression of their skins with surprising fidelity—so that now we have the form of their skins preserved, with a mould of hardened mud and a cast in hardened sand.

Some of the dolphin-like ichthyosaurs left records of their flesh and fins; and even of their faces, marked with a spiral twist by the folds of their intestine, and containing undigested remains of the fossil squid-like creatures called belemnites; the very first known land beasts left footprints in the mud across which they lumbered; the bird-reptile archaeopteryx stamped its feathers with astonishing detail in the fine-grained lithographic limestone of Solenhofen.

But there are even older happy chances than these.

Some Devonian plants (III D) are so minutely petrified that we can study the precise shape of the microscopic hairs protruding from their leaves.

And recently Walcott has discovered a wonderful array of invertebrates imprinted on Middle Cambian shales (III A 2) nearly as clear to view as when they were swimming about, ages before the first fish, almost five hundred million years ago.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 21.—Thoughts while strolling: The heady excitement of a Fifth avenue morning. Low, long racy cars. Silks, jewels, perfumes. Galloping pedestrians—going nowhere. Lumbering buses swaying like elephants. Helen Gould steps from a limousine in front of her home.

Something substantial about a father who carries a baby in his arms. A clerk from Christie's in London. The street hawker and his basket of white, fluffy puppies. Fred F. French, the solemn looking builder. Style copyists making quick furtive sketches in front of department store windows.

Arthur Hopkins, a Cleveland, O., boy, who made good in the city. The old Penwick cafe now The White Way Chop House. More Mexican candy kitchens. What has become of the mannish girl with the bachelor clothes? Oscar Eagle and his wife, Esther Lyon. Gallipolis folks.

Gilbert Miller's face usually shines like a silk hat. Capt. Blancart of the Ile de France window shopping. What a crossing I had with him one time! O boy, I can still feel it. Youths who raise those faint beards and sit on the floor at Greenwich Village parties. Rube Wolf, the orchestra leader.

N. T. G., Broadway's restaurant showman. And the best in the business, Edward Ransome, the new six foot tenor at the Metropolitan. The chestnuts vendors are gone. Marbles are being shown in the Third avenue candy stores. Robins are tugging at worms in the park. Spring tra-la.

Cellar book shop sign: "A good book and a quiet nook is our idea of heaven." A cafeteria features a strolling magician at lunch time. And a haberdashery offers a free cup of coffee to all customers. We are no short skate. Here are some free comas . . . . . Share them among you.

Next winter I'm going to have one of those electric log fires. New Chinese laundry heralds: "The slickest slick in town." J. M. Flagg's pompadour. Elmer Davis Aurora, Indiana's literary hope, is getting gray. Sandwich men sucking at pipes and chirping like sparrows.

In our social circle — the younger Grand Central set—they were discussing first impressions of New York. Mine was the absence of telephone poles and wires along the streets.

Another outstanding impression for the visitor is the smallness of theaters and their foyers. The first theater I visited was the Globe, and I could not enjoy the stupendous musical extravaganza for counting up the house on my fingers and wondering how they made expenses.

In those days, incidentally, Lillian Lorraine rushing out over the audience in a swing of roses, was the toast of the town. She tossed fresh posies into the air and Broadway beaux dropped in nightly to see her.

A few years later Julia Sanderson was singing "They Wouldn't Believe Me" at the old Knickerbocker. This song also drew a group of faithful nightly, among them Louis Werba and this chronicler, who both knew the doorman and got in free.

And the gayest night haunt in town was the Domino Room at uptown Bustanoby's with the first and at the time the only ladies' bar in town. Every night you saw there the Dolly Sisters, Diamond Jim, the Castles and others riding the top wave.

Uptown at this period the chaste architectural splendors of the Hotel Ansonia — dubbed "Stokes' Folly"—were being discussed. And the pinnacle of a Broadway night out was a drive in a low-necked lorry to Pabst's in Harlem for one of those sweating stone mugs of beer. Or maybe two.

A dog recently served a subpena on a New Yorker. Most people thought only rats served them.

"I would like," writes a movie press agent, "for you to visit the studio and meet the latest in 'It' girls. She makes the pulse pump and the heart flutter."

Even if there were 16 of them—trained by Tiller—I wouldn't be interested.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

EVERY month you plan to pay your gas bill, your water bill, electric light bill, grocery bill, rent, house intallments and other things purchased on the time payment plan.

But do you pay your indebtedness to your savings account?

If you would look upon your savings in the same way as other payments you know you have to meet each month you would carry out plans to meet them.

To meet your other obligations you deny yourself pleasures—why not be as self-sacrificing with savings which ultimately benefit you.

As you are managing, you seem to pay everything and everyone but yourself.

If you owed the amount you think of as savings to anyone but yourself you would manage some way to pay it.

But always you put off till a future date taking care of yourself and your family.

If you were to be always alone it might not be so bad.

But with your children to be educated, provision made for illness that comes so unexpectedly, your lack of a savings account is going to make others besides yourself share in your hardships.
